FLHS Falls into Autumn Routine

Throngs of summer-weary students blocked the first floor hall on August 31. Amid the frustration of finding rooms according to the numbers on the pink schedule cards prepared by computer, reporting broken lockers to Mr. Rand's office and filling out a myriad of forms, students found time to exchange exciting rehabs of their summer vacations. Some Rangers found it hard to get back into the routine of crowded buses, parking lot puddles and hours of limited talking and movement.

Hundreds of loyal fans attended the first football game on September 4, and once again cheered the Rangers on to victory.

Another event of the fall season was the cheerleaders' sock hop on September 18. Cheerleaders and other students as well danced to the lively beat of the "Cover-Up."

Rangers De-Claw the Fridley Tigers

Spirits soared high among FLHS Rangers during the lively 1970 Homecoming week. Colorful posters and buttons crying the slogan "De-Claw the Tiger Paw" filled the halls while anxious students readied themselves for the numerous Homecoming events to come.

A long-lost activity was revived as organizations displayed their creativity with floats they had decorated for the parade. The pizza party in White Bear Lake gave parade watchers an opportunity to fill up before the street dance held behind the school.

Each organization showed their hilarious interpretation of the Homecoming slogan during the annual skit night. Setting out in search of the mighty claw of the Tiger paw, the Spanish Club presented their award-winning performance. Following the skits, Rangers took turns battering an old car that was painted in stripes to match Fridley Tiger.

Bleachers were filled with screaming fans for the game Friday night. The half-time show included a performance of the FLHS Marching Band. Although it appeared that the Rangers suffered an upset, the final score was 1-0 as a result of a forfeit by Fridley.

Maroon and gold streamers decorated the Forest Lake Elementary All-Purpose Room for the dance after the game. Football fans and players relaxed to the beat of the "Cover-up."

Sadie Enlivened by Surroundings

The Sadie Hawkins Dance was highlighted by a picture taking booth operated by Keith Sahlin and Roger Ashby. Photos were taken for a quarter and returned the next week. The dance also featured Marryin' Sam, Joe Hallberg, and Divorcin' Dan, Bob Waddell, who were overpowered with business. The affair took place in its usual Dogpatch setting with couples dressed in hillbilly finery. Adding to the atmosphere were a still, pictures of L'il Abner and Daisy Mae and a clothesline complete with long johns. Stumps and bales of hay spread around the room helped transform the elementary all-purpose room into a country town. After planning and coniving, triumphant gals danced with their beaus to the music of the "Blue Mist."

Winter Abounds in Varied Events

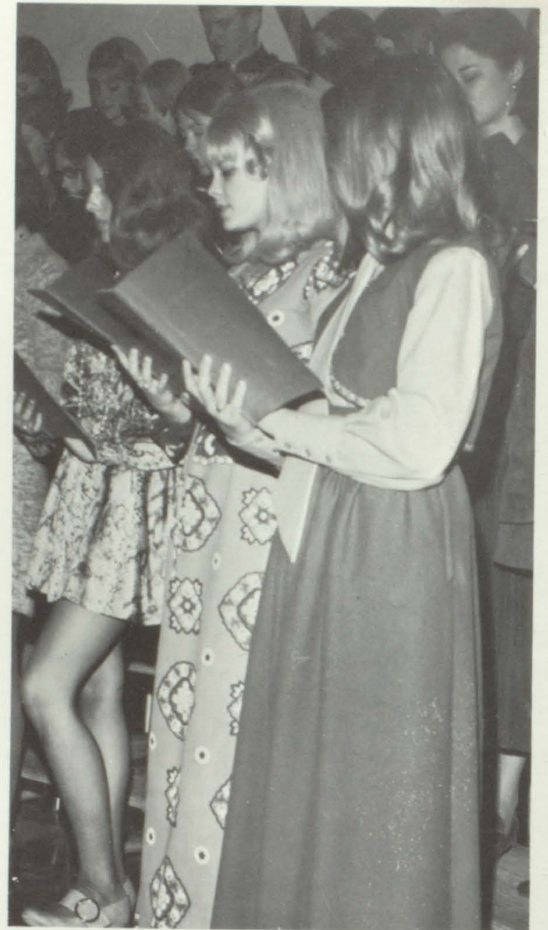

With the coming of winter, also came excitement for many students of FLHS. Between watching snowmobile races and chasing fire engines, they did manage to get some homework done.

A break from the weariness of school came when students were evacuated to the Forest Lake Elementary because of a false bomb scare in late January, an unfortunate event.

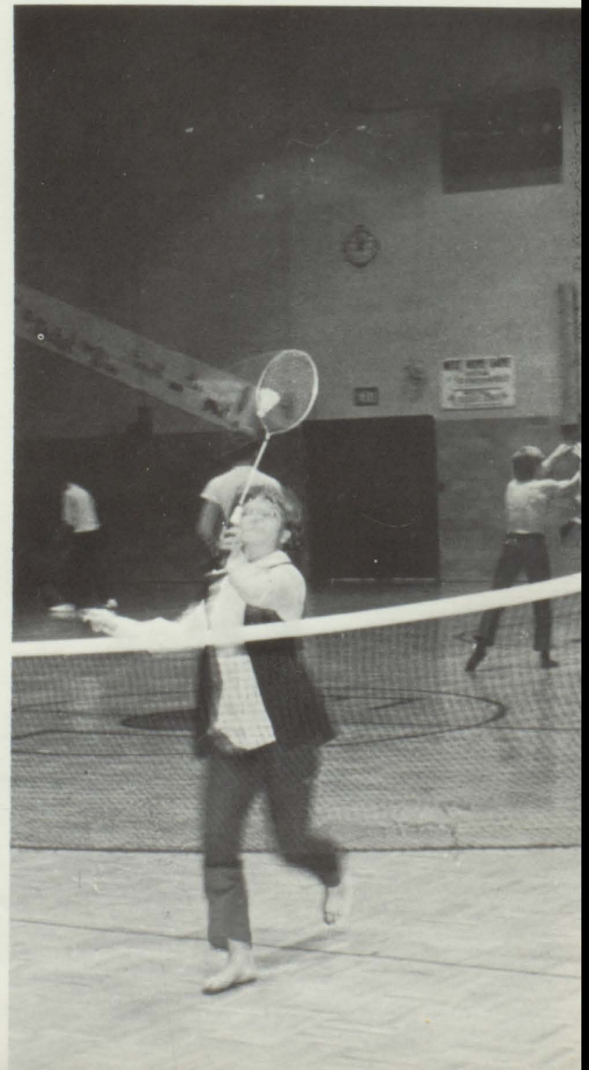

The one-act play was taken from a short story, "The Test," and was directed by Mr. Carlson. At Chisago Lakes High School, Joe Tritchler was presented the best actor award for his portrayal of the grandfather in the contest play.

As an opportunity to stimulate interest, mini-courses ranging from karate for girls and cooking for boys to astrology and social dancing were offered the first week in March.

Amidst many winter activities, students still looked forward to Easter, spring events and finally their summer vacation.

Play, Drill Squad Highlight Dance

The Forest View Elementary gymnasium adopted the air of a cozy, eighteenth century home on December 18, 1970. Here, the second annual Lettermen's Christmas Dance was held, even though the dinner was cancelled due to a lack of participation. Couples danced to the music of the "Four To Go" and the highlights of the evening were a salute by the St. Thomas Drill Squad and a short play dramatized by a group of FLHS students. Between dances, students were busy munching on various Christmas cookies and drinking 'wassail'. The dance came to an end when Santa appeared and distributed gifts to the "good children."

Happy Faces Fill "Cupid's Castle"

Inexperienced sophomores tossed shy glances toward mere acquaintances at their first formal dance. The theme, "Cupid's Castle," was carried out with hearts and cupids covering the walls, baskets filled with gaily colored balloons and a blue castle which provided the setting for the band, the "Cover-Up."

Everyone watched the coronation, silently wondering who were to be the new king and queen. At the sound of the trumpet, Queen Cheri Hanson and King Roger Magnuson were escorted to their throne by the 1969 royalty to reign over the remainder of the dance. Afterward, most of the couples proceeded to their favorite restaurant for a late evening dinner.

Fine Arts Offers Of Mice and Men

Long hours of rehearsing and memorizing were left behind as the curtains opened on John Steinbeck's loose tragedy, "Of Mice and Men."

The close friendship of two traveling ranch hands, Lennie with the mind of a child and George, aware of the problem, is jeopardized when Lennie uses his uncontrollable strength.

Early tryouts, held by acting director Mr. Carlson, assembled a variety of talents which resulted in the selection of ten performers who dedicated six weeks of their spare time to the tedious and necessary preparations.

The art classes, under the supervision of Mr. Hansen, constructed the set which created the realistic background and set the mood for the ranch scenes. Technical Director, Mrs. Howe, aided students in collecting props and sound effects to add to the realism of the show.

Opening night climaxed the actors' many hours of agonizing practice. Performances opened May 14 and continued through May 16, bringing to Forest Lake a change from musical comedy to serious tragic drama.

Graduates of '70 Claim Diplomas

The arrival of spring brought mounting anticipation to the senior class of 1970.

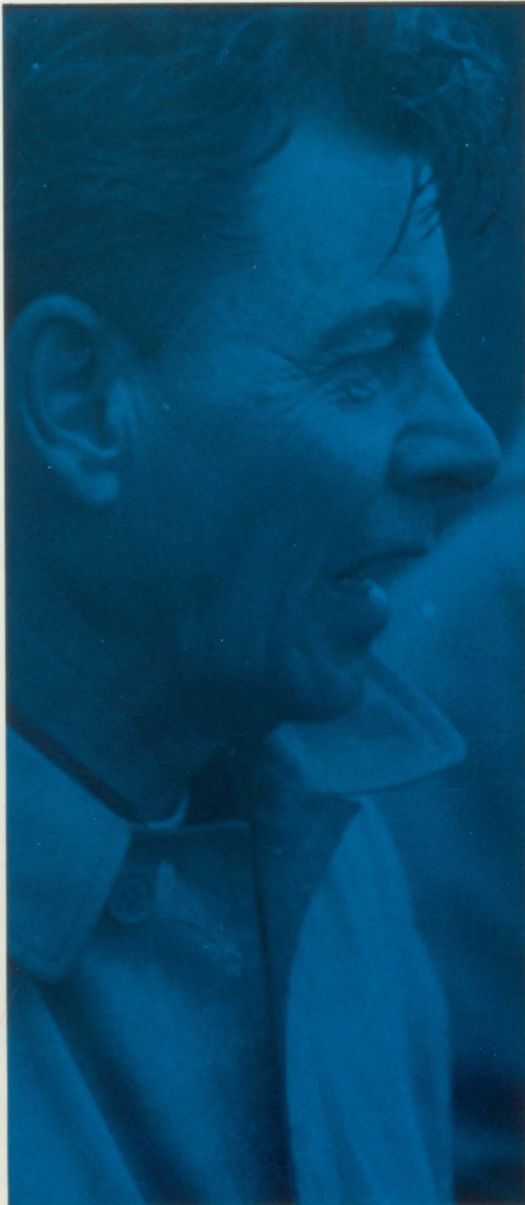

Despite the lack of enthusiasm in preparing for the prom, the large turnout made it quite a success. The theme "Moonlight and Roses" was accented by a blue and silver sky, a bright yellow moon and rose bushes. Meeting on a bridge covered with roses, each couple tossed a penny into the wishing well, concluding the grand march.

Seniors were rewarded for their accomplishments during their high school years as they received certificates and pins on Awards Day.

Graduation concluded months of hard work, plus a little hoping and praying, too. Following the prayer for peace by Paul Fetler, Dr. R. Galen Hanson gave the commencement address. It was a happy, yet somewhat sad moment as each senior received his diploma. Thoughts of the parties to follow the ceremony aroused excitement in many senior minds.

Board Focuses on Timely Problems

FLHS's school board and superintendent L.T. Lechner faced many important decisions. Along with routine topics, meetings and discussions focused mostly on the new senior high school. Finally the groundbreaking ceremonies took place and the new facility was under way.

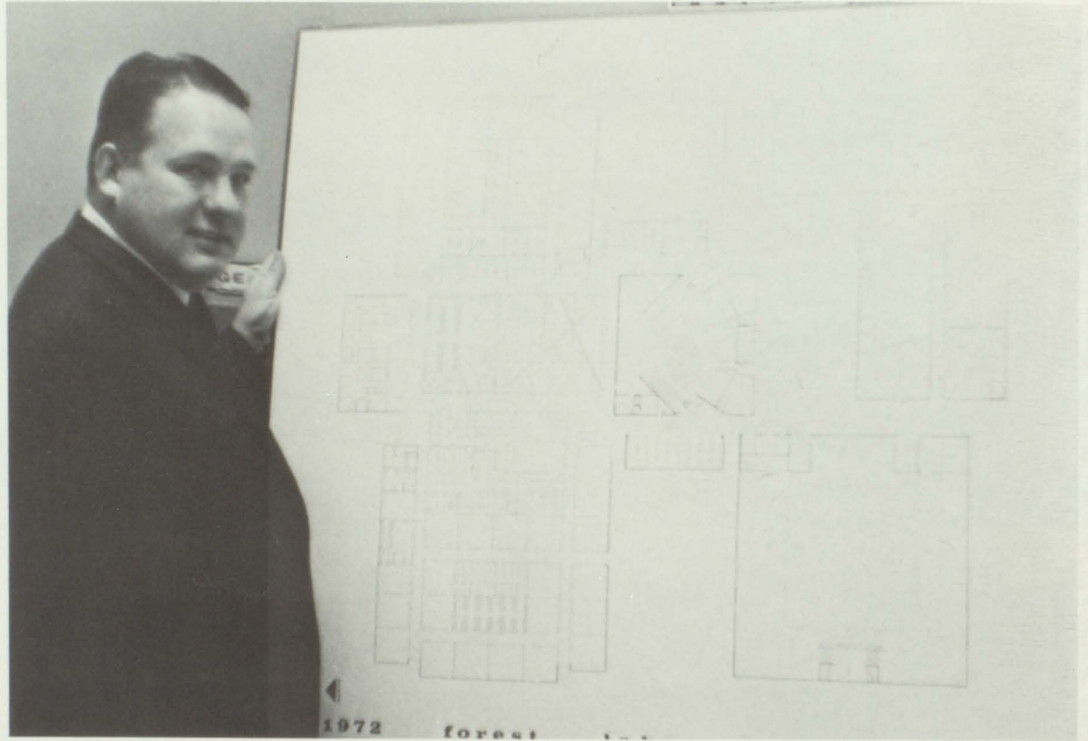

Students actively participated in board meetings on occasion, as topics of concern to them were discussed, such as the muddy condition of the parking lot and the maintenance of the tennis facilities.

In addition to working with the school board, Mr. Lechner supervised the work of all district employees. His work was facilitated by frequent meetings with administrators.

Principals' Tasks Involve Planning

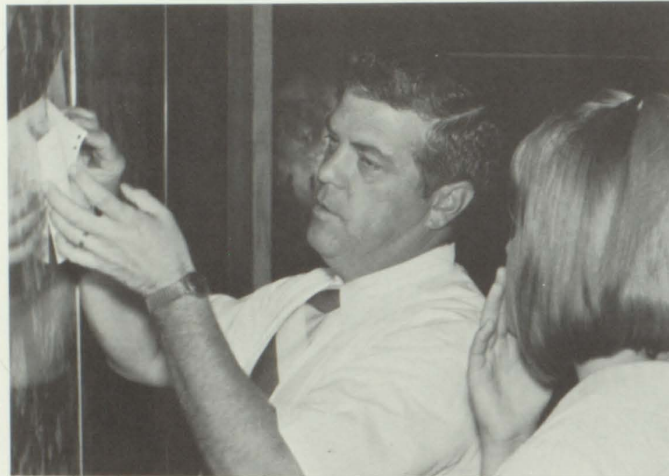

"My job is very interesting to me," remarked Floyd Cohoes, senior high principal. His busy schedule included attending educational conventions and meeting with architects to discuss color schemes, furniture and fixtures for the new senior high, along with his regular job of supervising the school. During Christmas vacation, Mr. Cohoes toured Europe, spending Christmas Eve in London and New Year's Eve in Leningrad. He provided an unusual experience for students and faculty by sharing his observations on his return.

The duties of the assistant principal, William Rand, included scheduling students, teachers and classes and supervising extracurricular activities and the elementary teachers' assistants program.

The three district employees, Donald Nelson, curriculum coordinator, Robert Juhl, business manager, and Robert Jensen, transportation director, were in charge of structuring course content, purchasing materials and supervising the school bus system.

IMC Planned for Use In The Future

Although class programs were prepared by computer this year, the counselors' office was constantly filled with students requesting schedule changes. Tests, such as Iowa, MSAT and PSAT, were given to the underclassmen. Each senior was seen twice concerning college or vocational school admission requirements.

The addition of $4000 worth of books, pamphlets and films made the library a more complete resource center for FLHS students. Much of the audio-visual material was kept in the library and could be checked out by students. Because of the informal study halls where talking was permitted, Mr. Moskop had more time to help rather than discipline students.

Mr. Fuhrman did his best to keep the teachers supplied with the latest audio-visual equipment. Plans are underway for the combination of audio-visual and the library in an Instructional Materials Center in the new senior high school under construction now.

In her seventh year at FLHS, Mrs. Frigstad still had the duty of mantoux testing, checking students' eyes and ears, and coping with students who were suddenly stricken with headaches, stomachaches and sore throats the same hour as a class test.

Responsibility is Tried by Students

Besides their regular educational curriculum, pupils in Mrs. Volkmann's special education class had many interesting projects. October brought the task of creating decorations for their annual Christmas bazaar. This year, in addition to offering articles hand-made by the students, orders were taken for Christmas candles and pins. The class also spent many hours making caramel apples to sell during the lunch hours. Money received from the sales and the bazaar was used to finance an overnight trip the class took later in the year.

Independent study, in its second year at FLHS, was an elective course designed to see how well students react to the responsibility of being on their own. The course, which is a part of World History, was designed for any average student. Each student chose a subject of his preference and reported to his instructor, Mr. Cohoes, on a weekly basis. Grades were based on the records that each student kept on his reading and research. Each student's knowledge was broadened by a historical trip that the class took together.

Historians Learn Ancient Cultures

As history changes, so too do the methods of teaching history. In addition to American History, World History and Affairs and Social Science, two new courses were added to the curriculum. World History and Current Events, taught by Mr. Nelson, traced earliest human cultures to their modern existence. Because current world affairs were the basis of the course, the study of the present could be related to history. The events of 1900 to the present were stressed in the second semester.

The history of the ancient civilizations of Egypt, the Fertile Crescent Region, Greece, Rome, Africa and Asia were thoroughly investigated in the new Ancient World course offered this year. Also covered were the development of their cultures, various customs and their origin, characteristics of the people and their contributions to mankind. Two sections of this class were taught.

English Elective Program Expanded

The experimental elective program for juniors and seniors was expanded by the English department this year to include more courses to meet the needs and desires of students. The new courses were Science Fiction, Introduction to Theatre and Personal Writing. Science Fiction students explored the worlds of Aldous Huxley and George Orwell, while those enrolled in Introduction to Theatre studied the history of drama and tried their hand at costuming, building sets and acting. Personal writing aided those students who lacked basic composition skills and was a much needed course for many.

The department also added many new books and audio-visual materials as a step toward making the experimental program permanent. The opportunity to select from a wider choice of courses helped students to prepare for modular scheduling to be followed in the new school.

English 10 students continued to prepare themselves for their electives by studying such necessary communication skills as reading, writing, speaking and listening. They also reviewed the types of literature they might study in their junior and senior years. Sophomores chose their electives in the spring of 1971.

Shutterbugs Find Fun in Art Class

The 1970 art department was expanded by the addition of a photography course taught by Mr. Larson. Students learned the techniques of taking quality pictures and the process of developing film. Beginning art pupils were introduced to the basics of drawing, stitchery and ceramics, while the graphics, craft and oil painting classes worked mainly with printing, macrame, pottery, advanced stitchery and canvas paintings. Art classes also decorated sets for the school plays.

Every fourth hour the halls of FLHS were filled with the lively rhythm of voices and musical instruments. Mr. Nelson, in his twenty-fifth year as director, led band members through many parades and pepfests as well as the spring and Christmas concerts and music contests.

The choir, under the direction of Mr. Lindstrom, devoted much of their time to contemporary songs. Special work was done with tone clusters and sprech-stimme for their performances in the spring and Christmas concerts, and choir practices were frequent in preparation for the district music contest in the spring.

French, Spanish Improve Fluency

Change was the main concern of French teachers Mrs. Edman and Mr. Rand this year. Using films-trips, slides and video-taped plays, students strived toward their goal — communication. Mr. Rand's small French IV class worked mostly on improving fluency. Since Mr. Rand actually met with the class only twice a week, each student was free to move at his own pace in the informal, yet enthusiastic atmosphere. This procedure prepared pupils for the modular scheduling program to be used in the new senior high school.

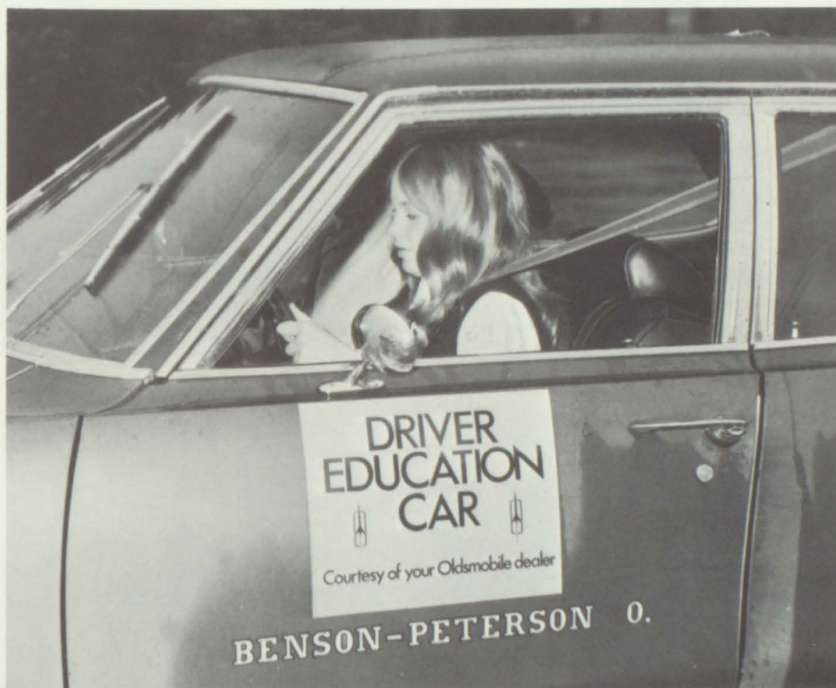

Two of the most interesting activities of the Spanish classes were a cooperative dinner with the Home Economics department and the study of famous Spanish painters with the aid of the art department. Sessions of complete Spanish, without any written or spoken English, helped students to gain comprehension in speaking and reading the language. These sessions were held almost daily, to the distress of many students.

Typists Prepared for Business Jobs

Home Economics focused on courses designed to teach the students "How to Live" as an individual, part of a family or part of society. Home Economics III, IV and V course content included topics such as foods, child development, family living, textiles and clothing, and housing. In each area, the aspects of consumer buymanship, personal attitudes and values, and creativity were stressed as well as skills. In order to bring realism into the study of Home Economics, field trips to furniture stores and model homes were scheduled.

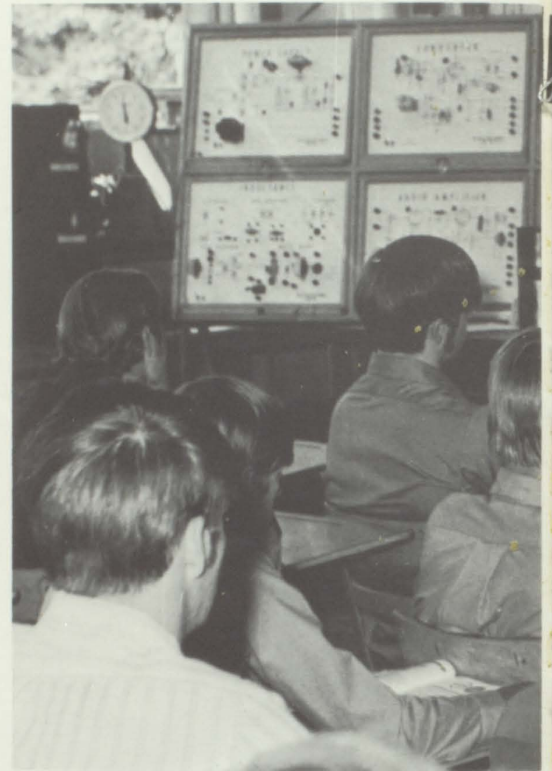

New beginning typing classes in the business department made it possible for the transfer student without ninth grade typing courses to become familiar with the machine and key board. Because of the great interest and already full classes, many students had to be turned down for other business courses they wished to take.

New Class Given in Industrial Arts

A new course in plastics was the pride of the Industrial Arts Department this year. Designed to give students an overview of the plastics industry, the class included a study of the compression, injection and rotational types of molding as well as vacuum forming. Other courses stressed the skills needed for work in welding, electricity and foundries, and also included work with small engines.

In agriculture, a variety of courses were scheduled to ensure students a well-rounded curriculum. Plant and Soil Science featured a study of conservation, while students enrolled in Mechanical Agriculture concentrated on the management of soil and water supplies and farm maintenance. Farming as a business was the topic studied by Agriculture II classes, and Horticulture students attempted landscaping.

Paraprofessional Aid Helps FLHS

The burden of typing tests and other material was lifted from FLHS teachers this year by two paraprofessionals, Mrs. Lidstrom and Mrs. Bedient. They also assisted in the audio-visual room cataloging material and in the principal's office answering the phone.

The duties of the principals' secretaries, Miss Sahlin, Mrs. Tuominen and Mrs. Casey, included recording attendance and tardiness and making locker assignments.

Mrs. Guertin assisted in checking out library materials and in cataloging the many new books, records and filmstrips which arrived throughout the year.

The secretaries in the superintendent's office were responsible for the bookkeeping and payroll of the entire district.

Making appointments for students and keeping records were two of the tasks performed by Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Sampson in the guidance office, while Mrs. Valenty helped keep health records in the nurse's office and assisted students in the nurse's absence.

Cooks, Janitors Have Busy Days

Each morning the FLHS cafeteria was filled with the tantalizing aroma of various foods. The working day of the thirty-four cooks and helpers started at 6:30 when they began preparing for the approximately 2,300 hot lunches served daily at the high school, junior high school and elementary schools. The menu was made up once a month and usually covered five week cycles. The lunches had to be state approved and contain the necessary proteins, vitamins and nutrients.

The seven senior high custodians were kept busy not only by following their daily work schedule, but also by doing many other necessary tasks. These jobs included giving directions and making unexpected repairs. The custodians worked during vacations painting, scrubbing, waxing and repairing.

Helpful Students Ease Office Strain

Many students gave up their study halls to offer their time to one of five offices in need of their assistance.

Students who worked in the principal's office helped by issuing tardy slips, running errands and collecting absence lists. In the assistant principal's office, the helpers were kept busy issuing summons slips and stamping passes.

Guidance help kept the college catalogues in order, duplicated records, passed out appointment sheets and watched the desk in the absence of Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Sampson.

Helpers in the library were responsible for mending books, taking fines, checking out materials and signing student passes. In addition, they had the never-ending task of keeping the shelves in order.

A. V. workers delivered projectors, tape recorders and filmstrip viewers to classrooms and also helped repair some equipment.

FLPC Promotes Spirit & Morale

School spirit was high in FLHS this year due to the extreme effort put forth by the Bleacher Buffs and Pep Club. Robin Johnson was the head rabble rouser for the Buffs, although there were no elected officers in the club.

The newly organized Pep Club was constantly busy painting signs which decorated the halls and helped arouse spirit and team morale. Meetings were held once a week to plan skits and signs and to discuss other business. Members prepared the signs during their study halls and other spare time. Dues of seventy-five cents and money donated by the cheerleaders were used to purchase FLPC buttons, brushes and paint. The girls sat opposite the Buffs at pep fests and tried to outdo them.

Creativity, Basis for "Prolifique"

Creative FL students were able to express themselves through the literary magazine "Prolifique." In its second year, "Prolifique" was greatly publicized and contained works submitted by students such as poetry, essays, drawings and photography. The eight member staff was kept busy selling subscriptions and meeting deadlines for the two publications in the fall and spring.

The FLHS speech choir got into full swing this year. Under the supervision of Mr. Streater, some seventy-five members got together once a week at alternating hours to practice. Their first public appearance was at the annual FLHS Christmas concert with the band and choir.

Drama Club students were kept busy with three productions during the 1970-71 school year. The club is comprised of those students who devote the most time and energy to plays. A spring banquet climaxed a busy year.

Strategy Needed by Debate Squad

Competitive speech was kept extremely busy throughout 1970-71 with the task of hosting two important contests, the Skyline Conference speech contest on February 27, which two hundred people attended, and the sub-district contest in March. With fifteen returning members and twenty new people, the participants journeyed to contests at Centennial on January 18, Osseo on February 1 and Mahtomedi on February 22. Divisions of speeches ranged from humorous interpretation and extemporaneous speaking to discussion and non-original oratory.

"Who should control pollution?" was the topic of the debate squad this year. The squad found evidence needed to win their meets during sixth hour and after school. The sixteen members, dividing into four-man teams, won such trophies as first at Johnson, first at Moundsvew and second at Hopkins. Attending tournaments every week, the squad went on three overnight trips, one of which was to Duluth, Minnesota.

Foreign Cultures Stir Imagination

Foreign language students and others truly interested in the subject were able to get together for activities through the Spanish and French Clubs. The French Club, under the supervision of Mrs. Edman, did things such as making French Christmas cards and decorating their room at Christmas time, singing varieties of foreign songs and holding a dinner for the faculty which was prepared by the members of the organization.

Contrary to previous years, the Spanish Club had no elected officers and meetings were called whenever plans were to be made for activities. With a live ocelot from Como Zoo representing a Fridley tiger on their Homecoming float, the club left parade watchers awestricken as they proceeded down Lake Street. Their skit captured first place honors on skit night and was presented the following day to the student body. Members also went Christmas caroling at Birchwood Nursing Home.

Student Council Changes Routine

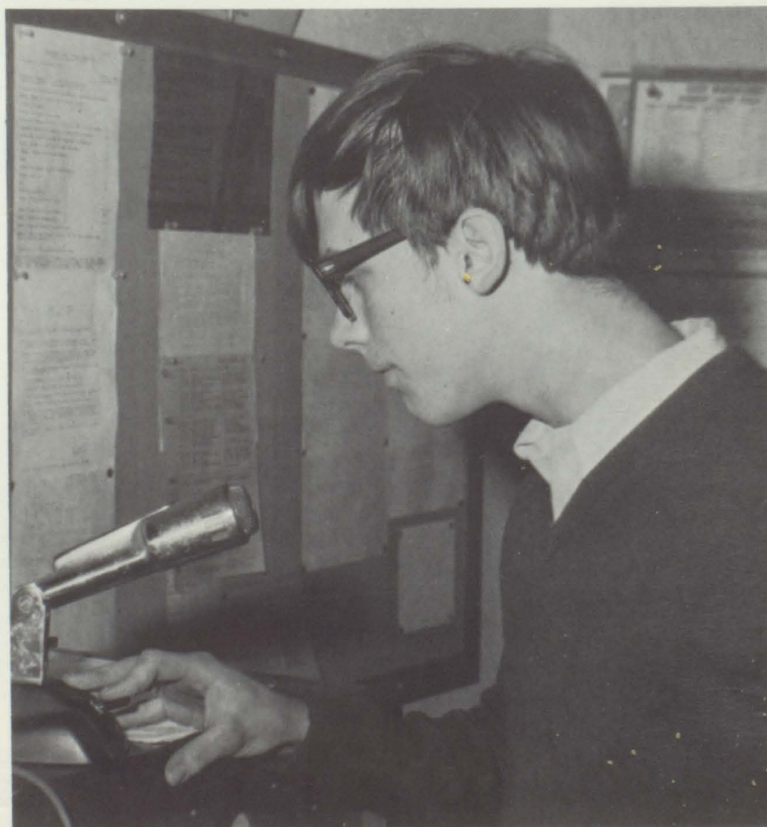

The student body was brought closer to their student council by attending a new form of open meeting. Any student interested could sign up to attend the meetings that were held at least once a week at alternating hours.

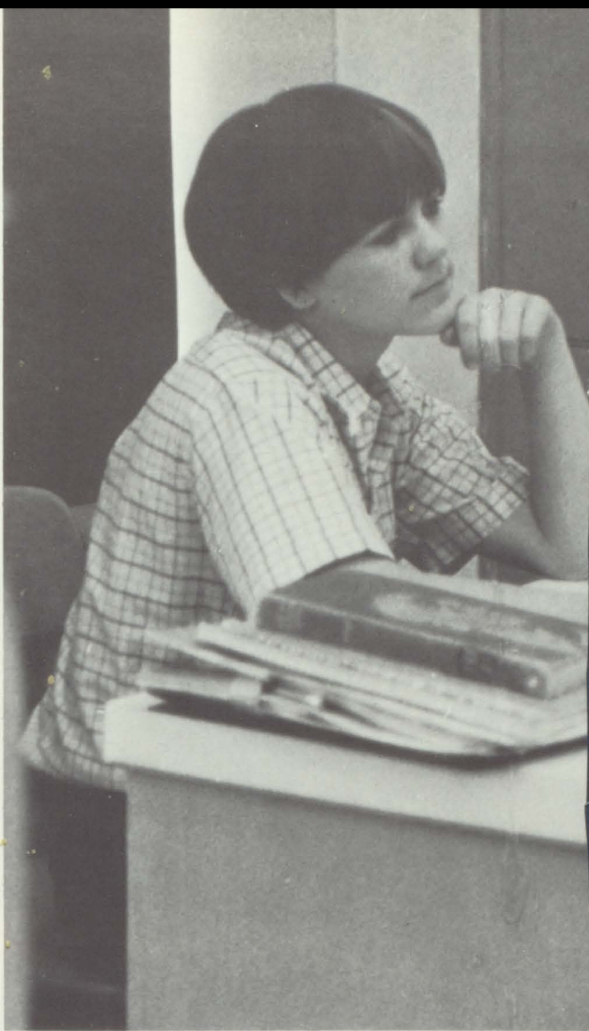

The student council held a charity drive to collect anything that people didn't want. The miscellaneous articles were then given to the churches to be distributed to the needy families of the Forest Lake community and area.

Heading all of the Homecoming festivities, the student council restored the traditional Homecoming Parade and added three new events — the car bash, the pizza party and the street dance. Buttons and maroon and gold pom-poms were sold to help pay for Homecoming.

Modified parliamentary procedures were re-adopted to help meetings proceed more smoothly. Members Pat Ashby and Bob Wadell were sent as representatives to the Minnesota Student Council Convention at St. Paul Harding.

Editors of Breeze Search for News

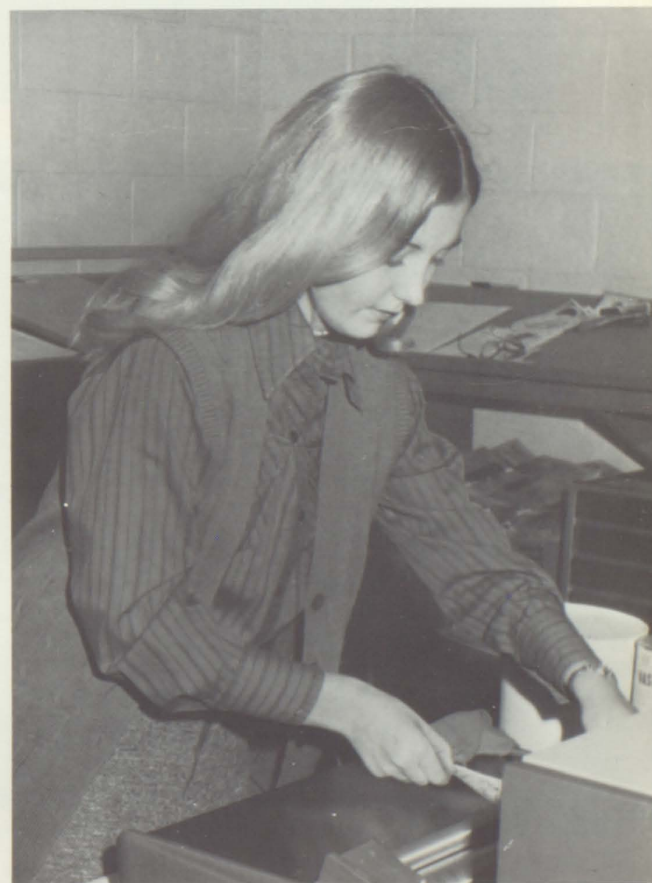

School and community related news items were brought to the students of FLHS as a result of much dedication and hard work on the part of the four Breeze editors and their staff.

Published bi-weekly and distributed without cost, the Breeze added two new features this year. "The Corner," a small piece of only a few lines, merely related a worthwhile fact or bit of humor. "Slicky Slade" reported on and gave his opinions on past and upcoming sports events. In addition, the newspaper included its regular editorials, feature stories and news stories.

Due to the lack of funds, the staff didn't take its annual trip to Chicago this year. However, they did take part in a workshop at the University of Minnesota and sponsored a dance featuring the sound of the "Street Mass."

Forester Editors Meet 5 Deadlines

The five Forester editors could be found diligently writing copy, cropping pictures and drawing layouts into the wee hours of the morning. Miss Cordes' apartment was transformed into a hectic workshop where sleepy-eyed students hung over their typewriters and proportion wheels, refreshed by bottles of Coke and potato chips. The staff was reorganized this year, with editors for copy, photography and layouts. Some new additions to the yearbook were a modern style of layout which accommodated more pictures, four color insertions and a sixteen page summer supplement. The business staff launched a highly successful ad campaign to combat the rising costs of the book. Other activities of the staff were attending the MHSPA convention at the University of Minnesota and holding a dance in honor of the '70 editors to the sound of the "Music Illusion." The annual signing party was again held in the spring, as anxious students saw the '71 Forester for the first time.

Singers Explode With Harmonies

Approximately fifty members, under the direction of Mr. Lindstrom, comprised the FLHS choir. Two other portions of the choir were Madrigal, which consisted of sixteen members and sang only this type of song, and the triple trio in which nine girls participated. These two groups practiced mostly after school and in the evening, and performed for organizations such as the Jaycees and others where the entire choir could not be sent.

The choir sang seven songs at the Christmas concert ranging from the music of 1930 to that of 1968. Madrigal and triple trio each offered a song. Judy Pfingsten and Barb Schmidt sang solos from the choirs renditions of "Silent Night" and "O Christmas Babe."

In addition to public performances, the choir also was involved in preparing for music contests held in the spring. Both individuals and groups are featured in these contests held annually.

Director of Band Enters 25th Year

Celebrating his twenty-fifth year at FLHS, Mr. Nelson scheduled half hour sectionals once a week at which students prepared songs used in the Christmas and Spring Concerts. The ninety piece band competed in the District Contest along with individual members playing solos. During the summer the FLHS Marching Band performed in such parades as the Minneapolis Aquatennial, the Torchlight Parade and the Fourth of July Parade in Forest Lake.

Performing in the Homecoming parade and during skit night was the new Dixie Land Band. Two other portions of the band were the Pep Band that played at pepfests and the stage band that played the music for "Pajama Game."

FHA'ers Attend District Meeting

The Future Homemakers participated in many worthwhile activities such as repairing clothes for Kenya and collecting donations for the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children. One business and one recreational meeting were held each month. FHA girls went on many field trips which included attendance at the district FHA meeting in Mora and a visit to the Betty Crocker Kitchens at General Mills. They concluded an exciting year with a spring banquet.

The main purpose of FFA, an intracurricular activity, was to develop leadership, citizenship, cooperation and community and charitable service. Through cooperative activities, members learned thriftiness and personal financial management. One of the biggest projects was sending books and clothing to Kenya, Africa.

Eager FL Skiers Take Over Slopes

The FLHS Ski Club offered many opportunities to snow-minded students — experts and beginners as well. Almost every Thursday afternoon a bus left school loaded with eager skiers, boots, poles and skis. Members were accompanied by advisors, Mr. Rand and Mr. Georgesen, to various ski areas. Special rates were given to the group and a single dollar took care of transportation. Meetings were held once a week to discuss business and hear suggestions for future trips.

Many students surrendered their study halls to become elementary teachers' assistants this year. With the help of Mr. Rand, students were assigned to Forest Lake and Forest View schools. Their duties included assisting slow learners with reading and spelling and aiding teachers with clerical work.

Athletic Tourney Hosted by GAA

This year GAA offered a wide variety of activities to meet the interests and needs of senior high girls. The dues paid by nearly 100 girls helped to finance the tournaments held at Forest Lake. The GAA tennis and softball teams captured first place at each of the two tournaments. Members also participated in basketball, volleyball, badminton, bowling, track and golf tournaments. They also took part in playdays held throughout the year. In October about thirty girls attended an ice skating party at Columbia Arena in Fridley. Also held in October was a playday at Fridley. A swimming playday was held at Osseo in March.

New Cheers Add Increasing Zest

Amidst weekly practices during summer vacation, the cheerleaders frantically fingered through catalogs choosing their new uniforms early in order to receive them before the start of the 1970-71 school year. After numerous fittings, the long awaited uniforms were initiated at the first pepfest, September 4, along with such new cheers as "Power" and "Stomper."

With weather ranging from gusty winds at St. Francis to a snow covered field at Osseo, the nine varsity cheerleaders upheld their spirit.

Pepfests with competition cheers between the boys and the girls were an attempt to get a greater response from the student body.

Other activities of the sixteen cheerleaders were hosting a sockhop in September, serving at the Parents' Night Dinner and holding their annual dinner for the Spring Lake Park cheerleaders. They were rewarded for many long hours of work by receiving their letters on Awards Day from their new advisor, Miss Menken.

Initiates Dread Nov. Ceremonies

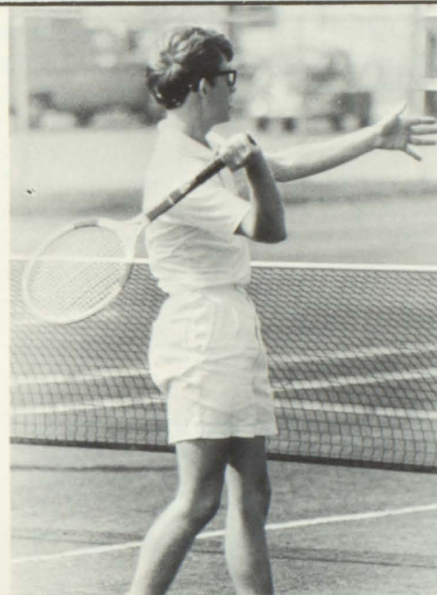

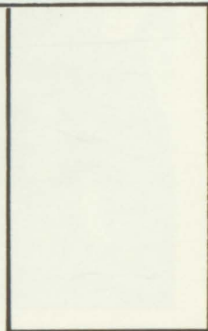

The new 1971 initiates found the week of November sixteenth to be exhausting. With twenty-two Lettermen constantly commanding an endless amount of bowing and pushups, the initiates were relieved as the day ended. Forty-three initiates passed their boards through the halls requesting Lettermen to sign them as they thought of the dreaded penalties. These might have been rolling a peanut with their noses, eating "pig slop" or being held in a tub of ice cold water for five minutes.

To expand the treasury the Lettermen sponsored a basketball game between the Harlem Saturns and the Faculty All-Stars. Lack of interest caused the cancellation of the Christmas dinner, but the dance was still held on December 19. Each Letterman took his turn handing out programs and ushering at home wrestling matches and basketball games. The year ended with the annual athletic banquet honoring the top athletes of each sport.

VB Team Places Fourth at Fridley

With about one hundred participants at one time or another in various activities, girls' sports was a very active organization. The volleyball team played well in the semi-finals of the Skyline VB Tournament. In the finals held at Fridley, they placed fourth, with Spring Lake Park taking top honors. Other tournaments attended were badminton, swimming, bowling at Mahtomedi, gymnastics at Fridley, basketball, track and field, golf and softball.

Many girls took part in the GAA extramural program which provided them with more competition with other schools. With new and better facilities it is their hope to develop the intramural and extramural program to a larger scale.

FL Gridmen Tie Third in Division

With a record of five wins and four losses, the Rangers tied Brooklyn Center for third place in the first division. Scoring 153 total points in nine games, FL outscored its opponents by nineteen points. In their most outstanding games the Rangers crushed St. Francis 44-0, Centennial 28-0 and beat Mahtomedi for the third straight year with a score of 22-6.

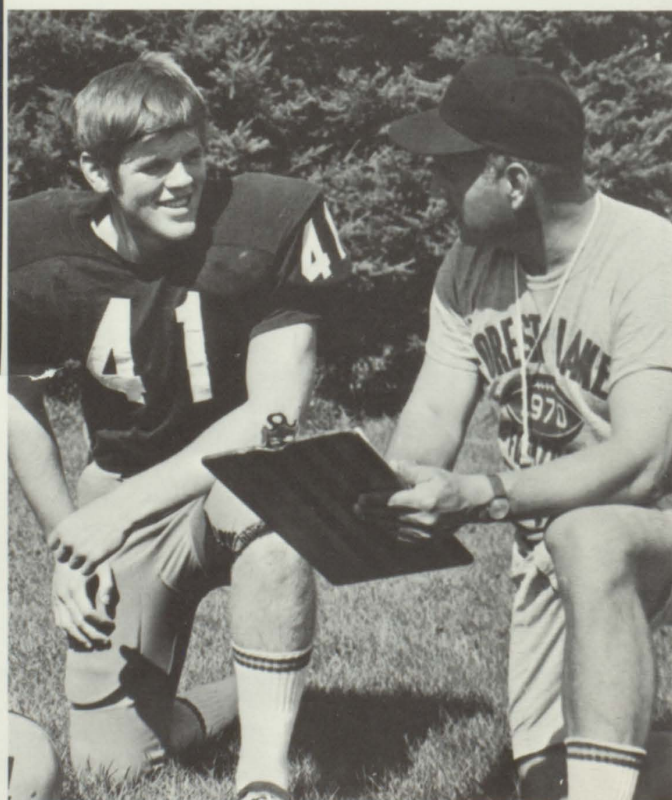

Two FL gridmen, Captain Robin Johnson and lineman Dan Johnson, were selected to the All-Conference team. Leading scorer was Ken Schlipp with 44 points which included seven touchdowns and a conversion. Robin Johnson was chosen most valuable player by his teammates, a position highly honored. He also led the team with seven defensive stars followed by Paul Svenkeson and Scott Marier who each totalled six stars.

Mr. Altavilla, B-squad coach, stated that although the squad's record of 3-4 was not outstanding, the team never quit playing.

Sophomores Aid Ranger Harriers

Captain Gary Berg, the only returning letterman, led the FLHS cross country team this year. Although comprised mostly of sophomores, the team showed substantial promise according to head coach Nelson.

The best runners were Gary Berg, John Kramer, Vernon Montzka and Jim Tritchler. With a season's record of three wins and four losses, the Ranger squad finished eighth in the Skyline Conference, second in District 25 and tenth in Region Seven competition.

Already the team plans to improve next year with the help of thirteen who lettered this season and will return, and they hope for a large turnout of new sophomores.

Cagers Combine Individual Skills

Showing the hustle which was to characterize the 1970-1971 season, the FL cagers came from 11 points behind with 4 minutes to go to beat Brooklyn Center 57-55 in their opener.

Seniors were instrumental in the Rangers posting a five game winning streak before losing to Bird Island in the finals of the Hutchinson Tournament. Ranger hustle was the prime ingredient which gave this edition of FLHS basketball early leads that the Rangers protected or stirring come-from-behind victories that thrilled fans.

Chuck Randall was the leading point getter, Robin Johnson and Scott Moen provided rebound power, Tim Conley was the playmaker, Greg Ray provided quickness and Jay Crawford gave the Rangers good reserve strength. These combined skills gave Forest Lake its first real shot at the Skyline flag since 1965.

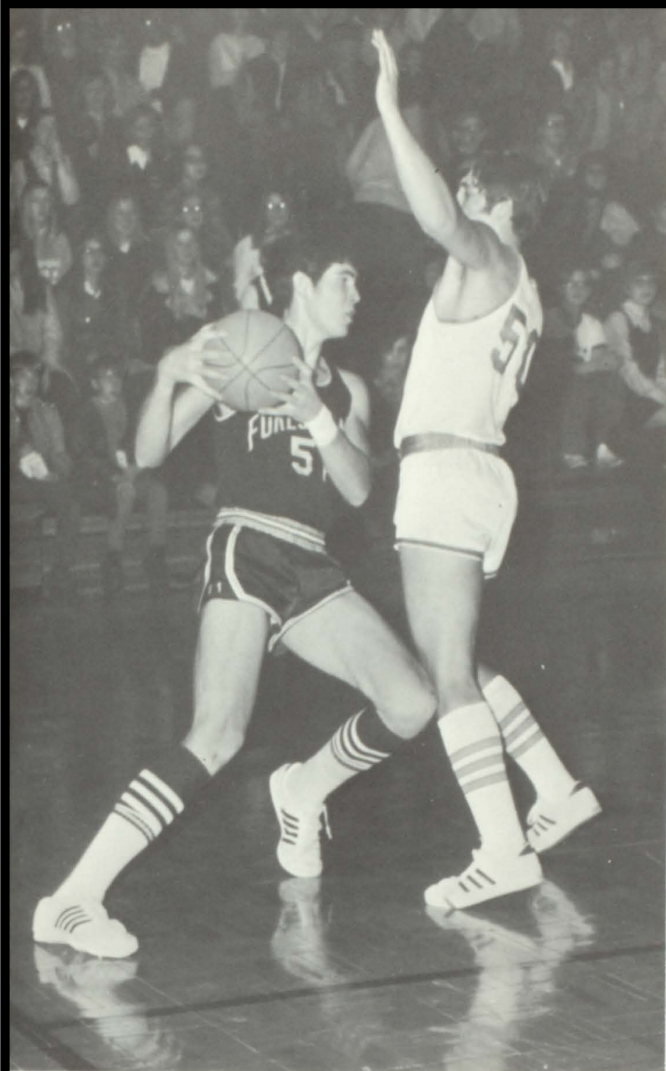

Two losses to the Osseo Orioles, 55-50 and 78-56, spoiled their chance for the Skyline Championship, but the Rangers challenged strongly in the District 25 Tournament, placing second.

Anderson Leads FLHS Wrestlers

Five exceptional seniors helped to make up the 1971 grappling squad. Co-captain Dean Anderson led the team in wins as he topped the record set by 1968 graduate Pete Saxe.

The high point of the season was the match with Mahtomedi at which the Rangers smashed the Zephyrs 50-0. An unexpected loss of 23-20 to the Osseo Orioles and a loss to Anoka, rated thirteenth in the state, tarnished the otherwise highly successful record of the squad.

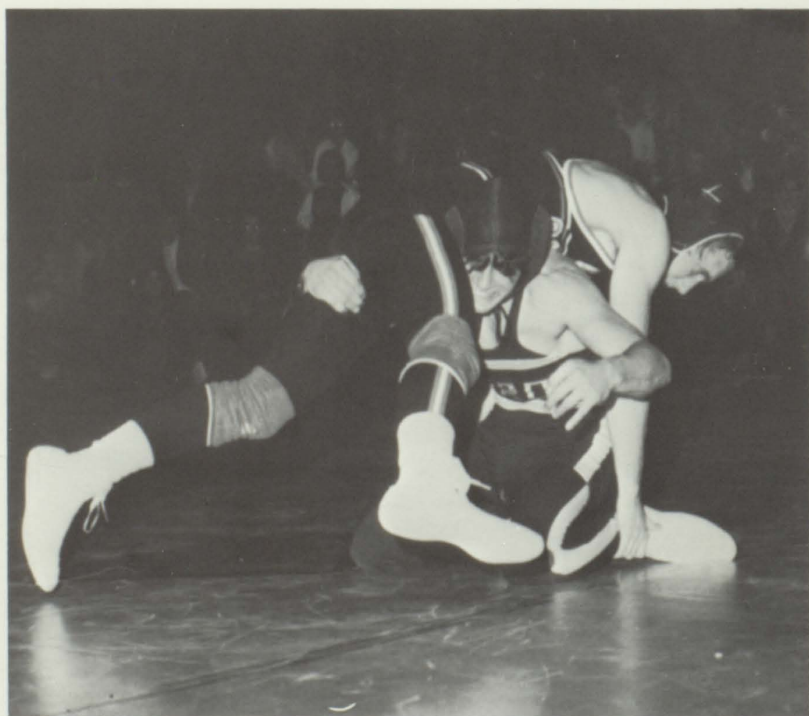

In tournament competition the team placed second at River Falls, first at Forest Lake and, at St. Anthony, both A and B squads rated first place.

Underclassmen who were great assets to the team were juniors Roger Rowbotham and Jeff Juelich. Sophomore John Waldoch, who took first at the St. Anthony Invitational in the 112 # division, and Tom Matteson, ninth grader, helped to boost the Ranger team points.

FLHS Golfers are District Champs

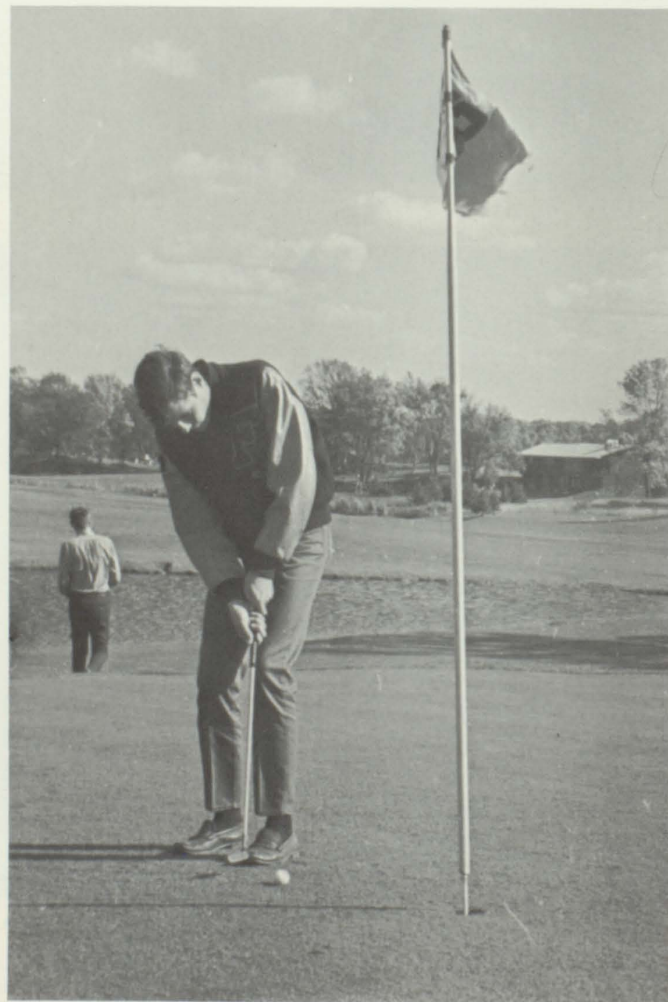

The FL Golf team remained undefeated in the Skyline Conference this year. Jack Severson became the team's number one man, returning with other lettermen Chuck Randall, Scott Moen, Jeff Renard and Bruce Reed. After winning District 25 at Moose Lake, the 1970 swingers journeyed to Virginia where they took third in Region VII. Receiving medals for their outstanding accomplishments in golf were Bob Reishus, Chuck Randall and Jack Severson.

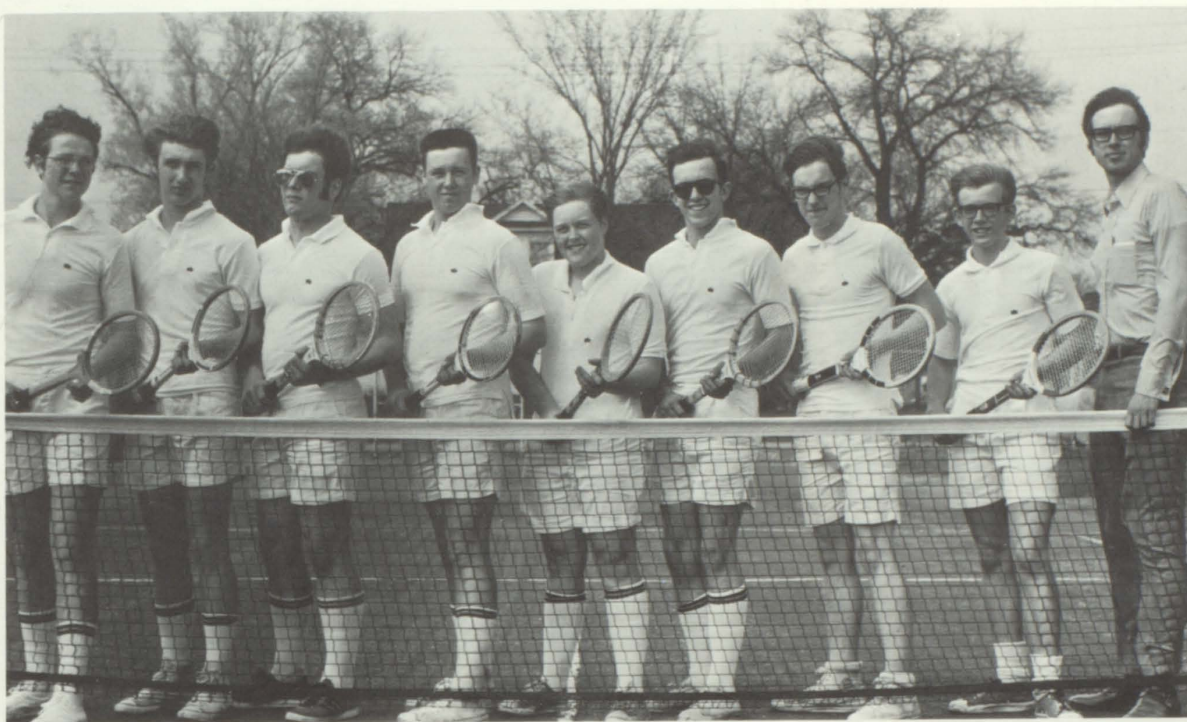

Amid gusty wind, cracked courts and holey nets, the tennis team put forth an extreme effort. The one returning letterman, Keith Sahlin, and the seven other less experienced players, journeyed to North Branch for the district tournaments. There the doubles team, consisting of Steve Hursh and Bruce Peters, played their match, but returned unsuccessful. Mark Schmidt won his singles match and proceeded to regions only to lose to the 1970 regional champion. The tennis team's season of defeat was mainly due to the well developed programs and better facilities of the other schools that were played by the Forest Lake team.

4 Trackmen in Skyline Top Ten

Trackmen came close to meeting their 1970 goals by placing second in district competition, losing to Chisago Lakes by one point, and by improving times as evidenced by four Rangers placing in the Skyline Conference Top Ten and nine entering the regional meet.

A young team, the tracksters' strength lay in letterman Fred McKnight who placed fourth in the conference Top Ten in the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash and the broad jump. Other lettermen who will return in 1971 include Jay Crawford, who placed in the conference Top Ten in high and low hurdling, Mike Dailey and Leo Donovan. First year miler Tim Tate placed fourth in the conference Top Ten.

In their last year were co-captains Paul Swartz and Jim Swanberg. Also lost to the team were graduates Tom Kolberg and Bruce Weinke.

FL Ranger Nine Posts 9-9 Record

The Ranger nine turned in a 9-9 record for all games played in 1970, including a berth in the district 25 Tournament.

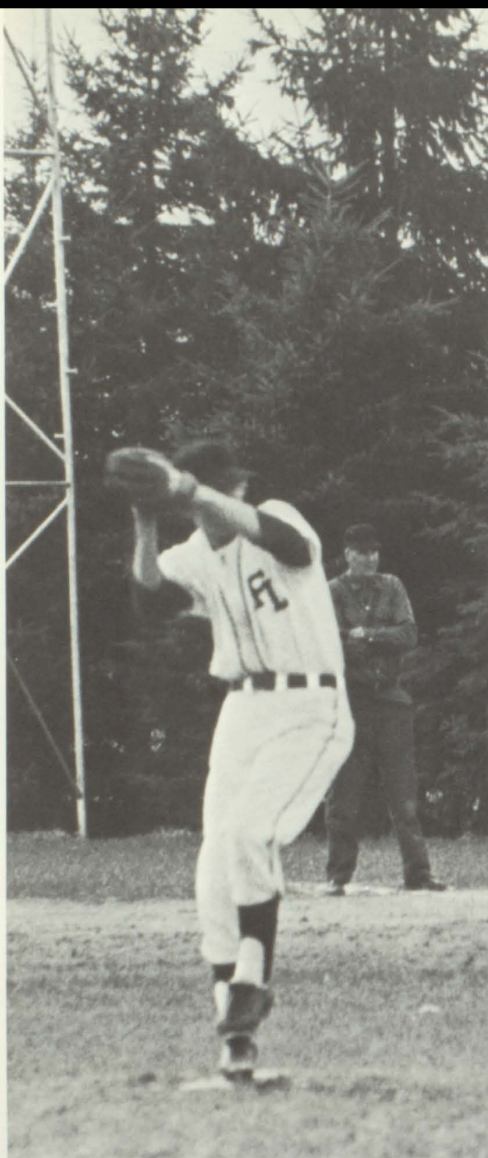

Kevin Casey led the pitching staff with a 4-3 record in nine games. With an earned run average of 1.27, he struck out fifty batters in forty-nine and two-thirds innings. Lynn Gale struck out twenty-seven men in eight games, allowing an average of 1.71 runs per game and finishing the season with a 3-3 record.

Also making headlines as a Ranger batsman, Kevin Casey averaged .351 with three strike outs for fifty-seven times at bat. Following close behind were John Ashby, who made forty-seven plate appearances for a .319 batting average, and Lynn Gale, who averaged .333 for thirty-nine times at bat for Forest Lake.

Named as an all-conference infielder by the Sky-line Conference was Kevin Casey, number one Ranger pitcher in 1970.

The B-Squad, composed of tenth graders, also played a full schedule with coaching assistance from Mr. Reiman. Promising players were being watched by varsity coach, Mr. Petersen.

Goal for Seniors is Graduation '71

Commonplace activities evolved into cherished memories as seniors questioned, and even feared, the future for the first time. All the answers seemed to depend on this one important year, 1971.

Ordering senior pictures and announcements, choosing class colors, flower and motto and being measured for caps and gowns were some of the long-awaited activities of the seniors. Representatives from various vocational schools and colleges tried to give seniors a clearer picture of life away from FLHS and introduced them to different vocations and careers.

Anticipation mounted as 1970 faded and 1971 brought many lasts for seniors — the last prom, the last Award's Day, the last pep fest, the last classes. There were deadlines to meet, decisions to make, applications to fill out and tests to survive, but graduation did come true after quite a memorable school year.

Juniors Assist In Reviving Dances

As the class of 1972 entered their junior year at FLHS they were faced with many financial problems. The class treasury was short of money, but through profits received from the Sadie Hawkins dance, auctioning themselves on Slave Day and sponsoring the prom, it increased considerably throughout the year.

Because the threat of no more school dances would result in the cancellation of their Sadie Hawkins dance, juniors showed much concern. As a result of several meetings and heated discussions, they were given much credit for help in reviving the popular dances.

The pre-Christmas delivery of the senior class rings was made possible by excited juniors choosing and ordering their precious rings before the October fifteenth deadline.

MSAT, Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude tests and National Merit Scholarship Qualifying tests were stop signs in the fast-paced world of the juniors and seemed to foreshadow the even more hectic year ahead.

Sophomores Face FLHS Challenge

Caught between two extremes, sophomores tried their best to be accepted into the strange new world of FLHS. After overcoming the embarrassment of mistaking washrooms for classrooms, janitors for teachers and teachers for students, sophomore boys fell quickly into the routine. The girls, however, found the situation much more comfortable due to the assistance of senior boys.

The Class of '73 displayed its artistic talents by decorating the third floor at Christmas. The halls were transformed into Santa's workshop and were trimmed with sprigs of mistletoe.

Preparation and anticipation, set to the beat of their enthusiasm, resulted in a memorable sophomore dance held on the eve of Valentine's Day.

Ending a hectic year, sophomores signed their Foresters with "One down and two to go!"

Editors' Notes:

Working on the Forester this year has proved to be a very worthwhile experience for us. It taught us many things, such as how to get along with people, and gave us an opportunity to collect many precious memories. We're glad that we had this chance to do something for our school and fellow students.

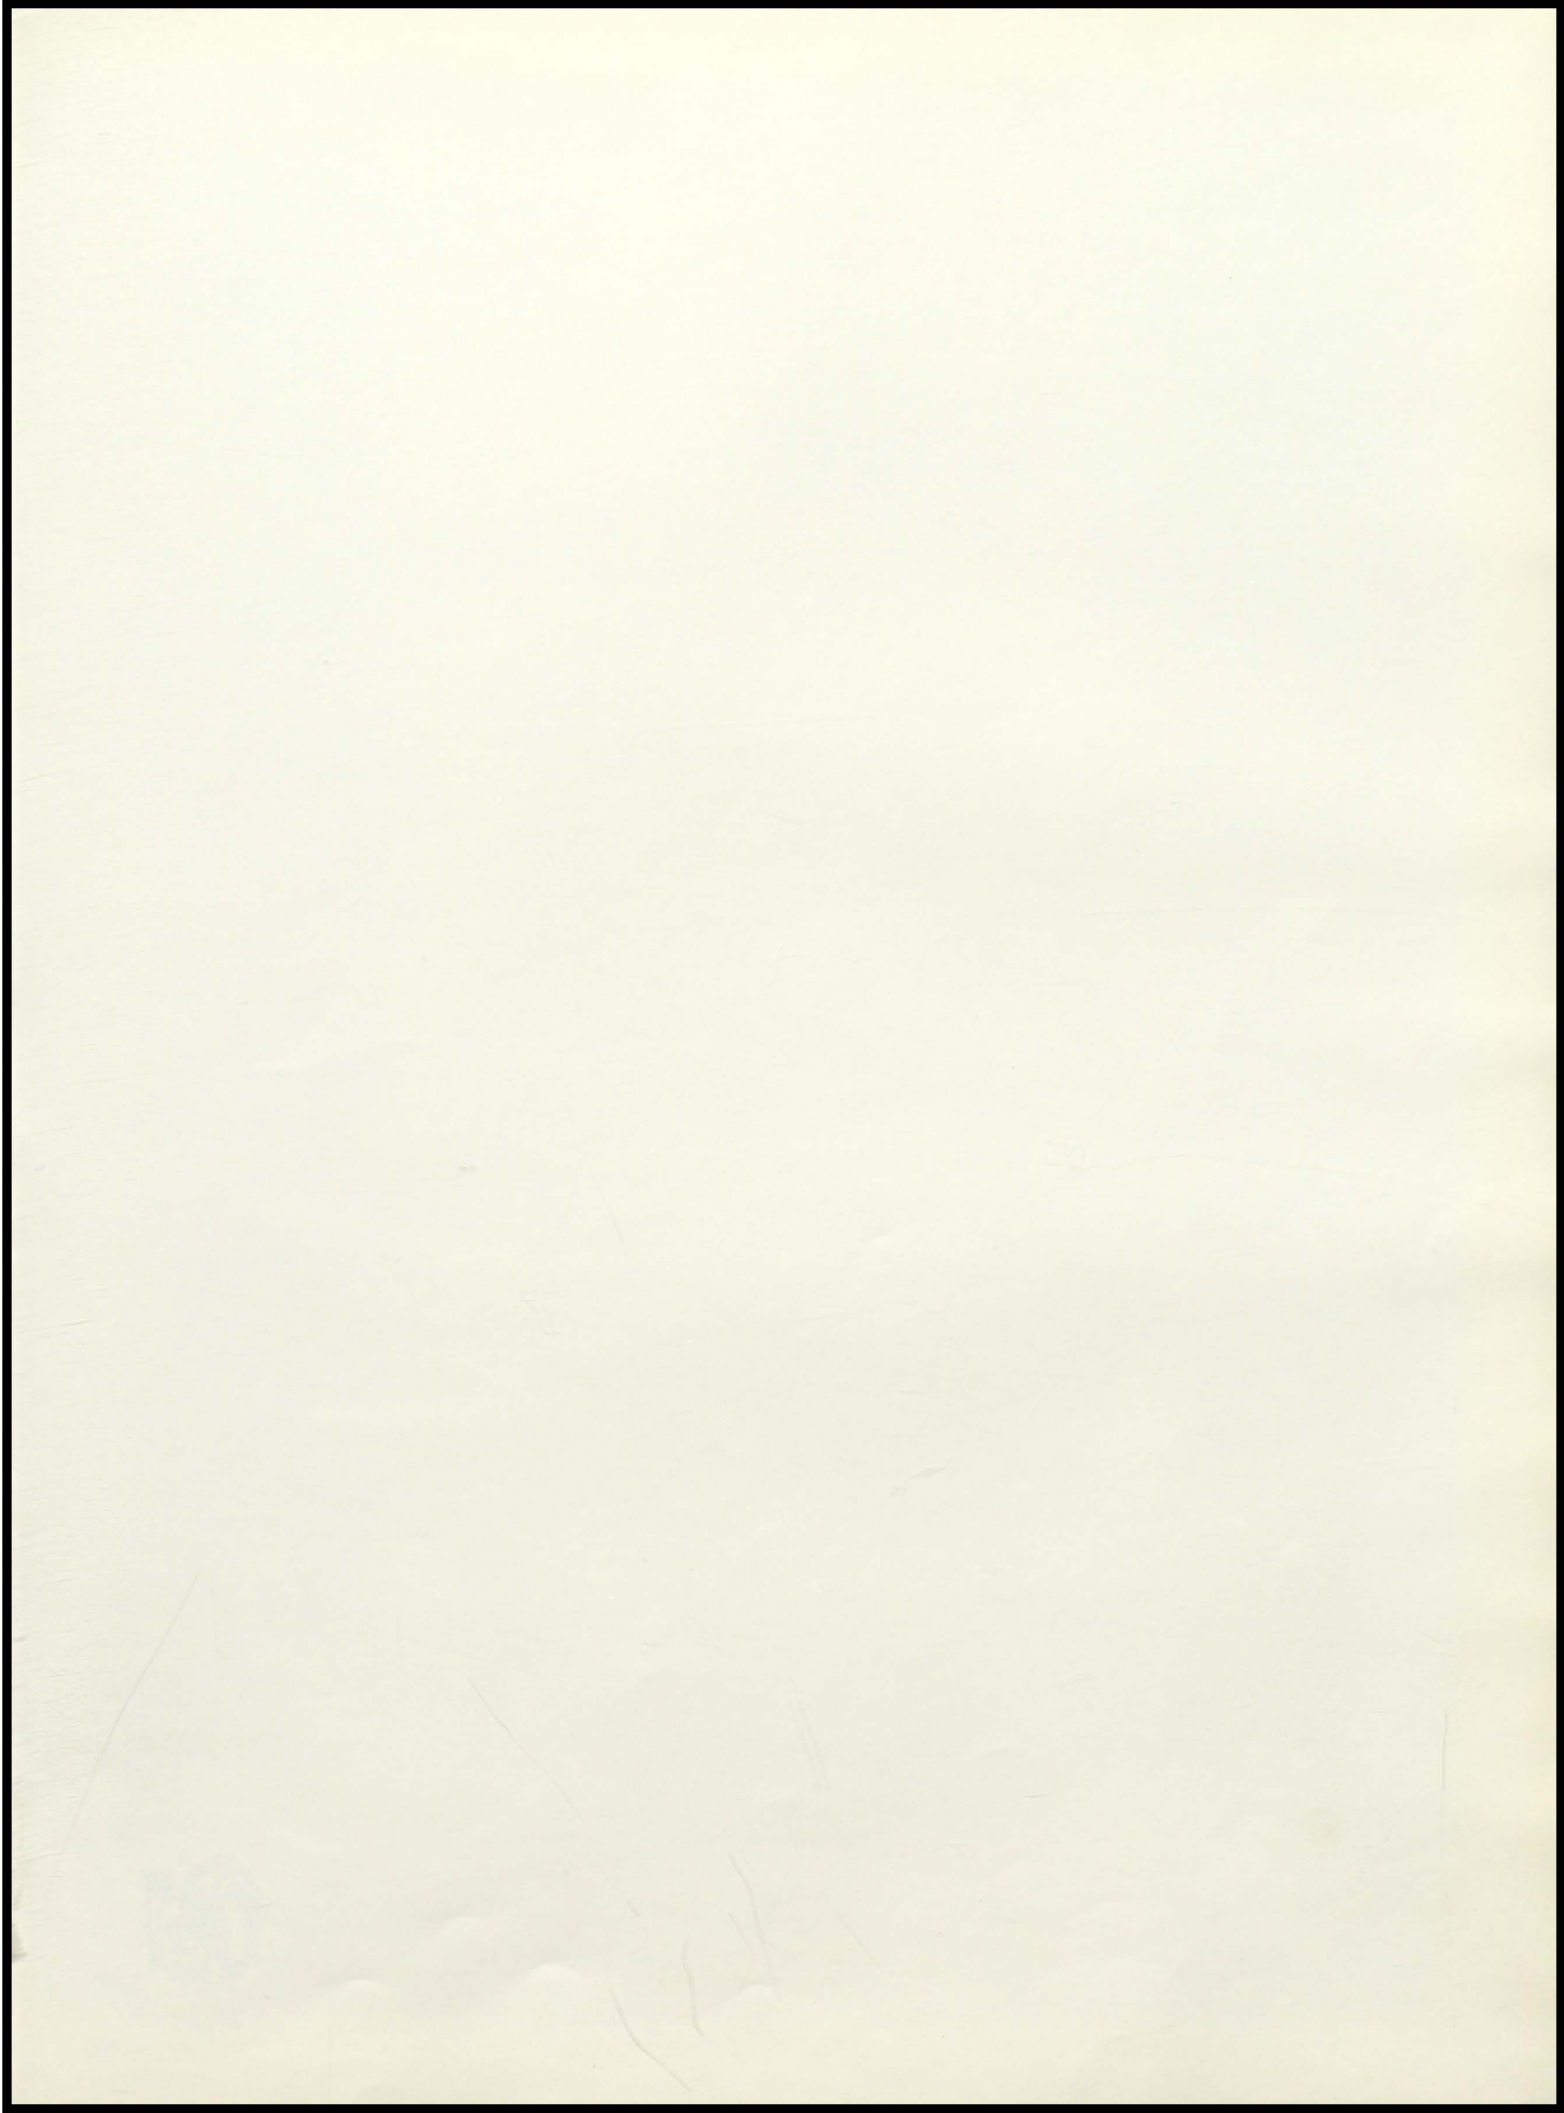

Some of the things that we'll never forget are all our passes from class ... pepsi, fritos and potato chips ... decorating and painting our rooms ... Seymore ... bugging Mr. Somrock and Mr. Larson for pop from the teachers' lounge ... staying up half the night ... the time we went to the MHSPA convention and got our Ronald McDonald glasses ... the janitors faces when they saw popcorn all over the floor ... Joan and Sharon getting out of Mrs. Wiley's class ... asking Melba for innumerable class lists ... Mary's bread and cheeze whiz ... Patti's grapefruit rotting in the wastebasket ... Mr. Somrock tearing his pants on Sharon's table ... Schmedly and Edith ... consulting with Miss Cordes on our love lives ... "Picture This" ... poo-gy ... being retarded ... Sharon talking to herself ... the hectic day before each deadline and the sheer joy the day after ... and everything else that we don't dare mention.

All these things helped to make 1971 a unique experience for us all.

Kris, Greg Rule Terre de L'amour

The 1971 Valentine Dance, hosted by the class of '73 on February thirteenth in the Forest View Elementary gym, was enhanced by traditional hearts and cupids. These decorations added to the mood which was set by the theme of the dance, "Terre de l'amour," meaning world of love in French. Excited sophomores as well as upperclassmen danced to the music of the Midwest Edition and relaxed with punch and cake.

The highlight of the evening came when the new king and queen were crowned by last year's royalty, Cheri Hanson and Roger Magnuson. Anticipation mounted in the tense moments before Kris Berg and Greg Vedder were crowned, resulting from a vote taken throughout the senior high. After the dance, couples journeyed to their favorite restaurants for a satisfying meal and a sociable chat.

Spring Enlivened by Fine Arts '71

In mid-March the snow began to melt, birds began to sing and FLHS students looked toward spring and its many activities.

The annual athletic banquet honored players as well as parents. The FFA also sponsored a banquet and home economics students gave a brunch for the faculty. Mini-courses also highlighted spring as did the arrival of the Foresters and spring edition of Prolifique.

The Fine Arts '71 festival included the annual concerts of the band and choir, a presentation by the speech choir and the performance of "Harvey." The art department presented a show in the gym and in the halls of art students' work. The festival continued for two weeks, attended by many.

Despite the activities of spring, exams still lurked and Rangers awaited summer vacation. Closing the year was the awards program for sophomores and juniors at which students eagerly accepted their year's rewards.

Graduation 1971 Becomes Reality

On May ninth, the Forest View Elementary gym became the romantic setting for "We've Only Just Begun," the junior-senior prom. The Four-to-Go provided the dancing music and junior girls served cake and punch. Many couples took part in the grand march and had their pictures taken to remember their gala evening at the 1971 prom.

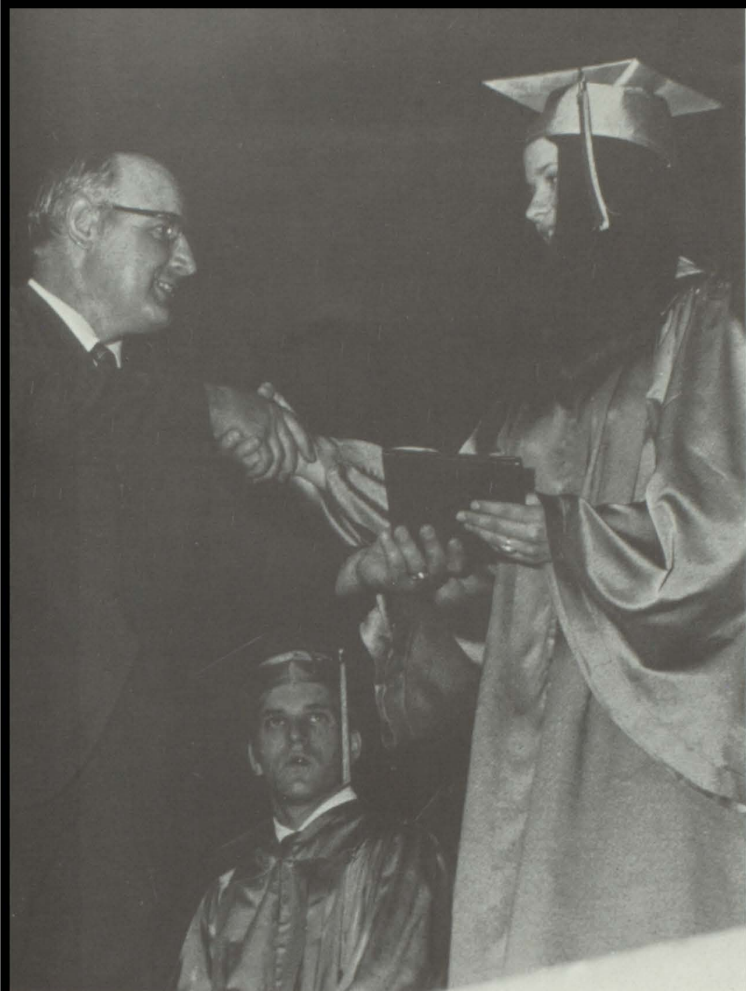

Senior awards day introduced the seniors in their silver-blue caps and gowns for the first time as they were honored for their outstanding achievements throughout the year.

On the hot, humid evening of June fourth, graduation 1971 became a reality. Following two selections by Madrigal and an inspiring talk by Emery Barrette, seniors were awarded their cherished diplomas by Loren Devine, a member of the school board.

Pacers Take First at the Triangular

Senior tri-captains Fred McKnight, Jay Crawford and Randy Peterson led the FLHS cindermen on to such accomplishments this spring as the conference meet where the Forest Lake team scored fifteen points, more points than any other Forest Lake track team in the last six years. A first was taken by the pacers at the triangular meet over the teams of St. Francis and Mahtomedi. District competition, held at Forest Lake, brought five victories to our tracksters: Fred McKnight, fifth in sprinting; Mike Dailey, fifth in discus and second in pole vaulting; Bill Reidell, second in the eight-eighty; Jay Crawford, third in the low hurdles. Dailey, Reidell and Crawford went on to regions held in Cloquet.

F.L. Golfers First in Skyline Meets

The high point of the Ranger tennis season this year was the district tournament where FLHS defeated Chisago Lakes and went on to region competition. The team suffered mostly because of its lack of experience and facilities compared to other Skyline teams. Despite the loss of five valuable seniors, summer practice and the completion of the new tennis courts will be impetus for great improvement for the 1971-1972 netmen.

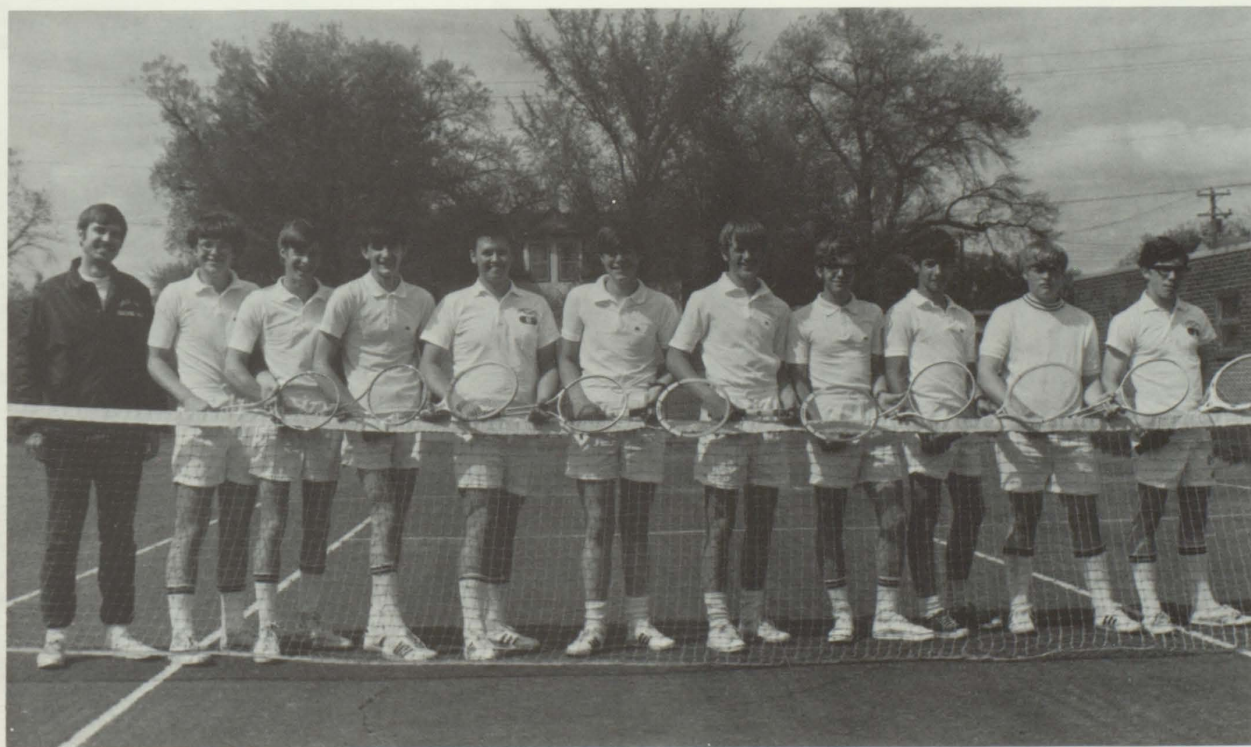

The Ranger team took first place in the Skyline golf meet at Coon Rapids with Greg Peterson and Bob Reishus being named to the all-conference team. The golfers ended a successful season tied for second place in the whole Skyline conference.

Pitching Is Asset to Ranger Team

The pitching of Lynn Gale and Tim Conley led the 1971 baseball team on to a successful season. These two players were named all-conference pitcher infielders. Conley also led the team with a .383 batting average and was voted most valuable player by his teammates.

One disappointment of the season was the team batting average of .229. Outstanding games, however, included victories over Brooklyn Center 4-3 and Irondale 3-2. Two games the Rangers played well but were defeated in were Osseo, 3-1 in nine innings, and Fridley, the conference champions, 1-0. The team ended the season with eight wins and nine losses.

Additional end of season honors went to Stu Dunn and Roger Rowbotham, receiving honorable mention in the Skyline all-conference team.
