Growing With Our Surroundings . . .

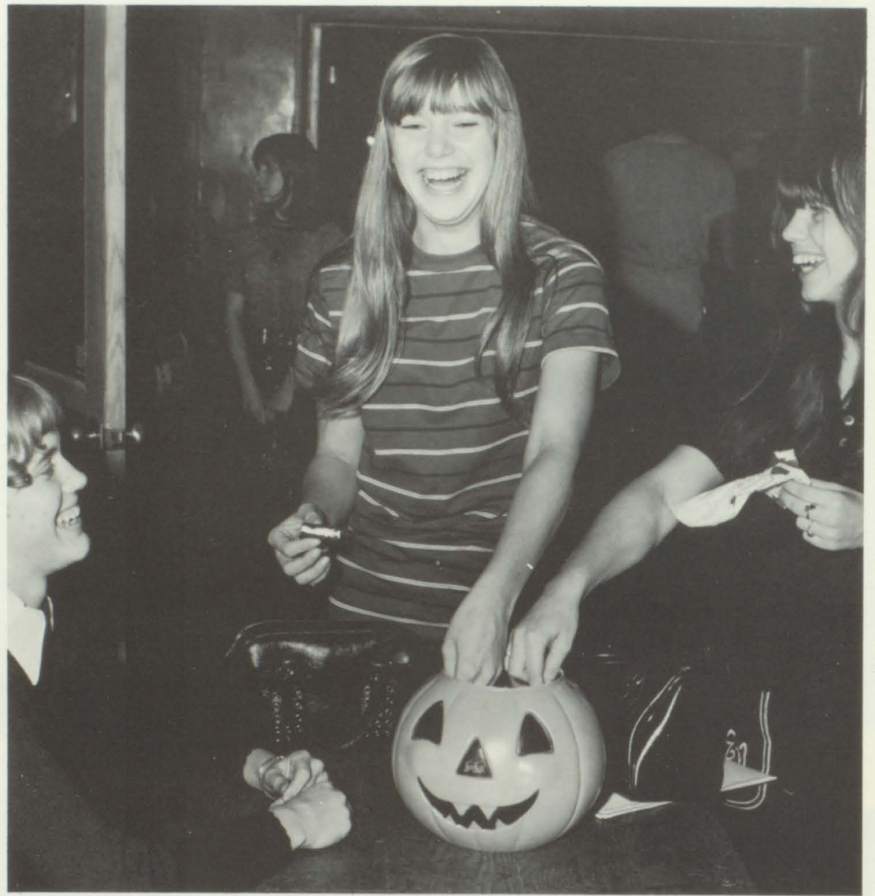

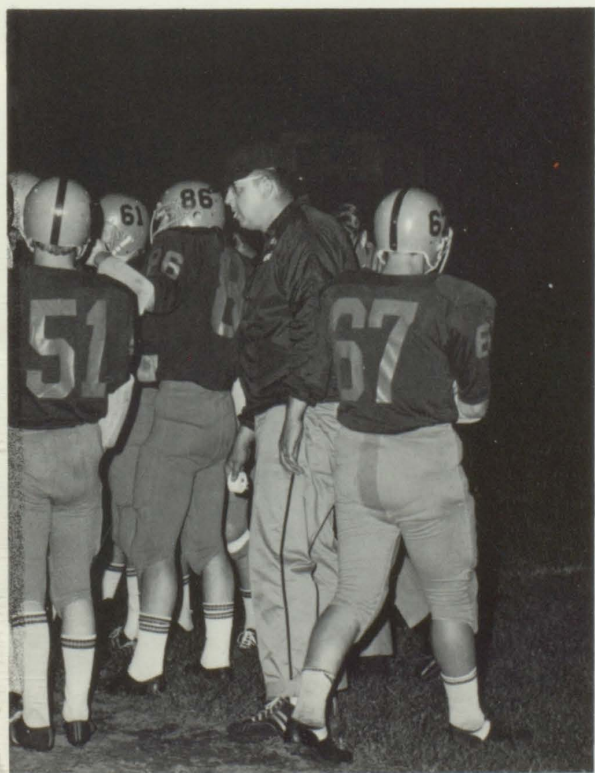

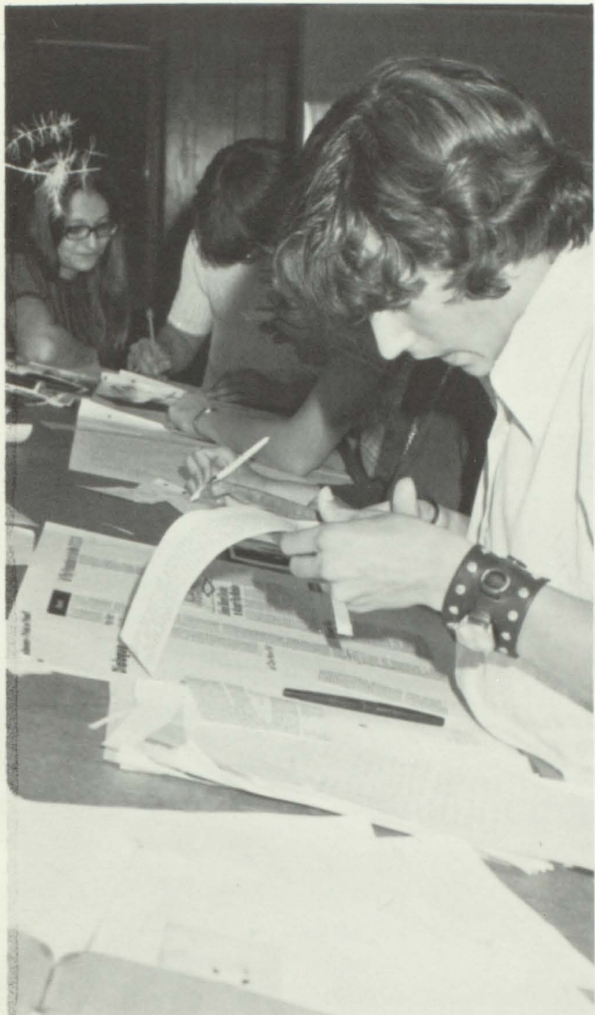

... we mature scholastically ...

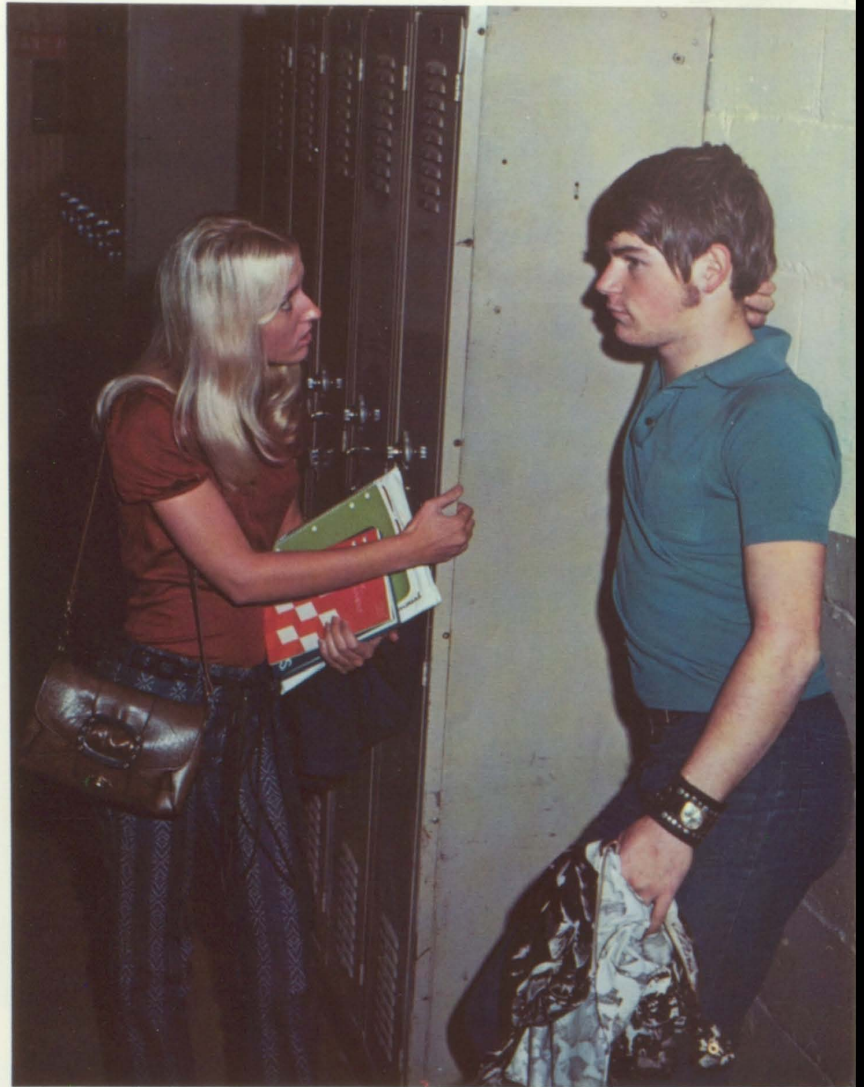

... our special interests develop ...

...the bonds of friendship increase.

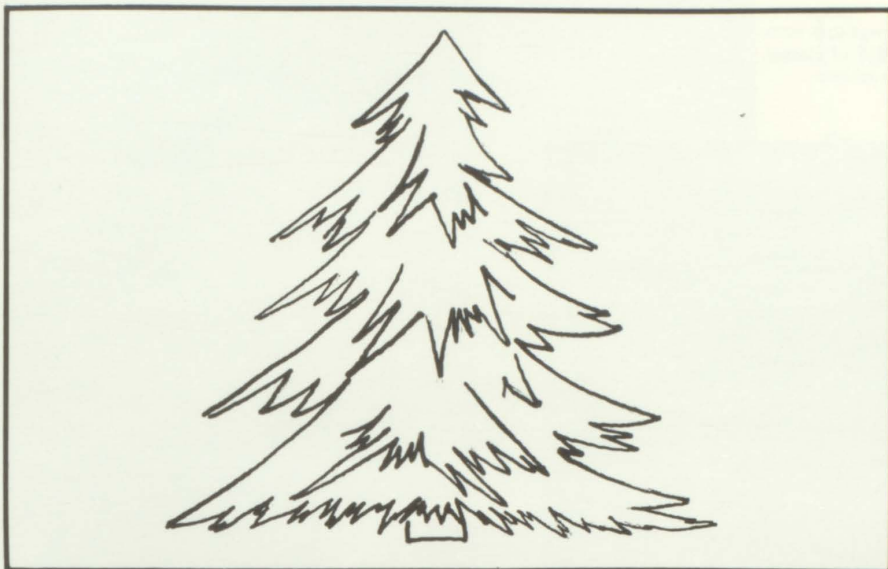

As a seedling grows into a tree, so must we be nurtured and advanced into adulthood. We must overcome new obstacles, meet new decisions and gain the responsibility we seek in our community.

Our education at FLHS is the nourishment on which we prosper as we strive to succeed academically to the best of our abilities.

We are a new breed - seedlings who stand in a forest. Each is an individual, talented in so many different ways.

We are a new breed. We function out of love, enjoying every day as it comes, and live for today.

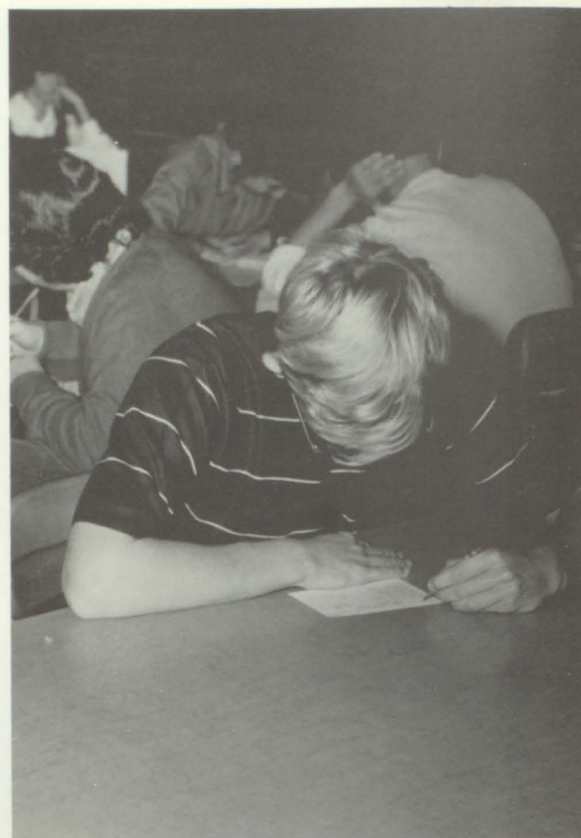

As we progress, we grow socially. Involvement in a powder puff football game or in skits during Homecoming week brings us closer together.

We continue to expand our friendships by attending sockhops and dances like prom and Sadie Hawkins. We become a part of our school through our friends.

Our friends continue for eternity as faces and good times shared during a senior week skit or junior slave sale are remembered. We grow with our friends.

Football Pepfests

Boost FL Morale

Crackling sounds could be heard as many FLHS students shuffled through the newly fallen leaves on their way to school. Many returning Rangers seemed apathetic about the first day of school, but the newly arrived sophomores were extremely uneasy about the beginning of their years in the senior high.

Fall was also the season of football games, chilly weather and sock hops. The first dance of the year, sponsored by the BREEZE, was enthusiastically attended. Frequently scheduled pepfests also gave a boost to our school morale and helped instill self-confidence in our enthusiastic Ranger players and fans.

The annual wildlife dinner was held the sixteenth of November and was attended by Mr. Harper's biology students and their guests. Several weeks before, students prepared for the dinner by gathering wild game and other delicacies to be cooked.

Gals Sink in Mud for Homecoming

"Devalue Cent-ennial" inspired many students to join in the events of Homecoming week. The week began with the wearing of school colors. On Tuesday the gym was crowded with students who watched the crowning of king Wayne Hamilton and queen Donna Spetz who reigned over the remaining events of the week.

The newest event saw the senior girls defeat the junior girls 12-0 in powder puff football in a cold drizzling rain. Halftime was highlighted by the sophomores' hilarious show. The game was followed by a hot dog party attended by many soggy students.

Classes and organizations showed their talents at Thursday's skit night. Then the student body joined the cheerleaders and royalty in the snake dance around the school to the parking lot to smash an effigy of a Chief.

The winning skit of the Shorthand II class and the Speech Choir's honorary cheer were given at the pepfest on Friday. That night, despite a determined attitude for victory, the crowd watched as the Rangers were unable to surpass the Centennial Chiefs.

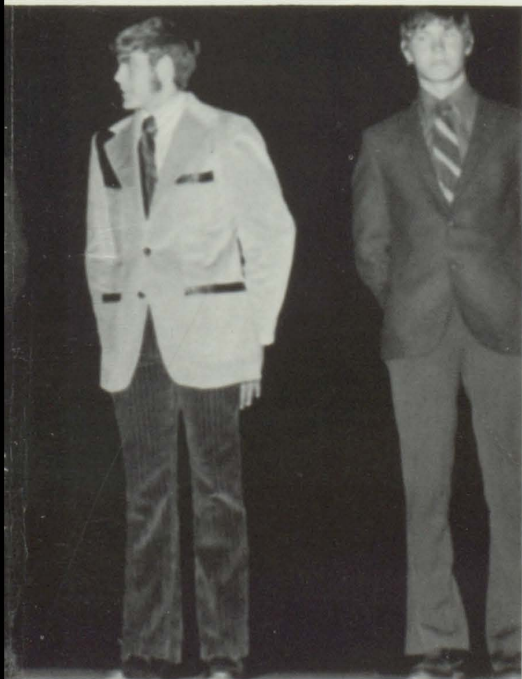

On Saturday night one of the best attended Homecoming dances was held in the Forest View Elementary School. Amid decorations of maroon and gold, students danced to the musical sound of SASSAFRAS.

Students Uneasy About Late Band

The Sadie Hawkin's dance on November 18, 1971, was attended by dozens of Daisy Maes and L'il Abners who glided across the floor of the Forest View Elementary in their latest rags. Many of the juniors, who sponsored the event, were practically in shock until the band "Stone Broke" arrived an hour late. Soon everyone began to visit Marrin' Sam, Paul Reed, and his assistant, Tracy Tolzman. Divorcing Dan, Paul Buys, had a quiet evening, performing only three divorces throughout the dance.

A person was charged a particular price according to the size of his foot measurement, which was taken with a yard stick upon entrance. Hay bales were spread around the floor to give it a Dogpatch setting. In addition, pop, doughnuts and cookies were served to everyone. After a great deal of planning, the juniors succeeded in sponsoring a tremendous Sadie Hawkin's dance. They attained much of the needed funds for the spring prom held in the spring.

Thurber Carnival

Directed by Two

After six long hard weeks of rehearsing the fall play, FLHS students presented "Thurber Carnival" to the community. The play was performed in fifteen scenes and two word dances which gave the play a great deal of variation and a carnival effect.

The two directors taking charge of "Thurber Carnival" were Mrs. Howe and Mr. Carlson. The combination of the two directors working together was definitely an asset to the performance. An interpretive dance was performed in a serious scene entitled "The Last Flower."

"Thurber Carnival" brought the audience from a small town with a hen-pecked husband to an island of intrigue. Much work was involved in the scenery for the play, which included cartoon characters on the curtains. The directors agreed that this was one of the most talented casts ever to perform in a school play at Forest Lake. They also commented that they have great hopes for the future performances in the new senior high school auditorium.

FL Impressed by New High School

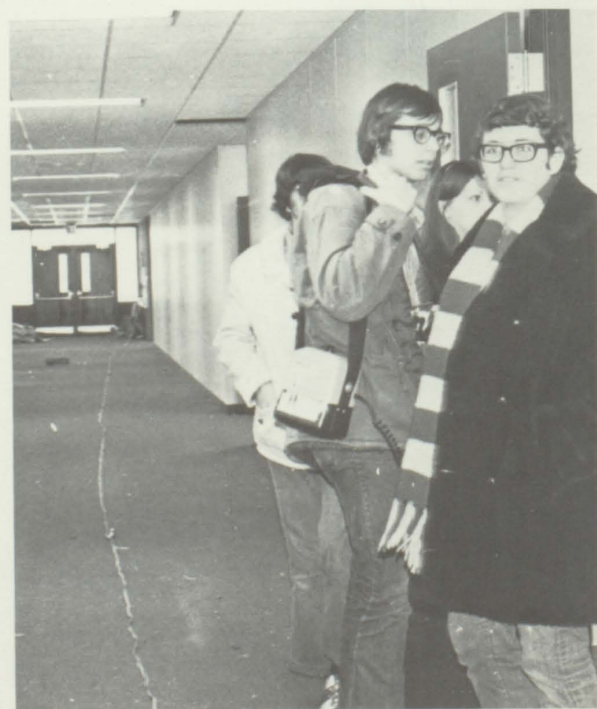

With a two-day winter holiday to move into the new school, students were able to clear their minds of tests and homework for a short time. However, many willingly came to the new school to help teachers unpack all the remembrances of their old classrooms and rearrange the school in a realistic pattern for teaching.

Under the direction of Mr. Carlson, the one-act play centered around a husband and wife theme. Taken from James Thurber's works, the play included sketches of "The Unicorn in the Garden," "Mr. Preble Gets Rid of His Wife," and two additional fables. In sub-district competition Tracy Tolzmann received the award for best actor. In district competition at North Branch, the cast placed third.

Cultural enrichment came to FLHS with the performance of the Minnesota Symphony Orchestra in February. Spectators listened to such famous selections as the William Tell Overture and the 1812 Overture. Still another cultural highlight was the well-received Christmas program given by the Fine Arts Department.

Downhill Surfing Exhausts Seniors

The slogan "There are too few like '72" was proven this year as the annual senior week activities began. Monday, the class colors of purple and white distinguished many seniors. That night classmates attended the party at Eko Backen which included innertubing and sno-surfing down the hills. Winning the trophies for the longest trips down the hill on a sno-surf board were Cathy Arth and Max McGowan. Tuesday, sweatshirt day, was also highlighted by the slave auction which was held after school. The dreaded day for the lowly juniors was Wednesday when they were obliged to obey every command of their masters. Dress-up day on Thursday created an air of dignity for the entire school to follow. Friday was the annual basketball game between the winning senior boys and the faculty. Following the wrestling match and the basketball game, the first sock hop in the new school was held. Music was provided by "Paranoia."

Choir Sponsors Christmas Dance

On December 18, couples attended the last dance of 1971, "Winterland of Love." Dressed for the semi-formal event, everyone enjoyed dancing to the music of "Open Road."

Although the choir sponsored the dance, the seniors planned and prepared for it. At first problems were foreseen with very few couples buying their advanced tickets. This year singles were encouraged to attend, but in the beginning even they seemed to hesitate. However, due to the persuasive messages over the PA system the attendance of both couples and singles almost doubled in the last few days before the dance.

As planned in previous years, once again the progressive dinner was held. With cold feet from trampling through snow, couples ate deliciously prepared meals. "Winterland of Love" was enjoyed by all, and plans are already being made for next year's dance.

Sr. Social Credits Open for Juniors

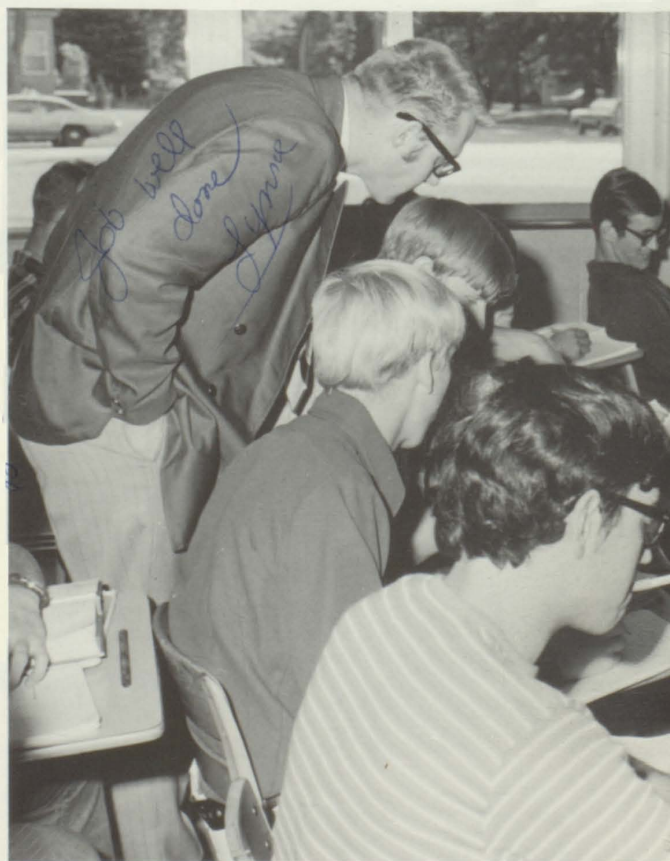

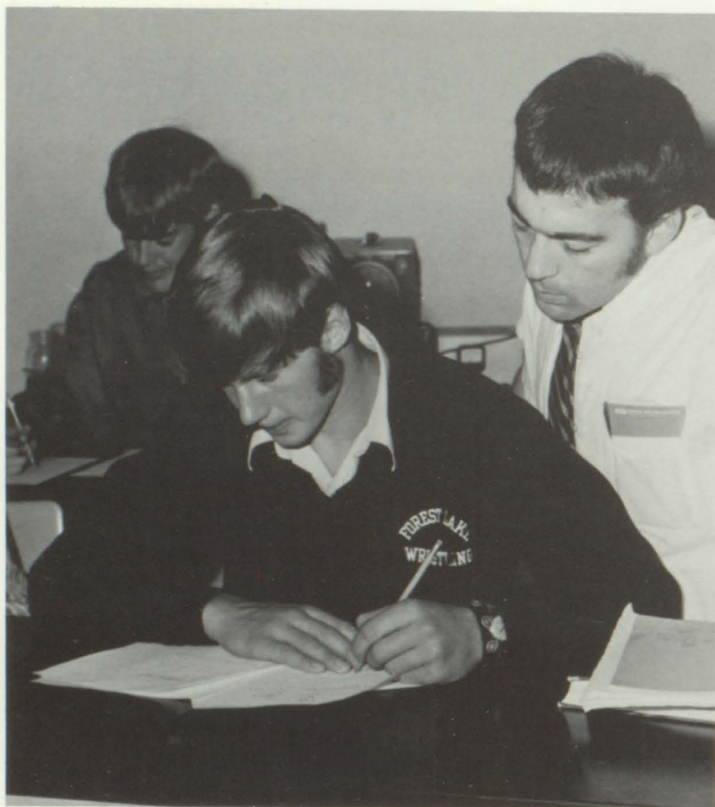

Many new curriculum developments took place in Forest Lake High School this year and the history department was responsible for many of them. One of the changes that took place within this department was that a larger variety of history classes was offered.

Also, the history department opened courses to juniors so that they could get their senior social credit during their second year, rather than waiting until their senior year. Under this new plan, the senior social credit was divided into eight semester electives, enabling students to choose any two. The new courses offered were Political Science, Economic Theory, U.S. and the Modern World, Sociology, Family Living, Contemporary Problems, Anthropology and Psychology.

One of the interesting new history classes this year was Psychology, taught by Mr. Neal Nelson and Mr. Rollin Nelson. It was a popular elective choice since the students related the problems in class to their own lives.

Science Teachers Promote F.L.I.P.

The math department's resources were expanded this year with the addition of two new calculators; one had a memory bank and the other was a programmable desk model. The departmental courses were divided into semester blocs to aid with the programming of the new elective courses in other fields.

One such field, science, greatly increased its subject matter this year with the addition of new semester courses. The science teachers believed that more classes would give students a better opportunity to take courses they liked, or were interested in, without spending a full year in a class they disliked. The emphasis of the new courses, Ecology, Environmental Biology and Minnesota Wildlife, was on a clean environment. Class enthusiasm led a group of devoted students, with the help of the science teachers, to form an organization called F.L.I.P. to help the community of Forest Lake improve its environment.

Creativity Found in Christmas Fair

Students in Mrs. Volkmann's special education class have a curriculum which is geared to future possibilities of employment. Throughout the year they were involved in several activities within the school and often raised money to be used for the benefit of the entire class. The two biggest fund raisers were the caramel-apple sales and their annual Christmas fair. The fair gave the students an opportunity to express their individuality and creativity in making projects such as candles and wreaths which they contributed to the activity. Money raised by the class was used to take the students on an overnight trip.

Another major highlight of the special education class this year was the Christmas party they had at Mrs. Volkmann's house. Afterwards the students journeyed to Dresser, Wisconsin, to have dinner at Louie's Inn. They also visited the Trollhaugen Ski Lodge just outside Dresser.

F.L.H.S. Seniors Obtain Guidance

Students who were faced with problems in their classrooms this year made their way to the guidance office where the headache of schedule changes was faced. Counselors also helped seniors find information about colleges and technical schools and helped them prepare for entrance tests. In addition, they conducted a large testing program for all students.

The library added approximately one thousand books this year as well as many types of non-print materials such as tapes and filmstrips. Mr. Moskop found time to help students in the library in addition to planning for the move to the new school and for the use of the new Instructional Materials Center.

Mr. Fuhrman aided in providing efficient service in the audio-visual department. All types of equipment were in constant use and the A.V. room was busy with repair tasks.

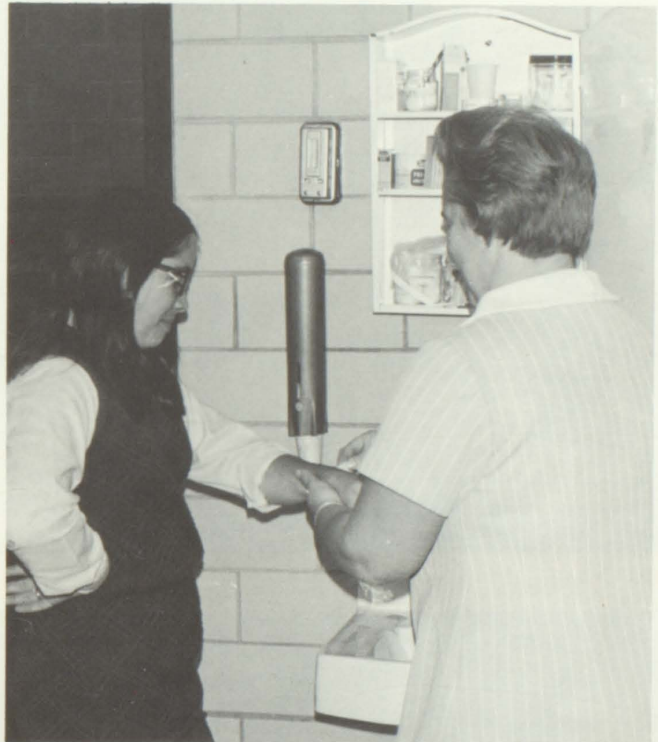

The school nurse had a hectic schedule, for in addition to serving the senior high she also worked with students throughout the district. Mrs. Frigstad supervised the annual checks of students' hearing and sight in addition to Mantoux testing for juniors.

Secretaries Cope With Hectic Year

The duties of the principal's secretaries included taking care of attendance records and putting grades on report cards. They also handled the Student Activity Fund and the insurance forms for athletes. The addition of Mrs. Baxter as switchboard operator gave them more time to serve school needs.

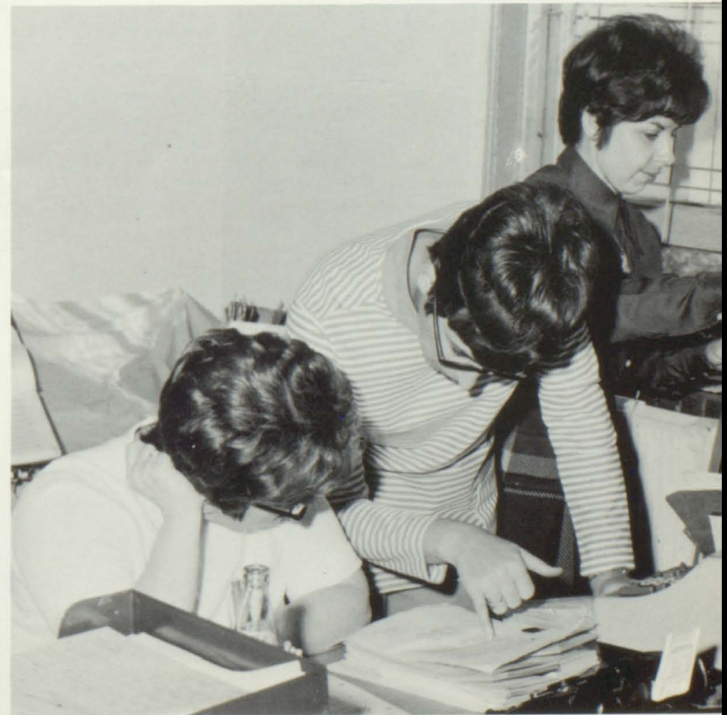

The secretaries who worked in the superintendent's office had the duties of taking charge of cafeteria reports, qualification reports, and the weekly schedule of events. They also had to take care of accounts payable, bookkeeping duties, and general office work.

The paraprofessionals' jobs consisted of ordering films, notifying teachers when they arrived and making up a catalog of available materials. They also did work for all of the teachers by typing up tests, handouts and information sheets, and running off materials.

The secretaries who worked for the counselors kept records straight and made appointments for students to see the counselors.

F.L. Bus Drivers Must Rise Early!

Although the cooks worked hard to prepare meals for the students this year, they received little recognition for all their work. With the supplies they had, nutritious meals for senior high students were prepared.

During the summer the custodians repaired lockers. Many students found they had no locks on the first day of school, but this was soon corrected when new locks arrived. To avoid slipping down the ramps, strips of rough surfaced material were laid. The gym floor was also repaired during the fall of the year.

An often overlooked group, the bus drivers fought many poor driving conditions to return the students to their homes. Fifty-three men and women transported students to and from school everyday. Mr. Jensen, transportation manager, made sure that there were buses for extra-curricular activities.

Office Help Give Much Free Time

This year many students gave up their free time to work in the principal's office. There were a variety of jobs to do, including writing up absence slips, delivering messages and locating students. The helpers in the assistant principal's office ran errands, paged students and recorded tardiness and absences.

The guidance help was kept busy delivering passes. In addition, they filed records and put students' names in alphabetical order.

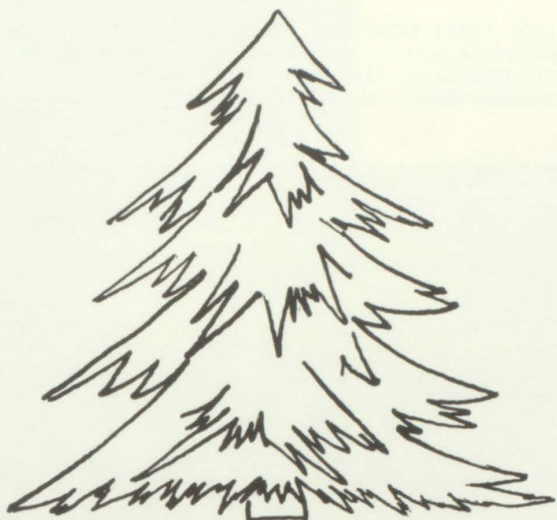

The library helpers' primary jobs were checking out materials and shelving books. They also helped process new materials by checking invoices and stamping books. Mr. Moskop stated that the library could not function without these dependable students.

The A.V. workers were continuously delivering equipment. They set up P.A. Systems for most school events and controlled lighting for THURBER CARNIVAL. They also did video taping, photography work and sign printing.

Probing their minds for creative ideas, writers are finally rewarded with publications. Concerned students mill over the problems of governing a student body.

Singers harbor anxiety before a performance and relief after it. Before advancing down the slopes for the first time, skiers experience last minute qualms.

A growing need to be included enhances determined characteristics of leadership and develops a better understanding of friendship. Organizations-a time for becoming involved.

Organizations

Band Obtains 35 New Instruments

Because of a growing interest in learning to play a musical instrument, the band added approximately 35 new instruments to the already crowded shelves of the band room this year. For the first time the band and choir combined their selling efforts to make money for the FLHS Fine Arts Department. To help defray the cost of this new department formation, the annual candy sale was held in the fall.

Since the band practiced their contest numbers earlier than ever before, Director Rollin Nelson felt that the band performances were better prepared and planned than in past years. Armed with songs of joy, the band played at the Christmas concert, and members of the pep band entertained the crowds during half-time at all the home basketball games. All of their efforts helped to raise our school spirit.

Newspaper Staff Changes Format

This year the Breeze staff grew much larger than in past years. Several changes were made as Mr. Streater became the Staff's new advisor. For the purpose of establishing responsibility, the Breeze appointed four page-editors and an editor-in-chief. Operating under a change in format from past years, editors scheduled meetings at regular intervals to which faculty members and other reporters were warmly welcomed. Because of the school's demand on the paper, the staff had to expand newly budgeted authority and increase half of the issues to six pages.

In its third year in existence, Prolifique added twelve members to its staff. As a result of new ideas used by the staff this year, dimensions of the magazine were smaller than last year. The staff appraised the work of enthusiastic students who submitted their work. Prolifique was backed financially by subscriptions and also by funds from the school board. Miss Roskaf and the staff strove to make Prolifique more of an accepted and representative school project.

Enthusiastic Girls Add School Spirit

Due to wrestling popularity, an additional cheerleader was added this year. This increased the number of girls from nine to ten. These ten never-tiring girls showed their overabundance of school spirit at pepfests and games during the entire year. In order to be a cheerleader, a great deal of determination and a cooperative manner are needed. Our cheerleaders clearly demonstrated these qualities.

Whenever an away game was played, the cheerleaders gave up their lunch hours to sell tickets to students. Besides, home games were never to be forgotten. During the winter sports the cheerleaders painted pictures of an opposing team player on a large hoop which our players ran through showing the overwhelming force of a Ranger. To gain ideas from other schools on how to increase school spirit, the cheerleaders attended a cheerleading clinic and returned with many new suggestions.

Choir Funds Bring Minn. Orchestra

The choir members had to work harder for excellence this year because of the smaller number of students who were involved as compared with last year's fifty members. Since there were more sophomores than ever before, the majority of the choir was inexperienced. However, what the choir lacked in experience this year they made up for in enthusiasm.

Their performance at the Christmas concert was very well received. Part of it was performed in a relaxed setting of madrigal singing which seemed to delight the audience.

New projects were also undertaken by this year's choir. They sponsored the Christmas dance and progressive dinner and, together with the band, they were responsible for the performance of the Minnesota Orchestra which was held in the new gymnasium of the senior high on February 27. This presentation gave the public an opportunity to tour the new school as well as to enjoy a cultural experience.

Varsity Debators Enter State Meet

After much hard work, the 29 Debate members were ready to partake in tournaments on this year's topic: "Resolved that the jury system shall be significantly changed."

The varsity team of Steve Krasky, Toni Lind, Sue Meister, Carol Peterson and Barb Schmidt worked their way to the Skyline tournament and took first place. At Macalester the squad placed second, and Carol Peterson received a trophy for the second most outstanding speaker. In regional competition, they placed third and won the honor of entering the state contest. Overall, the varsity squad had an 80% winning record for the 1971-72 season.

Declamation is an activity that grew in membership as the year progressed. Students were able to express themselves in any one of eight different areas of speaking. Three practice meets helped the participants to prepare for tournament competition in early spring.

FL Speech Choir

Gains Popularity

Among the largest organizational changes this year was the Speech Choir. Each grade averaged forty-five students in the three different choirs, working independently and as one unit for three public concerts and one road tour. Mr. Lindstrom assisted until more rehearsal space was gained in the new school. Although no officers were elected, Julie Thurnbeck and other assistant student directors helped in the planning of concert pieces, for the Christmas program performed for the elementary school children.

The Drama Club consisted of students who participated in the productions given in school this year. These students also helped to promote plays by advertising, and were led by the senior members who had taken part in the dramatic productions in previous years. This year the membership decreased considerably, yet Mrs. Howe, the advisor, was kept busy arranging performances throughout the year.

Child Care Units

Help Elementary

F.L.I.P. members are a part of the MECCA student task force consisting of dedicated students from Twin City High Schools. They are working together to solve air and water pollution problems in the metropolitan and suburban areas.

The student members wanted to involve the entire community in F.L.I.P. but a lack of interest somewhat stifled the project. The area designated as a collection center in Forest Lake was behind Setterholm's. During October, Faith Lutheran Church helped in the collection of bottles and cans which could be recycled. Leading F.L.I.P. this year were Mr. Harper, Mr. Henderson, and Mrs. Hansen.

Interest in an elementary help program initiated three years ago by Mr. Rand, was rejuvenated by Mrs. Sandager's Child Care classes which made weekly trips to the elementary schools during their class hours. A sprinkling of other interested students also participated in this program. During their visits, the students tutored and assisted the elementary school children with their studies.

FHA Subject to New Advisorship

Leadership in FHA was slightly changed this year by the increase of advisors. Rather than putting all the responsibility on one teacher, Mrs. Sandager, Miss Muckala and Mrs. Swenson decided to co-advise the organization.

With a growing membership the FHA started community service projects and collected equipment for the Indians. The girls also visited the elderly at Birchwood Nursing Home.

FFA, an organization open to both boys and girls at FLHS, had a larger membership than ever before. To raise money for Camp Courage, Mr. Sandager showed slides of his stay in Africa. A small admission was charged and the lyseum proved profitable and educational.

Also, to raise money they held their annual Christmas tree sale to pay for the expenses of the FFA Club throughout the year.

Change Made in Forester Advisor

The Forester staff went through considerable change this year. With the graduation of seniors on last year's staff, new talents and fresh ideas were initiated into the FLHS yearbook. Another major change this year was that of getting a new advisor. Feeling it was time to step down and let someone else take over the responsibilities of the yearbook, Mrs. Hermes nostalgically gave up her position as Forester advisor to Mr. Bernauer.

The photo editor, Sharon Furrer, attended classes at the U of M this summer to learn new techniques of putting a yearbook together. It was not at all uncommon to find copy editors "cooped up" in their small rooms at 3 a.m. working frantically to make a deadline.

In spite of all the hard work and long hours that went into putting out the Forester, the staff also did have its moments of fun. Early in the fall, the business staff organized a successful subscription dance featuring "Tuesday's People." Finally, as an end to another year's work, the annual Forester signing party was held once again during the first part of May.

French Club Visits Guthrie's Cyrano

The French Club got off to a new start this year with the election of officers. Once the wheels were set in motion, many activities were planned. One of the events that took place was the film PHANTOM OF THE RUE MORGUE. The club also planned a menu of French foods for the French dinner. However, the highlight of the year was their trip to the Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis to see Cyrano de Bergerac.

This year the Spanish Club participated in the Homecoming skit night by featuring a Spanish talent scout and a Spanish king in their humorous skit. Another highlight of the year was the annual Christmas party. Preparations were made for refreshments, decorations and entertainment. Part of the entertainment included eating grapes as a clock chimed in a new day. Spanish decorations and pinatas filled with candy and little presents helped to create a foreign atmosphere.

F.L. GAA Team

Achieves Honors

This year the GAA basketball team won the Skyline Championship for the third year in a row, thus giving a permanent home to the traveling trophy. Taking consolation honors in the softball tournament held at Fridley was the GAA softball team. The tennis team, with all players returning next year, also played well and placed fourth. Striving to win the Skyline Championship for the first time, the volleyball team's determination and effort payed off as they defeated a strong Spring Lake Park team.

The gymnastics team was the only interscholastic team this year for girls. There were five members from each event on A-squad and also five memebbers on B-squad. The season began during the first week of January and ended in the last week of March. The enthusiastic girls practiced in the gym every night and held their meets on Thursday evenings.

Lettermen's Club Ushers at Games

With the addition of the new co-advisor, Mr. Lindstrom, the Lettermen had many new ideas and good intentions. One of the best ideas was to give blood to the Red Cross, which was quickly rebuked when they learned they had to be eighteen. They also assisted at home games and matches by handing out programs, keeping spectators off the floor and prohibiting beverages in the gymnasium.

Initiates found a hectic week in store for them as they frantically tried to get all signatures of Lettermen and coaches. They were subjected to the everpresent command, "In order to get me to sign your board, do 50 push-ups." As each day passed, the final test came closer. On Friday they were introduced to the feeling of bird seed, STP, and Vaseline in their hair, and tabasco sauce, raw eggs, and chicken feed in their stomachs. Punishment was set at a half hour, and what a half hour it was!

Skiers Enjoy the Trollhaugen Hills

Aside from Speech Choir, the Ski Club had the biggest increase in membership this year. There were eighty-six students who signed up to go on five consecutive evening trips to Trollhaugen during the skiing season. The students were accompanied by their new advisor, Mr. Diesslin, who expressed concern for the development of an almost defunct organization.

Pep Club was much smaller than in previous years, but it had many hard-working members. The girls were spurred to work more diligently on posters and cheering because of the initiation of a new point system. This point system enabled the girls to earn a pin at the end of the year. The girls involved in Pep Club showed their enthusiasm by putting on skits at pepfests and by painting signs to hang in the hallways. In addition, the members sold buttons during all the lunches to increase school spirit and to earn money to sponsor dances.

Penny Day Helps to Adopt a Child

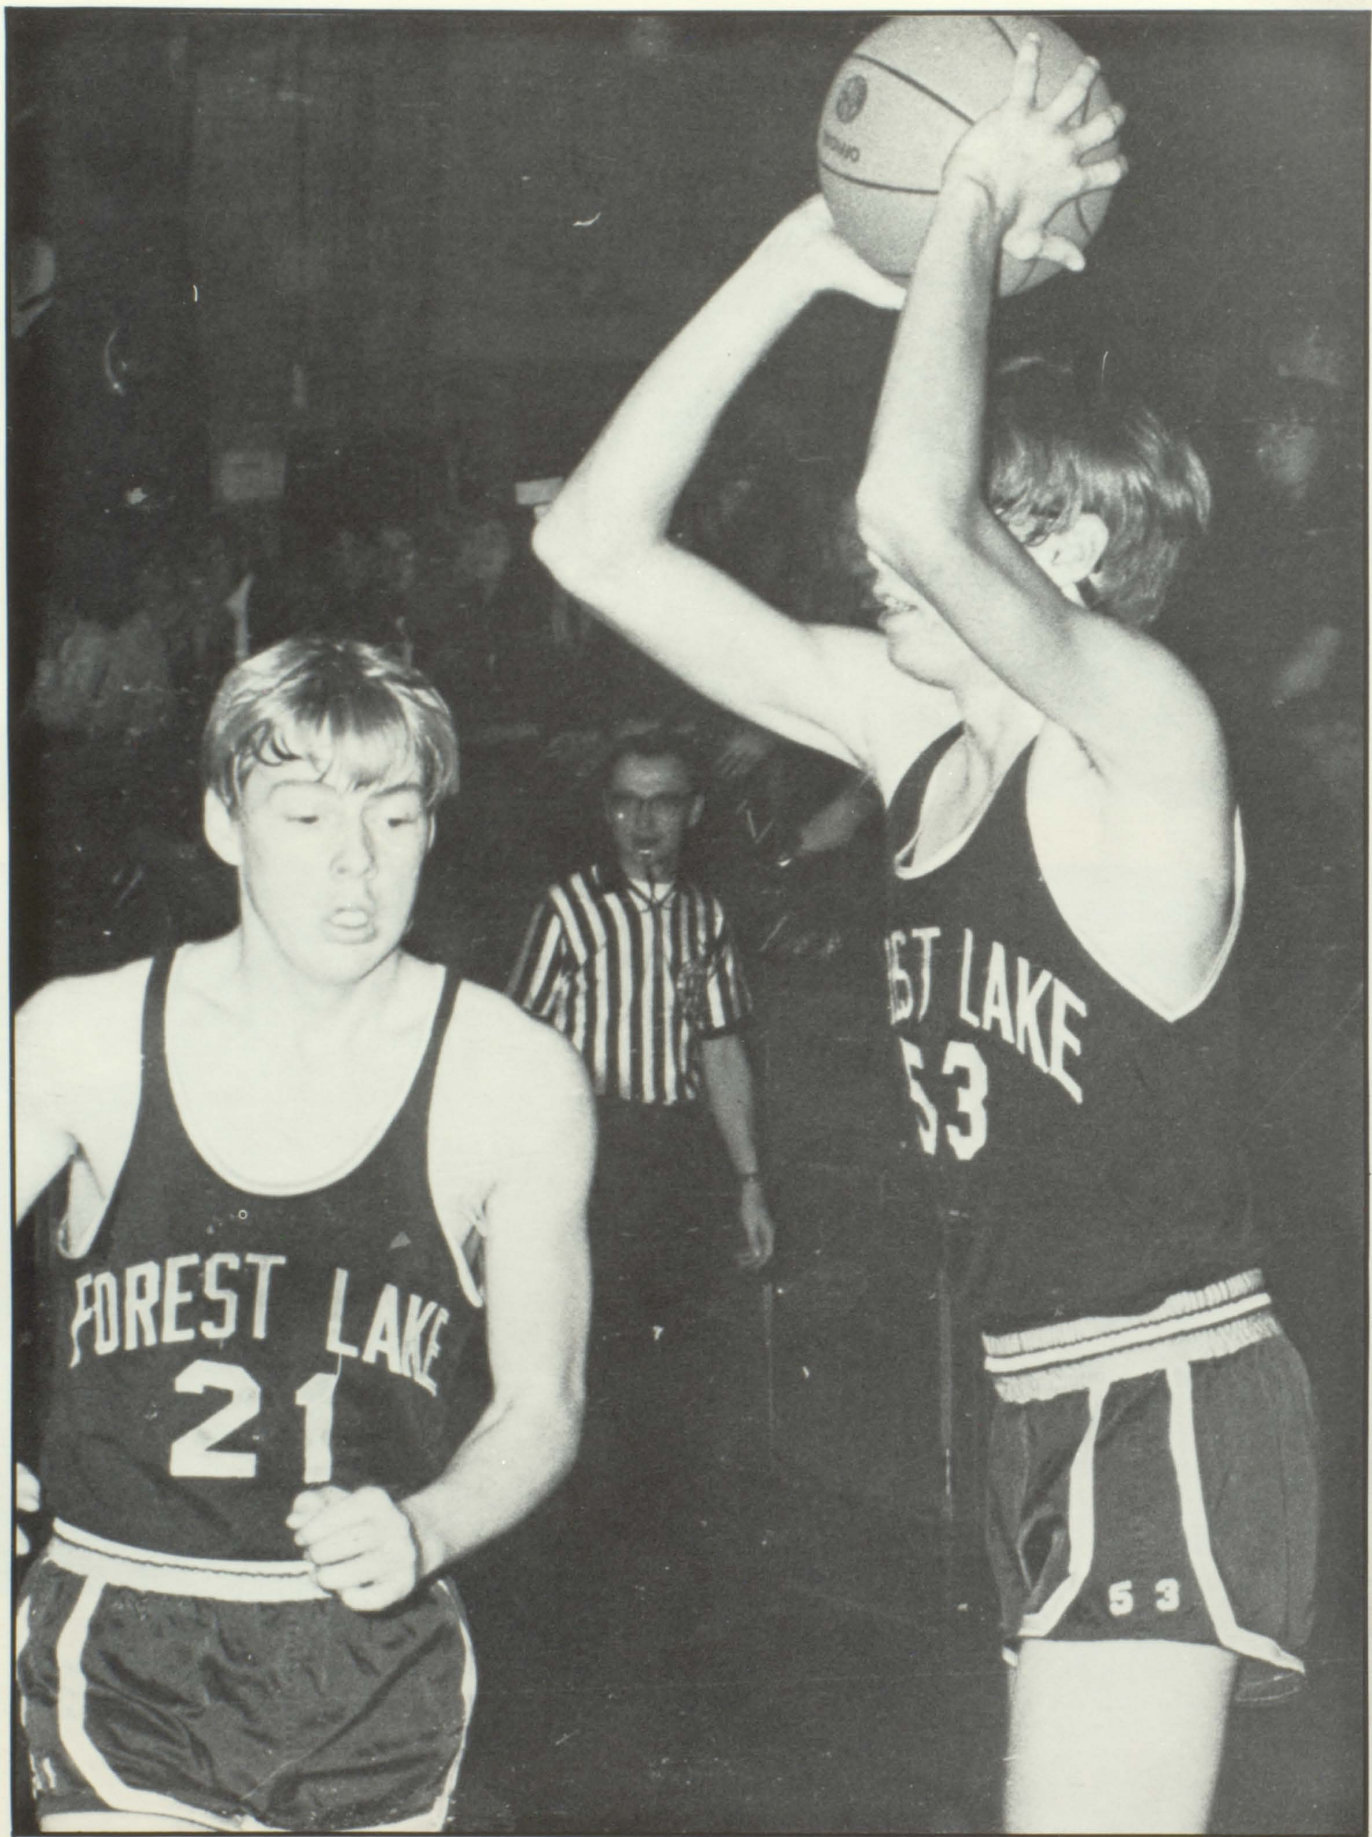

The student council's goal this year was to promote more student involvement within the school. Certain classrooms were assigned to each member who relayed the happenings of the council to the students.

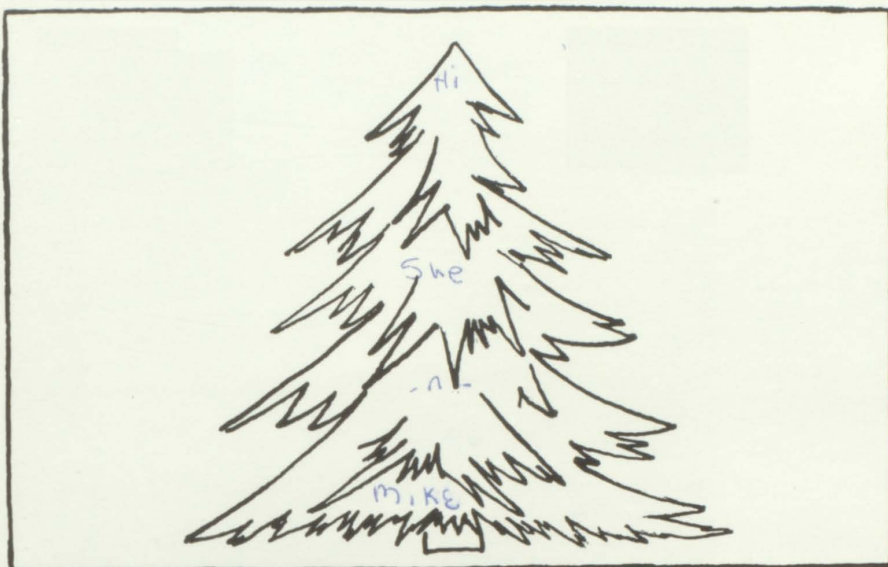

The first project of the council was Homecoming and it proved to be a very successful week. Two new events were added this year, the bashing of a papier-maché Centennial Chief and the junior and senior powderpuff game which was played by enthusiastic girls in a cold down-pour of rain.

Two of the council members, Kris Berg and Mari Gilbertson, attended a student council convention in Moorhead and returned with new ideas. To help people less fortunate, a Penny Day and a Drive for Everything were held. Projects for the new school were also considered.

Increased participation inspires a season of effort. To make our school number one not only academically but physically, girl's and boy's sports progress.

In basketball and football new coaches foster teamwork. Determination from both players and coaches encourage a better understanding of sportsmanship.

With the planning of a more extensive program, students look forward to year-round sports. A deeper rapport grows out of a constant willingness to succeed.

Sports

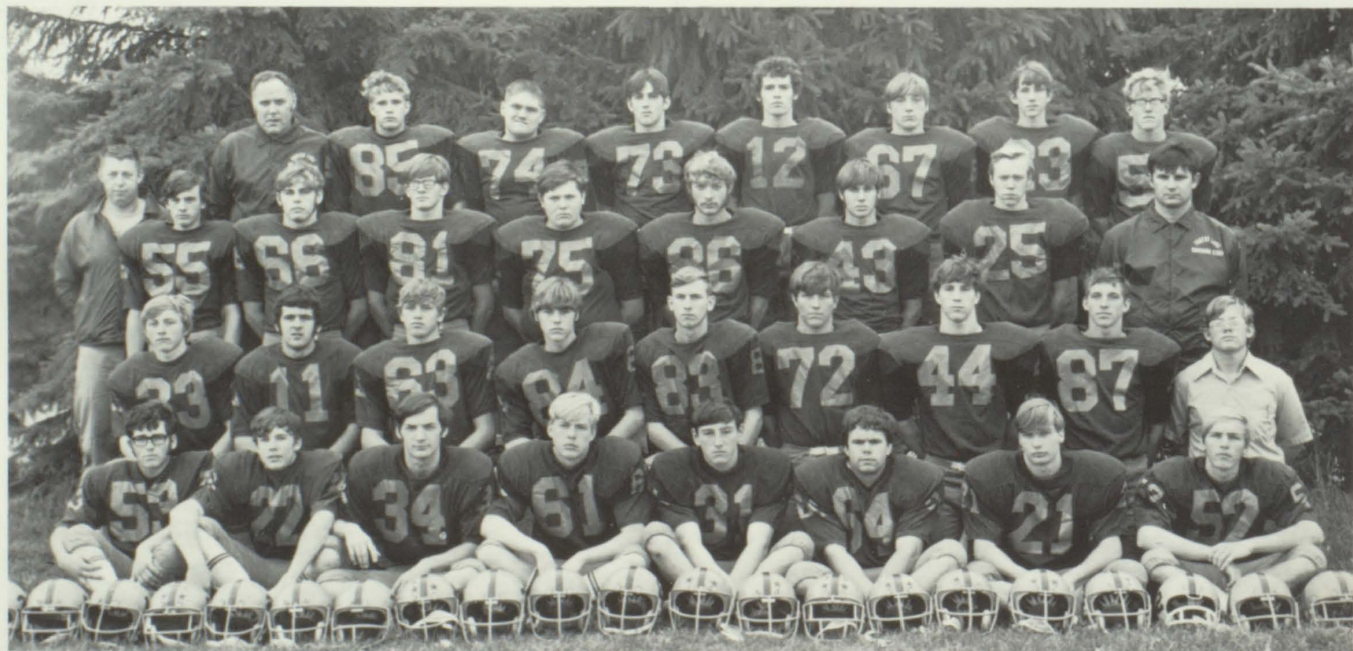

Continuing Effort Identifies Players

Although winning was not a key description of this year's team, effort and self-confidence in the face of defeat most clearly identified our Rangers. During the season, the total yards gained were 1662, the total yards in passing were 860, and the total distance in running was 765.

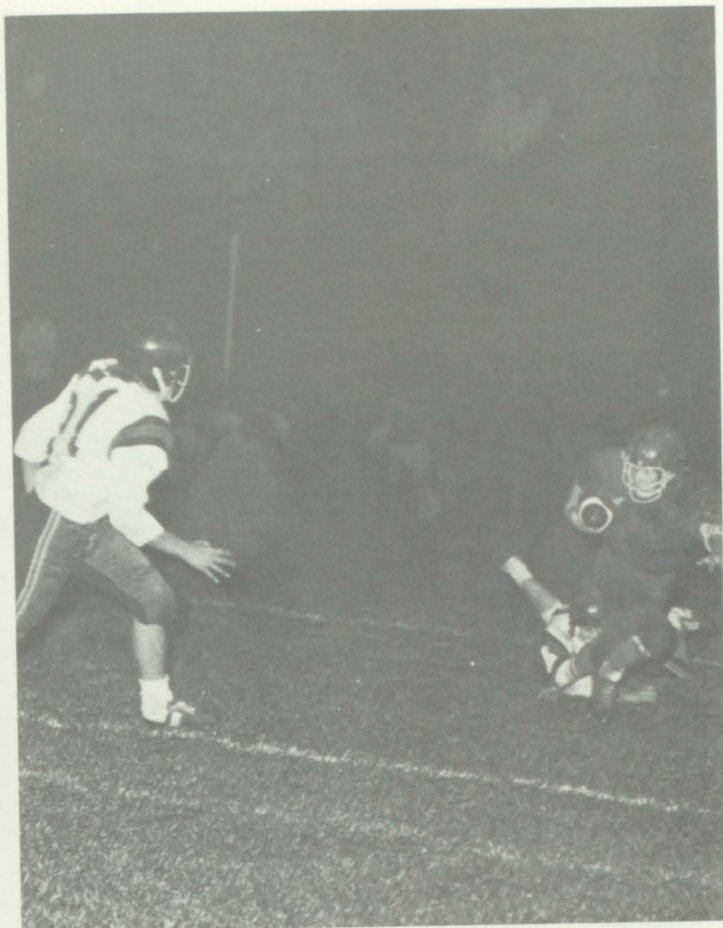

Earl Dick attempted 133 passes and completed 60 of them with an average of .451. Wayne Hamilton was Forest Lakes's leading scorer with 26 points and 352 yards.

In conference statistics, Earl Dick was the second leading passer. In addition, Roger Rowbotham made all-conference, while Kevin Johnson, Wayne Hamilton and Greg Vedder all received honorable mention.

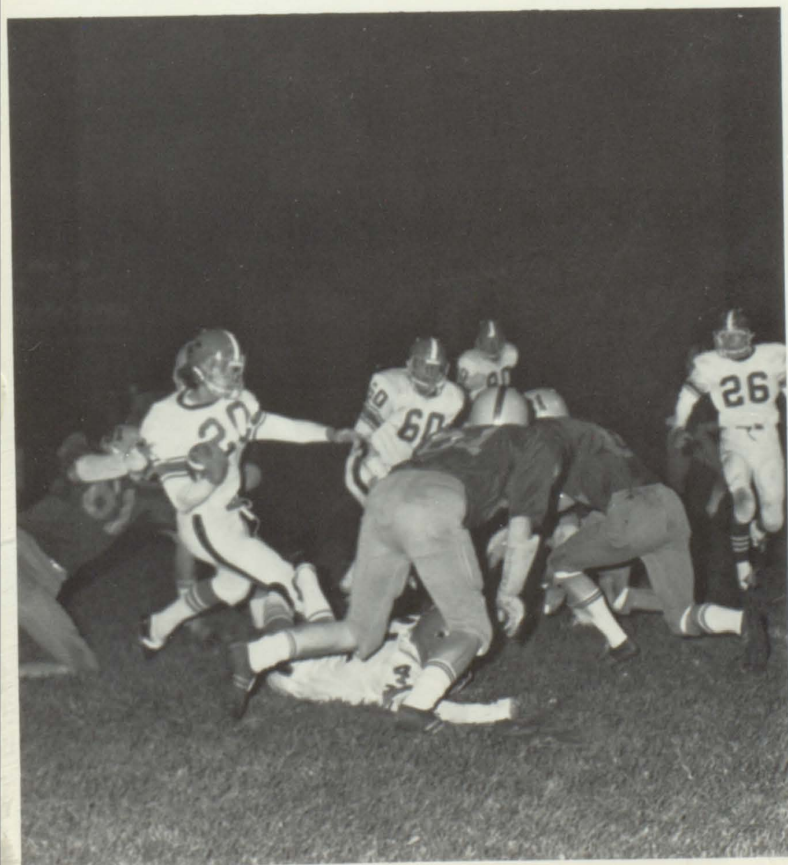

With a hard season completed, the team is looking forward to a better season next year. A stronger and more experienced team of returning players is most promising.

Rangers Expand in Cross Country

Although Cross Country is a sport often forgotten by spectators, the Cross Country team gains more fans from year to year. This year the FL Cross Country team placed second in District competition and sixth in the Skyline Conference. Their season ended with a hard-fought record of four wins and eight losses.

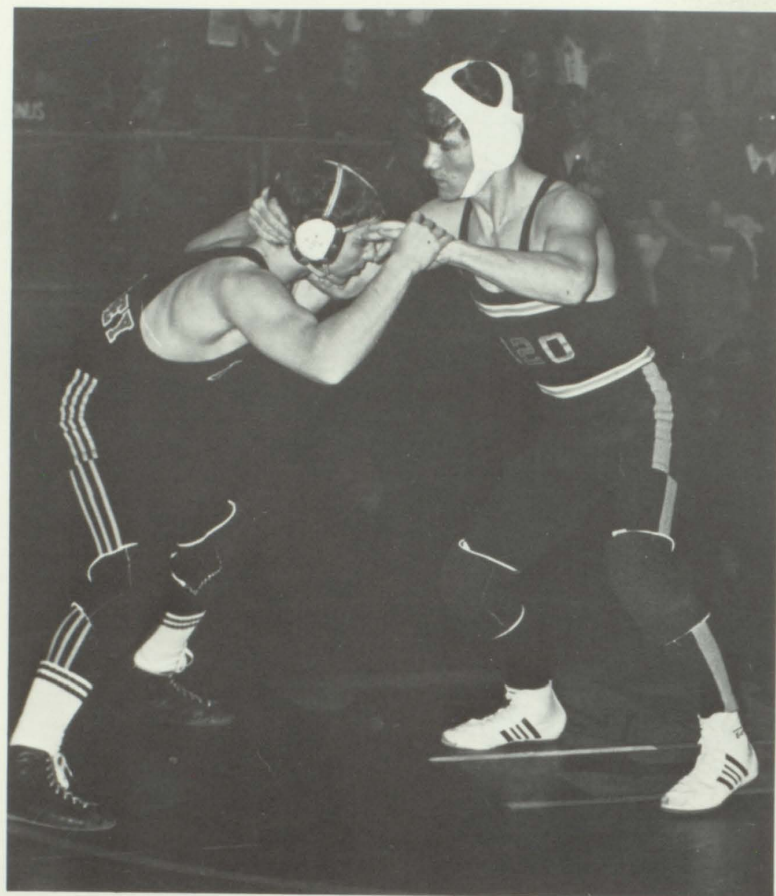

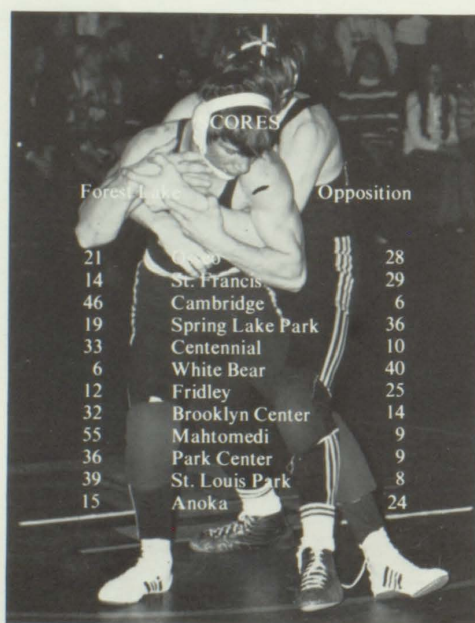

Tim Tate, one of the year's top runners, made all-conference. In addition, he placed eighth in the Conference meet and second in District 25 competition.

With only six returning lettermen much of the responsibility was placed on the incoming juniors and sophomores. Their enthusiasm for winning inspired their team. Ten of these members lettered in their first year of Cross Country. All of this made 1971 a successful year.

Coach Neal Nelson summarized the feelings of FLHS when he stated, "I was very pleased with the performance of the team this year. We were a much improved team from last year and it will be better next year."

FL Matmen Are A Unified Team

Ranger grapplers wrestled their way to many impressive victories during the 1971-72 season. Big improvements in skilled tactics as well as more co-operative teamwork among the wrestlers progressed throughout the year.

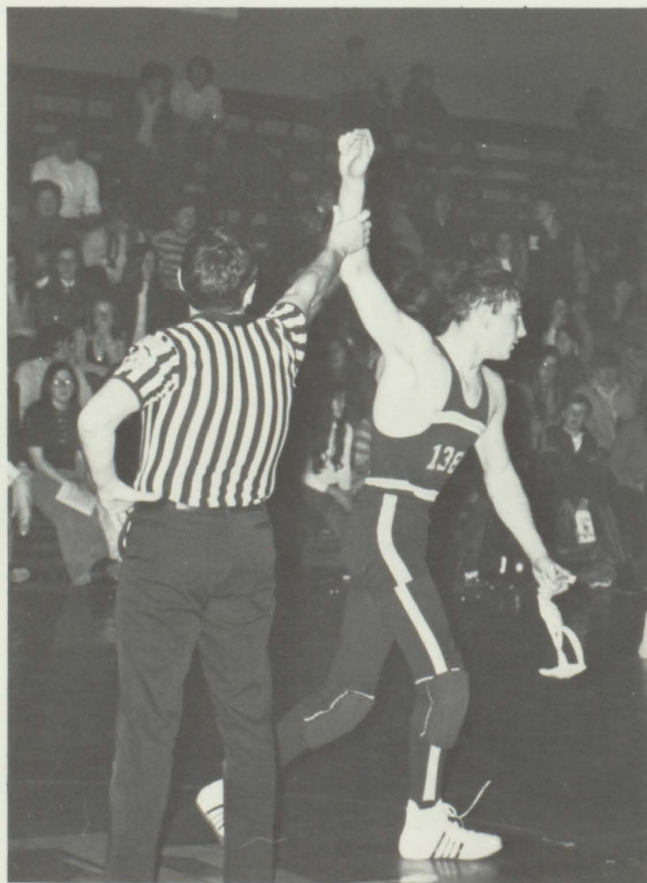

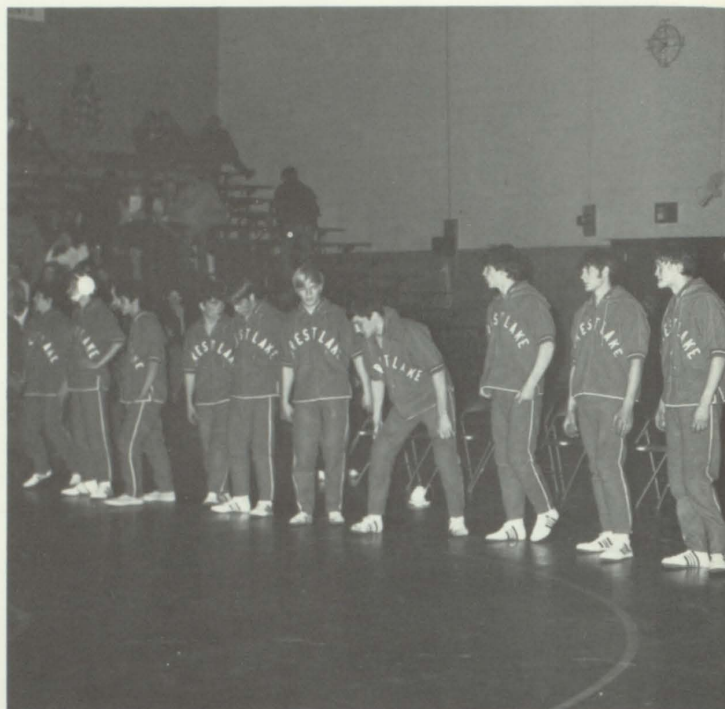

Although the tournament scores were not as good as in past years, season victories showed the strength of a unified team. Roger Rowbotham and Pat Fraley were named all-conference wrestlers. Honorable mention went to Tom Matteson, John Waldoch, Wayne Hamilton and Roger Magnuson. In addition, Rowbotham was Forest Lake's third undefeated conference wrestler. In addition, Rowbotham, Hamilton, Anderson, and Kolbow entered state competition.

Winning most of their matches, the B-squad had an exceptionally successful season this year. With this strong group of wrestlers moving up to varsity, a better experienced team is inevitable for the 1972-1973 season.

Rangers Improve With Team Effort

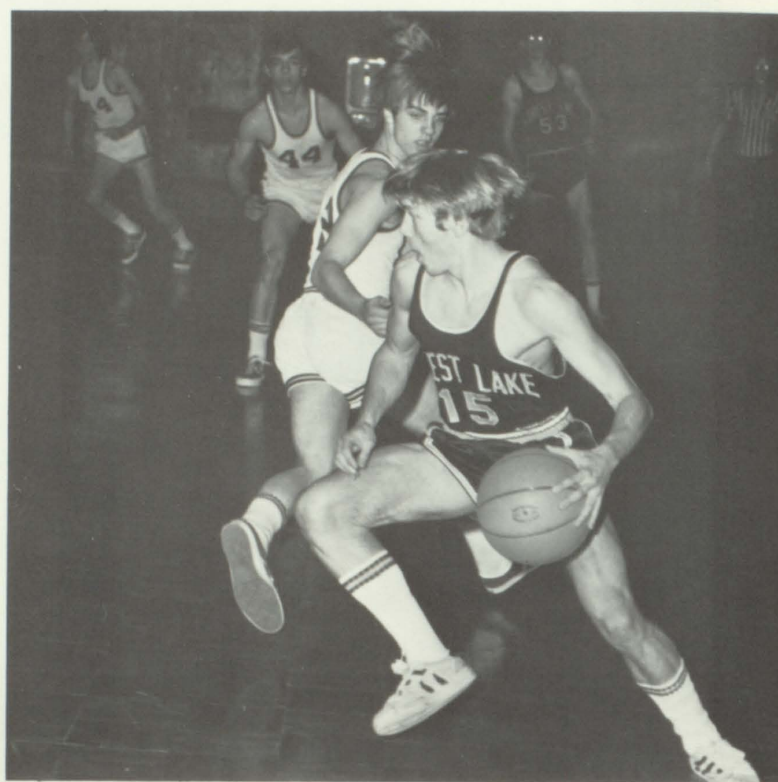

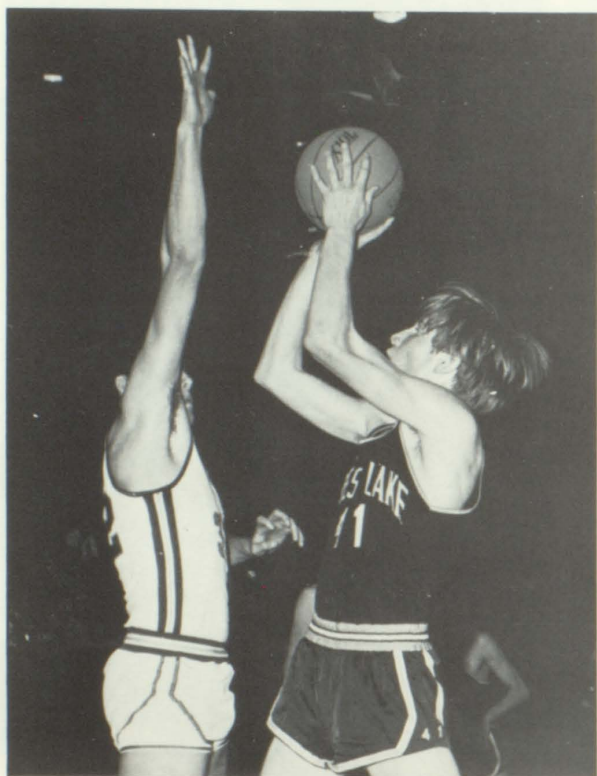

The beginning of the season was quite frustrating for the Forest Lake cagers. The line-up of the players as well as the styles of playing shuffled around continually. In spite of this slow and perplexing start, the team worked hard to establish constancy for the remainder of the season. Greg Vedder and Jim Hollander received special recognition from Mr. Nelson for their individual performances as guards, while the whole team was acknowledged for their team spirit.

This year the quality of the team could not be determined by their scoring record; instead, it could be measured more accurately in terms of their potential and ability. Coach Nelson stated that an athlete could become a good basketball player only if the right moves came naturally for him. He also commented that one of the most important factors needed for victory is a winning and fighting attitude. This, he felt, was an ever-present spirit of this year's basketball team.

Music Intensifies Exercise Routine

This year the sports program for girls at FLHS grew rapidly. Girls from all three classes competed in such varied activities as basketball, volleyball, tennis, badminton, gymnastics, track, and golf. However, the fastest growing event of girls' sports was gymnastics. These agile girls performed on the balance beam, the horse, and the parallel bars. In addition, they demonstrated floor exercise routines to their favorite music.

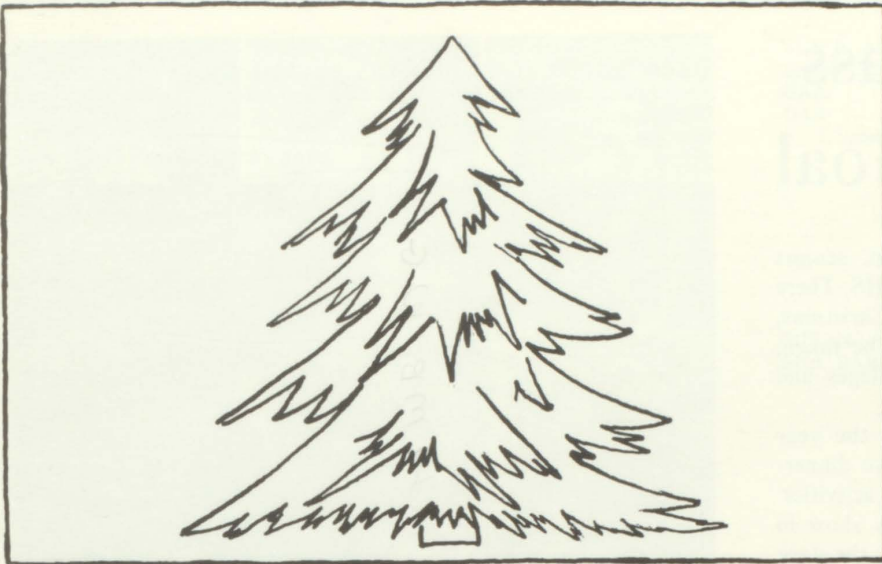

Once again seniors dominated in the number of girls who participated in extra-curricular sports. Sophomores followed closely in involvement, but this year's juniors lacked the spirit which usually characterized their class.

With the move into the new school, girls found improved facilities awaiting their use. As more girls participated, possibilities of an expanded program were foreseen by Miss Paulson. Another incentive for increased participation was the new co-ed elective program.

Sophomores start their last three memorable years of high school, begin to step into maturity and initiate many new habits. Their greatest achievement is the Sophomore Valentine's Dance.

Participating in most extra-curricular activities, the juniors remain the nucleus of social events. Besides sponsoring the Sadie Hawkins dance, they highlight the year with the junior-senior prom.

Seniors reach the last step, accomplish their goals, and start a new and independent life. Their high school years come to an end as graduation looms ahead, and a new future awaits them.

Classes

'72 Senior Class Reaches Its Goal

Although much work awaited them, seniors looked forward to their last year at FLHS. There were senior pictures to order before Christmas, measurements for caps and gowns to be taken, and visits to make to prospective colleges and vocational schools.

The seniors were kept busy during the year by organizing the Christmas progressive dinner-dance and the annual Senior Week activities. Included in this week were the variety show in which seniors showed their many talents, the slave auction, where juniors were bought at low prices, dress up day, sweatshirt day, when seniors armed with a magic marker signed fellow classmates' sweatshirts, and an enjoyable innertubing party held at Eko Baken.

With the help of the class advisor, Mr. Moskop, the class of '72 adjusted well to the transition into the new senior high school and the new decisions which were made during their final year at Forest Lake.

Junior Highlight Is Sadie Hawkins

To insure the success of another junior-senior prom, the junior class held the annual Sadie Hawkins dance on November 20. A major problem at this dance confronted by the class of '73 was the band, which was an hour and a half late. However, with help from the entire class, Sadie '71 was a big success.

The year progressed and the juniors were once again faced with the drudgery of testing. To prepare them for their last years at FLHS, the juniors were given the Iowa tests of basic skills early in the fall. The final test of the year and the most important one of all was the Minnesota Scholastic Aptitude Test. The purpose of this test was to prepare students for entry into college.

The year was not all work and no play. During Christmas the second floor was decorated and a sock hop was sponsored by the junior class. All of this made '71-'72 a memorable year.

FLHS Involvement Spurs the Sophs

The class of '74 was introduced into the crowded, confused hallways of Forest Lake High School on August 26. The opening day of school proved to be a trial for sophomores to see if they could endure until the end of their first day of senior high.

One of the sophomore activities this year involved decorating the halls around Christmas time. As tradition held true, sophomores were given the third floor to decorate. They diligently worked to uphold the tradition of doing the best job. However, the main concern of the class of '74 was sponsoring the Valentine Dance entitled "Colour My World." This yearly event was held on February 12.

For the first time sophomores were allowed to take advanced courses that were not available to them before. Also on their academic schedules, sophomores faced the task of taking the Otis-Lennon Mental Ability Test and some also took the Turse Shorthand Test

We strive to make our community better by offering our services and by aiding invalids and the elderly who rely on the encouragement of high school volunteers.

In order to replenish funds made during the summer, students involve themselves by working in the Forest Lake community after school hours and on weekends.

Learning to cope with problems, students seek the reality of the working world. Our community—the beginning of challenges.

"The music of life is played by ear,
Each heart improvising its own,
Setting the tempo and choosing the key
In major or minor tone.

No printed score is provided,
And no two tunes the same;
And if our song is discordant,
We've only ourselves to blame.

For the keyboard of life holds beauty—
There's harmony waiting there
For the heart that attunes its song of life
To peace, goodwill and prayer."

Good Luck Class of

Seniors, you say that you're supreme
Or at least that is the way it seems.
Anyway, as we all know,
Every year a class must go.
And being the class of '72,
We know this is the year for you.
And so from the class of '74,
We wish you success forevermore.

The residents and staff of Birchwood Nursing Home congratulate the Class of '72.

The Forester Staff

Editors' Notes:

Working on the FORESTER this year expanded our knowledge and understanding. As each deadline passed we were better prepared to comprehend the varied emotions of our staff. We worked as a team to prepare a yearbook hopefully enjoyable to everyone. We wish to extend a special note of thanks to Mrs. Hermes for her devotion to the FORESTER and for helping us through our first deadline. We are also grateful to Brad Berntson for his art work and to Marie Riopel for her poetry. Finally, we extend our appreciation to all the passersby who contributed as well as consoled during our late evening sessions.

Remembrances that we dare not disclose are: the ash tray ... the red scarf ... rain ... Sharon and Dave's trip to General Hospital ... the bus ride home ... Rita's Comet ... the mouse ... the yellow chair ... bad connotations ... the green rug ... Doritos contests ... heavy ... being locked out of the window ... Greg's smile ... the good old FORESTER room ... privacy ... 3 o'clock in the morning ... sleeping bags ... pillow ... new typewriters ... the bicycle lock ... "I'llllll say!" ... 67 '67s ... Mary's signs ... mahogany shoes ... "Don't write on the 3Rs!" ... laughing ... Bubbles ... our janitors ... Leisa's typing ability ... "I'll never tell." ... making announcements.

All the memories of the things we have done and the friendships we have made throughout the year will go with us. These memories we shall always treasure.

As trees we grow,
branching ever upward,
ever outward, reaching for the sky. And though we may come to tower
high above the ground,
our roots stay firmly planted in the soils of F.L.H.S.—the source of nourishment in our hunger for knowledge.
