The funeral, thanksgiving service and celebration of our bursar Martin Kiddle took place yesterday. His family's local church was full to bursting, with standing room only. Hundreds of people came, representing the enormous breadth of Martin's life and his positive impact on so many people.

The eulogies and readings, filled with humour and love, spanned Martin's particular passion for Rugby, his life and work at St Paul's, and beyond. His impact, while understated, was far reaching.

It was Martin's choice to play us out to David Bowie's Starman.

So, here it is for Martin, forever part of this place.
