Elliot Bostwick Davis

EDWARD HOPPER & CAPE ANN: Illuminating an American Landscape

The success of Hopper's Gloucester watercolors from the 1920s transformed his work and set the stage for his monumental career. Accompanying a major exhibit at the Cape Ann Museum opening in July, this beautifully illustrated volume reveals the lesser-known story about the influence of a young painter, Josephine Nivison, who became not only Hopper's wife but also the most trusted force underlying his artistic confidence. Elliot Bostwick Davis, former John Moors Cabot Chair at the Museum of Fine Arts and director of the Norton Museum, has published extensively on American art. She lives in Dedham, MA.

Sandeep Jauhar

MY FATHER'S BRAIN: Life in the Shadow of Alzheimer's

This intimate memoir of Sandeep Jauhar's relationship with his father is also a fascinating book about memory and the history and science of brain degeneration. My Father's Brain portrays the moral and psychological concerns that arise when family members become caregivers, while accepting unforeseen turns in their closest relationships and the understanding of what it is to have a self. "Painful yet affecting... difficult to put down." (Kirkus) A physician and bestselling author of Intern and Heart: A History, Jauhar writes regularly for the opinion section of The New York Times. He lives on Long Island, NY.

Holly Goldberg Sloan

PIECES OF BLUE

From the acclaimed bestselling author of seven books for young readers, this debut novel for adults is an irresistible family saga about a newly widowed mother and her children learning to start over after they impulsively relocate to Hawaii. Written with her trademark humor and tenderness, "Sloan understands her characters deeply, and makes us need to know what happens to them. In fact, a lot happens to them, and we want to know it all." (Meg Wolitzer) "Readers will devour this in one sitting." (Publishers Weekly) A Wellesley College graduate (1980), Holly Goldberg Sloan lives in Santa Monica, CA.
