can the handle be placed on the right side opening left?
 Asked by Randy February 21, 2021

1 Answer

Yes the door is made to open left or right. You decide how you want it to open on the exterior. Standing on my deck I installed the handle on the left so the door opens to the right toward the railina. The door has mortis made into it on both sides you choose where to put the handle, it has a cap over where the locking and door guts go on both side. Just remember this is an exterior door, these are very good doors. The only reason I had to replace it after about 18 years is because of a tornado, the door lock still held but bent the door.

Hello, By chance, can I please receive a sample color of the door frame to test color matching? ...
