

2022 Articulation Agreement
Between
Central Penn College & Eastern Center for Arts and Technology

Central Penn College and Eastern Center for Arts and Technology agree to enter a collaborative relationship that will enable these institutions to more effectively meet the educational needs of students by eliminating course duplications. Students enrolled at Eastern Center for Arts and Technology are able to gain credits for Central Penn courses that will lead to an Associate or Bachelor of Science degree at Central Penn College, maximizing transferable credits. The Transfer Agreement is designed to facilitate Eastern Center for Arts and Technology students' ease of transfer into Central Penn College. This credit provision will apply to all Central Penn College locations.

Further, Central Penn College and Eastern Center for Arts and Technology enter an articulation agreement, pertaining to the items outlined above. Under the articulation agreement, Eastern Center for Arts and Technology students who successfully complete agreed upon courses will be guaranteed credits towards admissions into an Associate or Bachelor's degree program upon completion of the agreed upon courses. The agreement seeks to ensure that secondary students have successfully completed the secondary component and acquired the skills necessary to apply for admission to Central Penn College and for enrollment into a degree program of interest to the student, thereby eliminating the need to pursue duplicative courses.

This agreement is not intended to and does not create any contractual rights or obligations with respect to the signatory parties.
