ABOUT

In this immersive summer program for rising juniors and seniors, you will learn how to use analogue technology in black and white photography, and develop a method for integrating this special process into your own photographic work. A HAS photography professor guides you in understanding 35mm cameras, film exposure, processing and printing, lab equipment, and materials. In addition, regular artist lectures and guest artists will speak about the larger photographic world, and daily lunch breaks allow you step outside or visit HAS's art galleries. Finally, you will have the opportunity to set up a mini exhibition of work created in this program in a HAS gallery.
