    ✓ GCHS Students Lucas Hutchings and Catelynn Liniger, gave the following presentation;

Humanizing Students

Presented by Lucas and Catelynn

Why Did We Pursue This Project?

We as students have noticed that our fellow classmates feel stressed above the average amount. We acknowledge while some teachers may realize this, others don't. We created this project to share more insight on student life

External Research

- Seven out of ten teens in the U.S. (between 13 and 17 years old) have named anxiety or depression as a major problem among their peers in the community.
- 75% of U.S. high school students expressed boredom, anger, sadness, fear, or stress while in school.
- On a 10-point scale, where normal values for adults are 3.8, American teens rated their stress rate at an average score of 5.8.
- Three quarters (75%) of American high schoolers and half of middle schoolers described themselves as "often or always feeling stressed" by schoolwork.

External Research

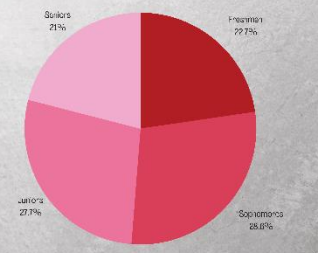
What Are The Real Impacts Of Stress?

What defines a well-rounded student?

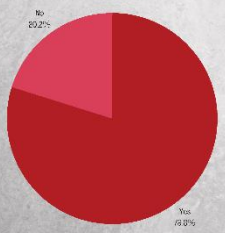
Westminster Academy defines a well-rounded student as "Being well rounded is all about engaging in different kinds of extracurricular, academic, and social activities. It's not about only pursuing the activities the student already likes or has an aptitude for; it's about exploring lots of different arenas." But what does this mean?

What we found from our survey at GCHS

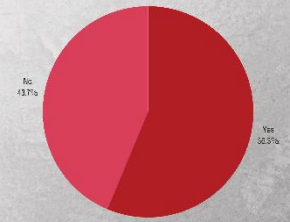
We had 119 students respond to our survey. This data is completely anonymous and will be shared with you.



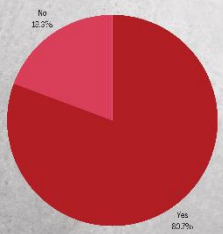
Do you ever feel overwhelmed at school?



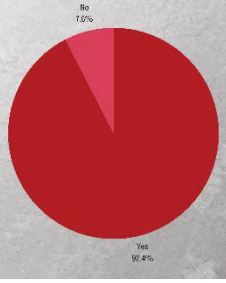
Do you ever feel like some of your teachers don't understand you?



Do you wish your teachers understood what you are going through?



Do you think your teachers would benefit from knowing about different student struggles?



We asked: "Describe a time where you felt a teacher was being too harsh on you."

"I have a very harsh time at home and a teacher said that "I always had an excuse for everything" When I was told this I wanted to cry bc I felt I wasn't understood That I did not have internet at home until the morning before class."

"I did not understand how to do something, so I asked the teacher and got yelled at."

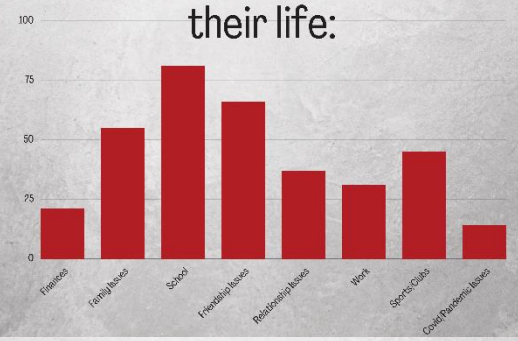
We asked: "Describe a time where you felt embarrassed by a teacher."

"During my freshman year, my teacher read my fellow classmates and I's grades out loud and told us that we would never get a good grade in that class."

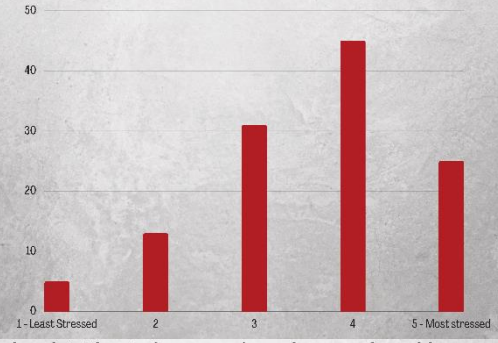
"Yes. Sometimes they call me out in class on something I did wrong on a paper/ assignment in front of the whole class instead of telling me to go to their desk and talking to them one on one."

"When I was accused of cheating, for an exam which I didn't cheat on, I felt as though my teacher thought I was absolutely guilty. They let it show as well. I proved my innocence. The day after. In between, I felt very embarrassed and powerless."

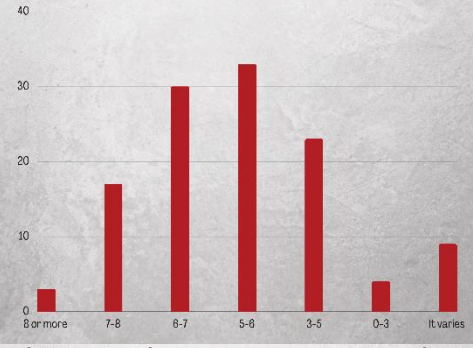
What students defined as stressors in their life:



How stressed do you feel because of school?



How many hours of sleep do you get a night?



We asked: What do you do when school becomes overwhelming?

"Cry."
"I sleep."
"I keep it bottled up."
"I honestly cry about it."
"I shut down."
"I try to distract myself."
"I cry."
"I listen to music."
"I try to talk about it with friends or family."
"I try to focus on something else."

We asked: "Do you have a circumstance that makes it hard to complete homework?"

"I have to translate for my parents because they don't speak English."

"I have to take care of my family members."

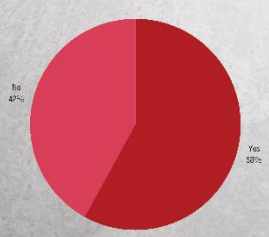
"My house is under construction and we don't have WiFi."

"I have mental health issues that make it hard to complete homework."

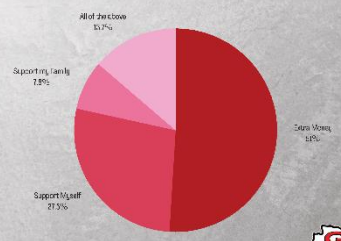
"My siblings have a tendency to destroy homework and projects that I bring home."

"I have a lot of physical pain because of medication I take."

Do you have a job?



Why do you have a job?



Students agreed with these statements:

- I believe school starts too early (44.5%)
- I go to bed late due to homework/studying (54.6%)
- I cannot focus in school because lack of sleep (48.7%)
- I feel like I am trying my best but my grades still aren't perfect (59.7%)
- I feel pressured to succeed (64.7%)
- I wish I could take a break from all school related things (67.2%)
- I often feel overwhelmed (67.2%)
- I have a hard time expressing when I feel stressed or overwhelmed (69.7%)
- I wish my teachers were more understanding (40.3%)

So, What's Next?

We are going to briefly discuss ways to improve your classroom that you can implement as early as tomorrow. These are ways that students have mentioned can help improve their own learning experience.
