How to know if your Teen is prepared

1. Who is applying to college?
 2. Can your teen cope with life's "hard" feelings?
 3. Can your teen take full responsibility for self care?
 4. Can your teen manage their time?
 5. Does your teen know when and how to seek help?
 6. Can your teen take responsibility for and learn from poor decisions?
 7. Has your teen shown that they can manage themselves in a setting without their family?
 8. College is like an experience like no other. Will your teen take advantage of what it has to offer? Is it truly their decision to go?

During registration, you'll be asked to choose from various college attributes you find attractive. These five attributes are:

1. Campus Size (small, medium, large)
2. Campus Setting (urban, suburban, rural)
3. Majors Offered (a large list of categories)
4. Institution Type (2 year, 4 year, private, public, etc.)
5. Geographic Region (varied)

During registration, colleges also select which attributes apply to their institution.

Students and colleges will be "matched" if their selected attributes match. The minimum number of matching attributes to be "matched" is four out of five.

The logo features a large blue circle on the left containing the word "NCAA" in white, bold, italicized capital letters. To the right of the circle, the words "Eligibility Center" are written in white, sans-serif font, stacked vertically. The entire logo is set against a black rectangular background.

File Your FAF$A EARLY

Simply Use Your Previous Year's Tax Information

Students who file the FAFSA early receive more than twice as much grant funding—on average—as students who file the FAFSA later.
