Why Virtual Schools?

Achievement

Students can achieve at high rates and set personal goals

Students who are engaged and ready to learn can be as successful as their peers at other schools

Flexibility can breed achievement

Culture

Parents and teachers work together to create a learning environment unique to each student

Climate and culture exists in all virtual spaces

Learning Style

Virtual learning meets the needs of students who have a unique learning style that fits their personality and their needs

Established 2020

Response to COVID

Students who had been impacted by COVID could not be in school
SB98 allowed schools to transition to Distance Learning

Response to Student Need

Not all students wanted to return to a school site
Students and families enjoyed the flexibility

Alternative Setting

AB130 required school districts to develop and alternative setting for students who were impacted by COVID

Teacher Interest

After the pandemic, we had teachers who needed or wanted to teach online

Overview of Virtual Education

- Pre-pandemic, 298,000 students in the United States were enrolled in full-time virtual schools (National Education Policy Center, “Virtual Schools in the U.S. 2019: Executive Summary,” May 2019)
- As of 2019, 33 states had statewide fully online schools.
- Models of virtual schools include statewide virtual schools, multi-district, single-district or consortium schools.
- California has several charter online schools including California Virtual Academies, Insight Schools, and Connections Academy.
- Senate Bill 98 (emergency distance learning) is no longer in effect.
- Assembly Bill 130 helps transition schools from virtual learning during the pandemic year to post-pandemic distance learning and virtual options.
- AB 130 further defines how virtual learning and attendance looks in the online environment.
