Requested Action

School Board Recognition of Etowah High School Juniors Samantha Durst, Temilola Oloruntoba, Katie Shay and Hannah Stack -- Placed First in Statewide Career Skills Competition

Summary Explanation and Background

A team of Cherokee County School District students earned first place in a statewide career skills competition and is advancing to nationals!

Etowah High School juniors Samantha Durst, Temilola Oloruntoba, Katie Shay and Hannah Stack are members of the school's HOSA Future Health Professionals chapter. They created an award-winning public service announcement focused on mental health awareness for the HOSA state competition. The announcement can be viewed online at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ERFWXWosOdg.

The team now advances to national competition at the HOSA International Leadership Conference in Dallas, Texas this summer. Etowah's HOSA advisors are Career Pathway healthcare science teachers Megan King and Amber Thayer.
