WILD GALÁPAGOS ESCAPE

8 DAYS/7 NIGHTS | AUGUST 1-8, 2024

ABOARD THE NEW NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC ISLANDER II

DEAR WELLESLEY ALUMNAE AND FRIENDS,

Over the last 50 years, Lindblad Expeditions has perfected the Galápagos experience, immersing guests in these enchanting isles full of endemic wildlife, wonders hidden beneath Galápagos waves, stark volcanic peaks, and lush landscapes. We're excited to bring you along on this Galápagos voyage aboard an elegant expedition ship with the spirit and soul of a private yacht.

Introducing the new National Geographic Islander II, your base for adventure that lets you experience the best of the Galápagos. Accommodating just 48 guests, each of the 26 spacious staterooms and suites is outfitted with large windows, a sofa, TV, and fully stocked mini-fridge. Indoor-outdoor dining options allow you to enjoy locally-sourced gourmet meals and an array of community spaces, including an open-air observation deck with 360-degree views. Enjoy the plunge pool, bar, and grill while you connect with fellow travelers.

Kayak along rugged coasts keeping watch for sea turtles, snorkel with playful sea lions, hike lava fields crowded with basking marine iguanas, or take a cruise in a glass-bottom Zodiac to witness the incredible ecosystems above and below the surface. You will enjoy a suite of expedition tools and a team of local expert naturalists, whose passion for these islands will spark your own.

There's never a dull moment in Galápagos, and now you can experience the wonders and wildlife of the most interesting islands in the world with Wellesley. We hope you will join us and professor Andrea Sequeira to discover these magical islands, August 1-8, 2024. Enjoy a complimentary bar and, for a limited time, round-trip airfare from select U.S. cities. To reserve your space, please return the reservation form or call 833-985-1261.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Mackintosh

Kathryn Harvey Mackintosh '03
Executive Director
Wellesley College Alumnae Association

Andrea Sequeira is a faculty member of the Biological Sciences department at Wellesley College where she specializes in evolutionary biology, focusing on what makes species different from each other and what makes some invading species successful. She has created courses on Evolution on Islands, Island Conservation and more recently a seminar on Evolutionary Medicine. Her research has been linked to the Galápagos ever since 2000, when she unraveled the colonization history of an endemic Galápagos insect group and now focuses on the genetic impact of introduced species on their endemic close relatives. Andrea has organized five collecting expeditions to the islands and has also conducted experiments on-site working closely with colleagues at the Charles Darwin Foundation. She also runs an active research lab and, over the years, several Wellesley students have worked with her in the Galápagos. When not teaching or in the lab or in the field Andrea enjoys attending theatre performances in her native Spanish language and spending time with her two teenage children and her husband, José, also a biologist and an avid naturalist, who will be joining her on this expedition.

ENCOUNTER FASCINATING WILDLIFE UP CLOSE

Guest takes up-close shot of marine iguanas.

On an African safari, your guides have to work hard to ensure you'll spot one of the often-elusive "big five" species. In Galápagos, chances are your naturalists will have to route you around the charismatic endemic species that cross your path, graze beside you, or take a nap pretty much anywhere they want. There's always fascinating behavior to observe and learn about—courtship, nesting, raising young, feeding, defending territory, and more. And because Galápagos' animals don't fear humans, you'll have a rare experience of closeness—literally and figuratively. You could visit Galápagos 50 times and see something new each time.

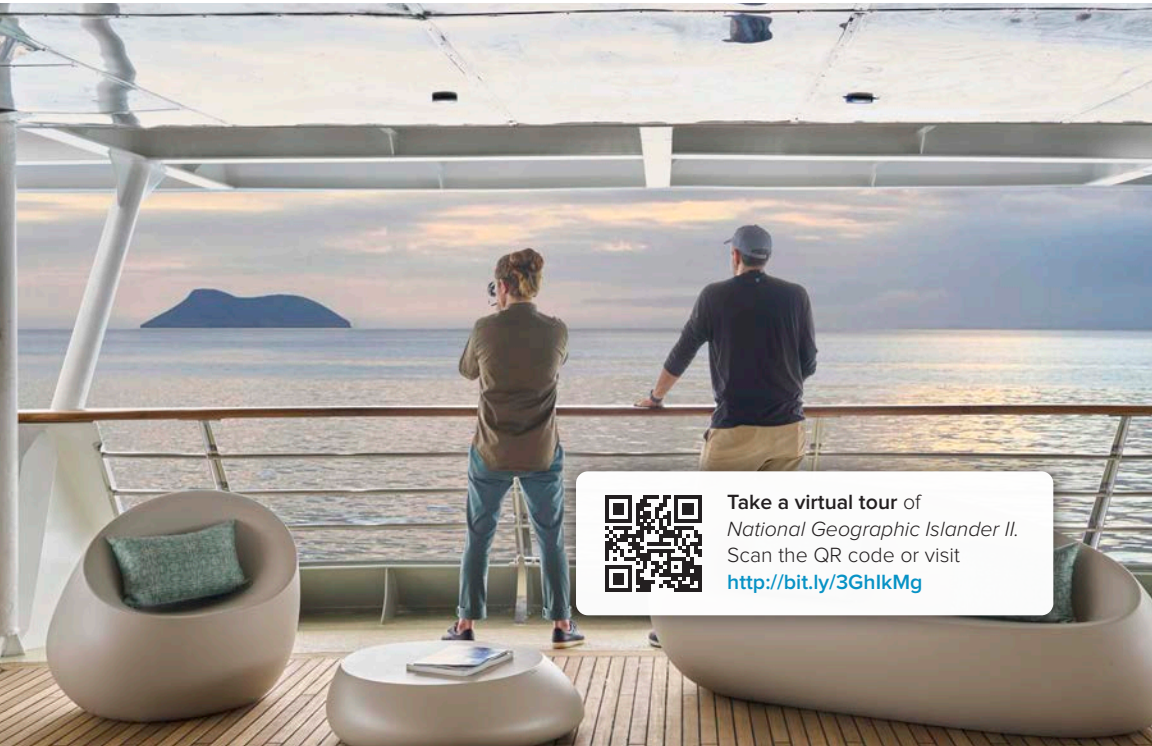

DISCOVER THE AMAZING GALÁPAGOS UNDERSEA

The Galápagos underwater is vibrant and as full of interesting creatures as the land. It's half the experience, and vital to your understanding. During your voyage, you will have many opportunities to snorkel. You'll see acrobatic sea lions, Pacific green sea turtles, and passing penguins. You might swim amid white-tipped reef sharks or a cloud of colorful fish, or see a blue-footed booby plunge in to spear dinner. There's complete snorkeling gear aboard, exclusively yours for the duration. You'll also be able to cruise by glass-bottom Zodiac or view video footage presented by the undersea specialist on the lounge's 4K TV screens to further enrich your understanding.

YOUR SHIP: THE KEY TO A GREAT EXPERIENCE

The new National Geographic Islander II offers a 100% exploratory Galápagos experience. Begin and end each day in the welcoming atmosphere of your home away from home. Accommodating just 48 passengers in 26 staterooms and suites, it's as close to a private yacht experience as you can get, with the luxury of spacious accommodations and all the amenities you might expect on your own yacht. Spend time with your fellow travelers over a locally sourced and sustainable gourmet dinner in the elegant Yacht Club Restaurant, dine al fresco in the Patio Café, delve deeper into the fascinating ecosystems around you in the Science Hub, take a restorative yoga class with a wellness specialist, or cool off with a relaxing dip in the plunge pool on the open-air observation deck. With the freedom to explore at your own pace, you can spend as much time as you please enjoying all that National Geographic Islander II has to offer.

GUEST EXCLUSIVE: HOTEL DEL PARQUE

Set in a lovingly restored 19th-century building along the banks of the Río Daule, Hotel del Parque is a serene, tropical refuge. Enjoy exclusive after-hours access to the cobbled streets, exhibits, and lush gardens of Guayaquil's Parque Histórico. Intimate and welcoming with a gracious golden-age aura, this elegant hotel, with 44 beautifully appointed rooms, makes a fitting bookend to your expedition aboard the National Geographic Islander II.

EXPLORE GALÁPAGOS WITH THE FREEDOM TO ENJOY IT YOUR WAY

Each day you'll enjoy a fresh destination plus all kinds of choices of what to do. Hike, paddleboard, kayak, snorkel, or hang out with your photo instructor. But should you decide to sleep in, have a slow breakfast, or get a massage, it's your vacation. The schedule is flexible, and the itinerary more a function of what's to see than where we need to be. You can choose your activity and your activity level. Go on a long hike, snorkel every time it is offered, or just relax on the beach and soak it all in—it's your adventure. You're free to explore the ship, and always welcome on the Bridge to meet the captain and officers.

TRAVEL WITH AN A+ EXPEDITION TEAM

Honed over 50 years, our expedition team has the knowledge and the passion for Galápagos that will kindle yours. They are passionate about the islands, where most of them were raised, and will do whatever it takes, from maintaining a lookout so you don't miss a passing whale, offering an extra opportunity to snorkel when sea turtles are congregating nearby, or pausing on a walk to witness the birth of a sea lion pup. They'll help you see, do, and absorb all the extraordinary experiences.

You'll have the benefit of a certified photo instructor at your side and at your service. He or she can help you with anything from camera settings to the basics of composition. Every guest—from smartphone camera users to advanced hobbyists—can stand side-by-side with skilled photographers, pick up tips in the field, and take great photos.
