I. INTRODUCTION

A. Definition of Professional Development:

Professional development in the Miller Place School District is defined as a process that fosters personal and professional growth for individuals within a respectful, supportive, positive organizational climate. The ultimate goal of our professional development process is increased student learning, building capacity for implementing the standards, and continuous, responsible self-renewal for all constituents working together in partnerships in creating a quality environment for learning.

Indicate how school team(s), if any will be represented on district team.

Representatives from each building are members of the district team.

Professional Development Planning Team:

1. If school teams are not represented on the district professional development team, describe briefly how the district plan will ensure that the needs of the schools in the district are met.

All buildings are represented on the district committee.

2. On average, identify the number of hours a teacher will be involved with professional development on an annual basis. This may include the planning, delivery, application and/or evaluation of professional development activities.

Number of hours will vary according to the individual teacher and the activities. However, each teacher will receive a minimum of 12 hours of professional development provided by the district.

Needs/Data Analysis for Professional Development Plans:

1. Describe how the professional development plan is aligned with the current New York State Learning Standards and assessments, student needs, and is articulated with and across grade levels.

The administration and the teaching staff review and analyze student data and identified the areas of concern. The data reviewed as applicable within the respective buildings included:

- Assessments required by the New York State Education Department
- Graduation rates
- Dropout, attendance, and lateness
- Violent and Disruptive Incident Reporting (VADIR)
- School Climate Surveys
- Regents exam proficiency and mastery rates
- New York State Regents proficiency and mastery rates
- Regents diploma rates
- Two and Four year college attendance percentages

- Vocational and Educational Services for Individuals with Disabilities (VESID) goals
- Scholastic Read 180/System 44
- Response to Intervention (RtI)
- Advanced Placement Exams
- American College Testing (ACT)
- Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) and National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQT)
- Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT)
- Developmental Indicators for the Assessment of Learning (DIAL)
- AIMSWeb
- Fast ForWord
- College Tracking
- Northwest Evaluation Association (NWEA)
- Benchmark Assessments
- Common Assessments

From this data analysis, the district identified seven areas of focus:

1. Increase the percentage of students receiving Advanced Regents diplomas.
2. Increase the percentage of students performing at proficiency levels and who excel on standards for their grade level on all assessments.
3. Increase the level of student proficiency and mastery in accelerated honors and AP courses.
4. To continue to focus instruction on addressing the New York State [Next Generation] Learning Standards and College and Career Readiness.
5. To continue to identify and remediate Bullying and Violent behavior in accordance with New York State's Dignity for All Students Act legislation.
6. To continue to provide the Mentor-Intern Teacher Program (MITP) to support new teachers in the classroom.
7. To comply with New York State Education Department mandates and guidelines for Mental Health Education Literacy in Schools and incorporate opportunities to support Social and Emotional Learning (SEL) in grades Kindergarten through twelve.

2. Describe how the professional development plan is continuous, reflecting a multi-year approach to improve student performance.

Professional development activities will be focused in the core and encore subject areas that are aligned with the current New York State Learning Standards. Because reading and writing are of primary importance to meet all current New York State Learning Standards and assessments, English Language Arts continues to be a District priority supported by the Foundations Phonemic and Phonics Program in K-2 and the Houghton Mifflin Harcourt Into Reading literacy series for grades K-6 and the teaching of reading in all core and encore subject areas. Additionally, the Wilson Reading program will be used to support reading and writing in grades K-5. Houghton Mifflin Harcourt (HMH) Read 180, and System 44 will also be used to support reading and writing in grades K-8 and HMH Read180 in grades 9-12.

This plan includes in-depth, on-going professional development activities and involves frequent monitoring of student progress.

In conjunction with a District-wide focus on core subject areas, the District will continue to provide staff with tools for teaching students with disabilities in a variety of different academic settings. Professional development will also focus on strategies for Response to Intervention and integrating all current New York State Learning Standards.

Technology integration will be implemented across all curriculum areas. Baseline data was established in the first year of the Instructional Technology Plan, and updates to the Instructional Technology Plan are made according to the yearly data collection and analysis. Professional development specific to technology integration is structured based upon the goals established within the Instructional Technology Plan.

Teachers K-12 will be provided opportunities to learn new skills through knowledge gained during grade level, faculty, and department meetings, out of District conferences and turnkey training, in-District training facilitated by educational specialists and consultants, inter classroom visitations, instructional rounds, as well as professional growth opportunities through demonstration and practice. Consistent implementation and opportunities will facilitate the integration of skills into their professional repertoire. Examples include but are not limited to SMARTBoard lesson planning and instruction, Google Classroom and related instructional technology software/platforms, ThinkCentral, SchoolTool, NWEA, and AIMSWEB to inform and support instruction.

3. Indicate how classroom instruction and teacher practice will be improved and assessed.

Classroom instruction and teacher practice will be assessed and evaluated to improve teaching as per the District's approved Annual Professional Performance Review (APPR) plan. This includes formal and walk-through observations. After evaluations are completed, teachers receive feedback regarding instruction and teacher practice.

4. Describe how the professional development plan will provide teachers holding a professional certificate with opportunities to maintain such certificates in good standing based upon successfully completing 100 Continuing Teacher and Leader Education (CTLE) hours of professional development every five years.

Professional development opportunities provided by the District include, but are not limited to in-district and out-of-district professional development workshops, Superintendent's Conferences, meetings, articulation, and common planning.

5. Level III teaching assistants and long-term substitute teachers will be provided opportunities to participate in all building and District professional development activities with teachers as described in the Professional Development Plan.

Professional development opportunities for level III teaching assistants and long term substitute teachers provided by the District include, but are not limited to professional development workshops and in-service course offerings via: My Learning Plan, Superintendent’s Conferences, meetings, articulation, and common planning.

6. Identify how the data used supports the focus areas, indicators of success, strategies, and activities in the professional development plan.

Student data informs decisions about school policy, curriculum and instruction. Data is collected in areas including, but not limited to, student academic performance, attendance, gender, Students with Disabilities (SWD), English as a New Language (ENL), Ethnicity, and Economically Disadvantaged (ED). Disaggregating the data also facilitates the identification of patterns and discrepancies that may impact student achievement.

The district analyzes student data through a partnership with BOCES, called, “Data Warehousing”. This allows for the disaggregation of data for analysis. Administrators and teachers play a key role in analyzing the data to plan for program improvement and continued professional development.

Training:

The Miller Place School District is committed to continuing professional growth. The District offers a variety of opportunities for teachers to advance their skills in the study of teaching and learning. A negotiated agreement with the Miller Place Teachers’ Association (MPTA), obligates teachers to complete twelve (12) hours of “beyond the school day” professional development. A comprehensive training program is essential for mentors, interns, and also for administrators supporting new teachers.

New Teachers

Training will be provided to support mentors. Mentor training may be offered as an in-service course through the NYSUT Effective Teaching Program. This is a fifteen (15) hour mentor-training program, which will review current, relevant research supporting the need for mentoring new teachers, and examines the necessary attitudes, skills and components of a successful program. This course provides opportunities to practice skills that minimize resistance and encourage open communication. The role of reflective practice in the professional growth process and identifying and developing the components of professional practice is emphasized.

Role of Mentors: The role of the mentor will be to guide and support the intern during the first year. Evaluation will not be a component of the mentor/intern relationship. A feeling of trust and the ability to be able to share all concerns without fear of reprisal are absolutely necessary. A comprehensive training program is essential for mentors and interns as well as training for administrators in their roles of supporting new teachers.

Preparation of Mentors: Training will be provided to the mentors. Mentor training will review current, relevant research supporting the need for mentoring new teachers, and examines the necessary attitudes, skills and components of a successful program. The mentors will learn how working with colleagues, the adult learner, differs from interactions with students. Through the use of scenarios and small and large group discussions, mentors will observe and analyze teacher styles and levels of development. This provides opportunities to practice skills that minimize resistance and encourage open communication.

Mentor Activities: Mentors will be instructed that they are not evaluators but coaches who support and guide the intern in the following manner:

1. Induct newly hired teachers into the district, the profession and the community.
2. Communicate to interns the District's mission, goals and values.
3. Assist interns in developing and refining their pedagogical and methodology skills in teaching and learning.
4. Encourage interns to develop collegial relationships.
5. Assist interns in creating short and long-term goals for classroom instruction and for professional growth.
6. Orient interns to the building procedures for parent/teacher conferences, field trips, professional days, and personal days, etc.
7. Familiarize interns with special services that are available for students such as special education, guidance, instructional support teams, Response to Intervention teams, etc.
8. Attend professional conferences and workshops.
9. Assist interns in addressing individual student needs.
10. Attend and debrief meetings such as faculty meetings, teachers' association meetings, site-based management team meetings, PTO meetings, Board of Education meetings, etc.
11. Arrange for observation of colleagues' classes for instructional purposes.
12. Assist interns in preparing the required videotape for permanent certification.

The Release Time: The release time requirement for the Miller Place MTIP is one of the primary factors that will assure the continued success of the program. Careful scheduling of release time will provide the mentor/intern with opportunities for consultation and collaborative planning. The mentor/intern relationship is strengthened through collegial activities that could include sharing ideas about curriculum and instruction or formal and informal observations in each other's and colleagues' classrooms while at the same time ensuring the continuity of instruction for the students.

Students with Disabilities Training

All professional and support staff working with students with disabilities will be provided with professional development.

Evaluation of Training

The Miller Place Professional Development Plan will evaluate professional development activities through continued collaboration between building level administrators, discussion with the Miller Place Teachers' Association, and staff surveys. This information will provide information to plan for future professional development.
