An artificial collection created by the Austin Seminary Archives. Primarily church histories and other historical records of congregations and Presbyteries in the Synod of the Sun. Divided into Texas and non-Texas churches and organized alphabetically by city and then by church name. Presbytery materials are listed at the end of the inventory. Many materials were collected by Thomas White Currie, Jr.

The Presbyterian Historical Society of the Southwest Records contain historical material on many congregations in Texas and neighboring states. See the inventory for a complete listing.

The Texas-Mexican Presbytery Records document Mexican-Presbyterian churches in Texas from 1908 until the presbytery's dissolution in 1955.

The Synod of Texas (PCUS) Collection includes a set of presbytery albums compiled in 1951 with photographs and statistical information for every church in the Synod. These churches are indexed below. Information on congregations and presbyteries can also be found elsewhere in this collection.

The Presbytery of Central Texas Records contain historical data about many individual churches within the presbytery. Churches with longer historical sketches are indexed below, but briefer histories of other churches are also included.

Presbytery and Synod minutes often include information about individual congregations.
