CTE Dual Credit

Students who register for CTE Dual Credit classes can earn college credit in addition to their high school credit for completing high school classes that are formally aligned – articulated – with college courses. Eligible classes are considered “Career & Technical Education” classes at the high school level and connect to “Professional or Technical” courses & programs at the college. All articulated courses are part of a certificate or degree program offered at the awarding college.

Advantages of CTE Dual Credit

Students can:

- Earn college credit - for classes they are already taking - at their own high school
- Save hundreds (or even thousands) of dollars on tuition, books, & transportation!

5 Simple Steps to Earning College Credit

1. Enroll in an eligible class at your high school or skill center (view current offerings by district)
