OIS Head of School Comments

OIS has been working on the IB-WASC self-study over the past year . This was completed and submitted to the organizations on March 9, 2023. Now that the report is submitted, we are transitioning to preparing for the IB-WASC visiting team to visit our school and verify the report. The visit will occur from April 9 through April 12. Following the visit, we will use our findings from the report and the recommendations from the visiting team to create a new action plan that will guide us for the next five years. Elements from the current action plan will be carried over into the new one.

OIS is submitting the following documents as a summary of the planning and evaluation process for 2022-23.

01 - OIS WASC Action Plans 2021-23

This is the most recent version of the current action plan that was shared previously by the past heads of school. It has been edited to reflect changes in the last year. It will soon be superseded by an updated action plan following the upcoming IB-WASC visit in April.

02 - Self-study process August 2022 to March 2023

This document describes the process we went through to write the new self-study that was submitted on March 9 and will be verified by the IB-WASC visiting team in April.

03 - OIS WASC self-study report

The final report for the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC) following the self-study process. The report identifies three major student learner needs areas: learning environment; community and collaboration; safe environments for all. The school will be working on explicitly growth goals for these three areas for its action plan for 2023 to 2028.

04 - OIS IB self-study questionnaire

This is the IB portion of the self-study which was submitted to the International Baccalaureate Organization. IB and WASC work together to help us evaluate our programs. The action plan we write after the visit will incorporate elements of both this report and WASC.
