CLASS GIFTS

1. To Edna Argersinger, some "Atlas" treatments to build her up.
2. To Eleanor Benedict, a dictionary to find new words when she loses her temper.
3. To Annabel Bryce, an extra hour every morning to comb out those pin curls.
4. To John Buyce, a box of powder to cover up his blushes.
5. To Mae Ogden Coulombe, a tricycle to help her get no-place faster.
6. To Carole Crannell, some telegram blanks so she can warn Harlan when she's going to be home.
7. To Jean Crannell, a publisher's offer to buy one of her stories.
8. To Gertrude De Nure, power to resist ice cream and cake.
9. To Kenneth Eglin, a new method of getting by with a minimum of effort.
10. To Ella Fick, accident insurance—she drives her own car.
11. To Bettye Ford, a card of bobby-pins so she can do up her hair herself.
12. To Elvira Geelan, a budget so she can use her ECONOMIC-al sense while she's spending her "cents."
13. To Stella Grant, a boy who can keep up with her dancing.
14. To Arleen Hicks, a "mistakeless" typewriter while typing on NYA work.
15. To Harlan Jeffords, an alarm clock to wake him up the morning after the night before.
16. To Lena Kenyon, a daily ticket to Amsterdam to help keep track of her "affairs."
17. To Grace Lingenfelter, a loud horn to help build up her self-confidence.
18. To Robert McDade, a date with the hair dresser to make that curl permanent.
19. To Barbara Mills, a book of dry jokes to help get over the giggles.
20. To Martin Rebisz, a fancy curve to fool opposing batters.
21. To Gladys Rockwell, a ring with two tops so others can tell when she's wearing her own and when it's Cyrus'.
22. To Leon Seward, materials for a book called "My Bright Sayings."
23. To Marjorie Stecyk, a man that stays true.
24. To Margaret Verrego, a quick and painless method of reading shelves—or an assistant.
25. To Catherine Warren, a special training course to grow just two more inches.
26. To Leona Whipple, a date book to keep all her boy friends straight.

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of of the Broadalbin High School, of the Village of Broadalbin in the County of Fulton and the State of New York, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament.

Because some of our students have had a tendency to leave their possessions in books, lockers, and desks, we will deposit this will in our Fur-lined Silver Chest. THE BEQUESTS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

I, Edna Argersinger, leave my quietness and politeness to the teachers (especially Home Economics) to Catherine Johnson.

I, Eleanor Benedict, leave my loyalty to all my boy friends to Janet Sawyer.

I, Annabel Bryce, leave my sweet "hello" and cheery smile to Thelma Seeley.

I, John Buyce, leave my fair hair and pink cheeks to Henry Breen. (What're you blushing about, Bud?)

I, Mae Ogden Coulombe, leave my foul shooting ability to Carrie Thurber.

I, Carole Crannell, leave my art of osculation to anyone who can use it as effectively as I have.

I, Jean Crannell, leave my imagination to anyone who can use it as effectively.

I, Gertrude De Nure, leave my studiousness to Cecile Hapeman.

I, Kenneth Eglin, leave my superior ability to milk cows and pitch "hey" to Bob Warner.

I, Ella Fick, leave my excellent typing ability (plus mistakes) to Arlene Brooks.

I, Bettye Ford, leave my nice, long, red fingernails to Janice Seward.

I, Elvira Geelan, leave my Fish House boy friends to Beulah Vandenburg.

I, Stella Grant, leave my ability to get along with Miss Young, to her sister, Alice. Carry on, Alice.

I, Arleen Hicks, leave my dimples and blue eyes to Vivian Christopher.

I, Harlan Jeffords, leave my height and curls to David Olmstead.

I, Lena Kenyon, leave my Amsterdam beau catching ability to Barbara Allen. (Hope you succeed as well as I have, Barb.)

I, Grace Lingenfelter, leave my timidity and mildness to Barbara Jennings.

I, Robert McDade, leave my wave set and curlers to Jimmy Underwood. (Wildroot's the best, Jim.)

I, Barbara Mills, leave my giggles and loquaciousness to Geneva Kenyon.

I, Martin Rebisz, leave my services as ping-pong champ to Roger Brooks.

I, Gladys Rockwell, leave my athletic ability to Anne Hrinishin.

I, Leon Seward, leave my wittiness and bright sayings to John Hovak.

I, Marjorie Stecyk, leave my natural blonde hair to my sister. Carry on, Helen, it's quite an asset.

I, Margaret Verrego, leave my tango ability to Helen Lewis.

I, Catherine Warren, leave my height to Jennie Mucha.

I, Leona Whipple, leave my ability to get along with people to Aura Jennings.

Class History

The Senior Class of '41 of Broadalbin High is the first one to complete the seven grades in the new building. Starting at the sixth grade, which is the lowest, they have sweated their way through the years until now they are ready for graduation. The class is virtually intact, having lost only a few of its original members. Now that the class is ready to graduate, they can look back over the years of school and think of the fun they used to have. The thrill of waiting for the entry into the new building, the graduation into high school, the Freshman initiation, and many other things are memories never to be forgotten.

As we entered the first year of high school, we were confused at the maze of classes and new faces. All too frequently we wandered into strange classes, muttered an apology, and tried to find the class we started for originally. This all passed quickly, however, and after the initiation we felt like true high school students.

In our Freshman year the first thing we did was to have a meeting to elect officers and advisers. Our Freshman advisers were Miss Paris and Mrs. Stillman. The Freshman president was Harlan Jeffords; vice-president, Melvin Holt; secretary, Leona Whipple; treasurer, John Goodemote. During the year we had a very successful dance, gave an assembly program, and at the end of the year we had a picnic at Lansing's Beach.

During our Sophomore year we elected new officers and had a slight change in advisers. The advisers were Mr. Smith and Miss Paris. Our new officers were: president, John Goodemote; vice-president, Martin Rebisz; secretary, Leona Whipple; treasurer, Beverly Van Der Sluys. During the year we had a successful card party and a dance.

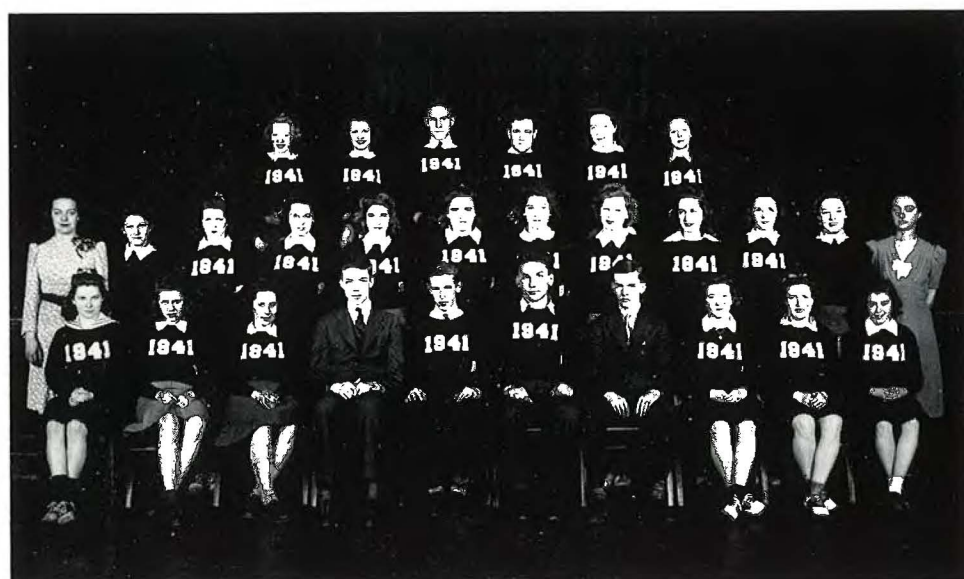

The Junior year brought new advisers again, together with new and harder subjects. The new advisers were Miss Elwood and Miss Leach. The class officers were: president, Catherine Warren; vice-president, Annabel Bryce; secretary, Marjorie Stecyk; treasurer, Mae Ogden Coulombe. During the year we had "Pronk" the Magician, sponsored a movie, and had Doctor North, the explorer, a sleigh ride, and an assembly program. All of the programs were very successful and entertaining.

Now we arrive at the most important and exciting year of all, the Senior year. This year is by all means the most entertaining and the hardest. The Senior rings and sweaters were purchased and plans for a New York trip were discussed. The Senior officers are: president, Martin Rebisz; vice-president, Leona Whipple; secretary, Leon Seward; treasurer, John Buyce. The advisers are Miss Young and Miss Elwood.

The most successful venture of the year, in fact of all four years, was the Senior play, "Clarence." It was hard work to prepare it, but every one concerned had a wonderful time.

I now draw to a close this history, and hope that it is a true and faithful record of the grand old class of '41.

LEON SEWARD.

Meetings are held twice a month. The pins were purchased and the sweaters have been ordered. The pins are gold and black shields set with two stones, a ruby and a pearl, bearing the sorority emblem. The guard is an "A," symbolizing the Alpha Chapter. The sweaters are wine colored with the sorority emblems in white felt.

The sorority held a Thanksgiving dance which was very successful. In November they had a roller skating party. A house party is going to be held sometime in the future.
