Foreword

Twenty-five years ago, B.H.S. began teaching the students of Broadalbin and the surrounding area. During these 25 winters and summers, our school has grown not only in size, but in quality to become an area leader in education. Its principles of learning have guided hundreds of new citizens since then.

The staff of the 1960 Kennyetto Kronicle feel honored to present this 25th anniversary edition and hope that you, the readers, share our pride in this, our school.

To Whom We Dedicate . . .

MRS. FLORENCE JEFFORDS

MISS ANITA WINNE

MRS. EDITH WOOD

MR. WILLIAM STILLMAN

For twenty-five years our school has developed good citizens. These teachers, through understanding and patience, have helped to achieve that goal - citizenship through education.

To them we owe much. They work unselfishly, not for credit or honor, but to realize a better America. In this they are rewarded.

We dedicate this book to them for twenty-five years of faithful service.

Class of 1960

Sixty years ago a terrific debate was raging throughout the world according to our parents. The subject that rocked the world in 1900 was "Are we living in the twentieth or nineteenth century?" We know from History that this has been resolved as the twentieth century. Events have rocked the very foundations of our civilization since that historical debate.

Even though it may be pleasant to return to the easy tempo of life in 1900, we must press forward. We trust that the education you received in your Alma Mater has prepared you to place "Human Rights" above material considerations at all times. Your neighbor, whether in the house next door or in a foreign land, must receive your best consideration.

Your friend always,
T. R. Townley,
Supervising Principal

TO THE CLASS OF 1960

This year our schools, and the students who frequent them, have been deluged with criticism; most students avoid tough basic courses; schools have failed to awaken intellectual curiosity; we are behind European students, etc., etc. The list is a long one and almost always negative. Some of the criticism is justified, but frequently a single incident results in a generalization. Let this be one voice raised in praise of your accomplishments. I know all of you have profited by your school contacts. These, you will find in retrospect, have done much to mold your way of life and influence your thinking - and our way of life is the best. The knowledge you've absorbed will vary, but all of you have been inculcated with a sense of values that will enable you to face the future with far less uncertainty than would have been possible without the schooling and the diplomas you've earned. You can be a living rebuttal to the criticisms leveled at our schools. My sincere best wishes for a happy and fruitful future.

Michael Chouse

There is much more to the education of American children than stepping-up the Science and Mathematics programs or outstripping the European students, academically.

Let's concentrate too, on the development of the innate potential of each child to prepare him for the very special role that he will play as a happy and respected citizen in his chosen profession and his community.

However, in any process of real education, the cooperation of administrators, teachers, parents and the students themselves is necessary to have an effective program.

Class History

We started our first Sophomore class meeting with Miss Jacques and Mr. Vishneowski as our advisors. We elected Fritz Brownell, President; Bill Jankowski, Vice President; Ed Zayicek, Secretary; and Bob Winney, Treasurer. The Snowball Hop was given to us by the previous graduation class. It was our first big dance and a huge success, as it has been for the past two years.

Mrs. Cloutier and Mr. Fabozzi were our Junior advisors with Ed Zayicek, President; Fritz Brownell, Vice President; Virginia Hopes, Secretary; and Edith Sawyer, Treasurer. We were very busy with our magazine sale. The orders were taken for our school rings . . . they finally arrived . . . Arabian Nights . . . blue and purple decorations . . . the king and queen . . . the queen's court . . . a very tired class the next morning.

Senior class officers were Nicole Robbins, President; Edalenia Dalmata, Vice President; Joan Skapik, Secretary; and Edith Sawyer, Treasurer. Our class B.H.S. pins sold only to the Seniors . . . our Record Hop . . . the first class to use the new gym . . . selling pens and paper . . . ordering invitations and cards . . . Senior pictures . . . Senior day . . . catalog sales . . . bake sales . . . Yearbook . . . Leap Year Dance . . . our long awaited Washington trip . . . and finally graduation.
