Hearbook Honors Teachers

Every year thousands of students, each with his own personality, interests, and capabilities, enter our nation's schools. Here they are expected to acquire the knowledge and experience we call an education. They must learn the history, geography and government of their own country, so they will become useful citizens. They study the languages and traditions of other countries, so that they will have a broad understanding of the world. To improve their ability to reason logically, they study mathematics. So that they will always have an appreciation of the beauty in life, they are exposed to music and the arts. As a guide for their lives, they learn the wisdom of man through the ages as expressed in literature, philosophy, and religion. They study natural science in order to unwrap the mysteries of the universe in which they live. All of this must be compressed into the few short years of grade school, high school, and college. The responsibility for their education falls on their teachers.

The teacher does not come by his knowledge without a great deal of effort on his part. He too must go through the long process of being a student. To continue his education through college and beyond, he requires a love of learning. The teacher needs that same desire to know that he hopes to instill in his students. This desire is not limited to only one area of specialization. He wants to know the truth in all fields. He sees that all knowledge is interrelated. One discipline would be of little use without the others. A good teacher has this general love of learning which is characteristic of the true scholar.

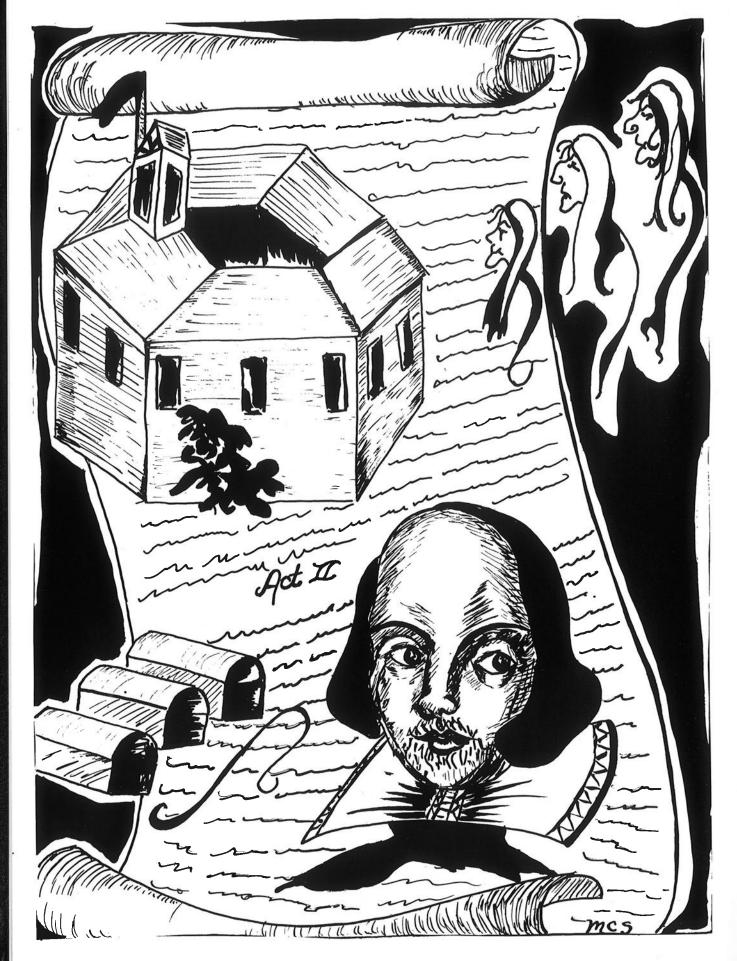

The teacher must want to teach and know. He must also want to put in many hours of work. This time is occupied with preparing lessons, correcting papers, and attending to the many other details that are part of his job. Besides this he must continue his education, even if he is long out of college. To keep up with the modern world, he has to continually be informed of new developments in his area. Of course, he also spends a large part of his day in the classroom. This can be a thrilling experience at times. But it can also be quite tiring and discouraging when nothing he says seems to make an impression. For all his work, he receives a salary considerably less than he could earn in private industry. He cheerfully continues because he knows the joy of helping a student understand a difficult concept. The teacher also hopes that he may give his pupils something more than just factual knowledge. He hopes that he will have some measure of success in building their character and influencing their lives. To continue his job, the teacher must be a truly dedicated person.

Without teachers, to evince the knowledge of the ages, we could not hope to maintain our civilization. We are glad to dedicate this year's Kennyetto Kronicle to them and to their profession.

Hearbook Recognizes Shakespeare

This year the Kennyetto Kronicle selects as its theme, the works of William Shakespeare. He has had more influence on our language than any other author. Not only did he write with great skill, but he also played a large part in creating the language the student uses daily. Many of his phrases express so precisely an important idea, that they have been accepted as part of the common vernacular. Students often use words and expressions without realizing that they originated in Shakespeare's writings.

For nearly four centuries his works have been a standard of excellence for the entire world. Every year students in high school devote part of their time to studying his literature. From this, students gain insight into the nature of all men. Shakespeare portrays the character of every type of man. Every student can find something of himself in Shakespeare's writings. Because of his molding of our language, his great literary achievements and the profound effect he has had on the students every day life, we think it fitting to choose his contributions as our theme.

MRS. ESTHER PITT secretary to Mr. Murray

Mrs. Esther Pitt first became associated with Broadalbin High School in 1946 when she was elected as clerk to the Board of Education. Within the next twelve years, Mrs. Pitt served both as clerk and also as secretary to the Board. In 1958, Mrs. Pitt was chosen as Treasurer, Secretary and Activity Treasurer of Broadalbin High School. Serving the school under three principals, she held every elected school office except tax collector. Mrs. Pitt left Broadalbin High School with eighteen years of service. Mrs. Phyllis MacNeill has assumed her secretarial duties.

MR. JAMES MURRAY

To the Student Body:

I would like to congratulate the Yearbook Staff and the Advisor for publishing this excellent Yearbook. I know I speak for everyone when I say "A Job Well Done."

Several years ago I read a quotation that I have always remembered. It was, "Life is a ladder: Every step we take is either up or down." I wish you would remember this quotation as you progress through High School, College and in later life. I hope that your education will enable you to advance on this ladder to your aspired goal or aim in life. And in closing one final quotation, "The toughest part of getting to the top of the ladder is getting through the crowd at the bottom."

To the Class of 1965:

MR. MICHAEL CHOUSE

Advice will never replace experience, but we of the older generation can rarely resist giving it—especially those of us who teach. You have or are about to enter a new world. In it you will observe and experience much that is vastly different from the sheltered life you have been living. To many, there will come the sudden awareness that life is being lived below the level of their youthful expectations. It is true that the condition of man is often pathetic and sometimes tragic, but it need not and must not be ignoble.

I hope your approach to life will be governed by logic and reasoning; that you will give thought to more than the acquisition of material "things" and that no amount of cruelty and injustice; of the treachery, suffering and selfishness inflicted by man upon his own species will deter you from striving to better the human condition.

A last word: to make your life nobler, give due consideration to your fellow man. We can improve the human lot with simple kindness.

Best wishes and good luck in all you undertake in the beckoning future.

They Are Not Korgotten

March 27, 1907-October 9, 1964

To Mrs. Dorothy Reed, so dedicated to the youth of Broadalbin and devoted to her family, the Kennyetto Kronicle wishes to pay their respects.

Mrs. Reed served Broadalbin for twenty years, giving unselfishly of her self for the education of the students of our school. Whether she was known to us as a friend or teacher, Mrs. Reed always displayed a character of reliability and an unending promise of striving toward a fuller and happier tomorrow. Let our gratitude for her service be unceasing.

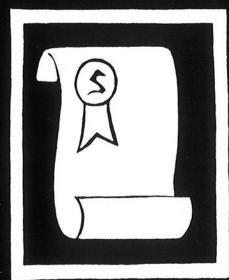

June 20, 1896-November 30, 1964

To the beloved teacher, Mrs. Jessie Crannell, we pay our respects. Let us not forget that she gave of herself sincerely to the profession of teaching for forty-seven years and was a credit to it.

Because of Mrs. Crannell's genuine character many aspired to follow in her footsteps. Teaching at Broadal-bin for twenty-five years, Mrs. Crannell stirred respect and integrity in those who knew her, both as colleague and teacher. As a person who was admired and loved, we appreciate the contributions that she made to Broadalbin.

Hearbook Mins Prize

A first place rating was awarded the 1964 Kennyetto Kronicle in the annual competition held by Columbia University. This is the first time that our book has been so honored.

The book you are now reading was produced by seniors, juniors, and sophomores. Again, the number of underclass trainees was increased, so that more might have the experience of working on the staff.

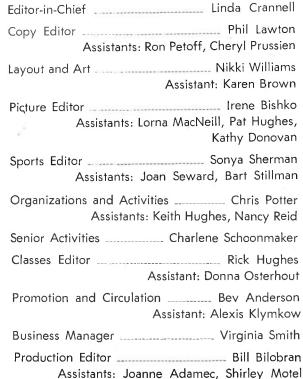

A promotional skit based on three of Shakespeare's plays was presented to the entire student body in order that they might receive an indication of what was to appear in the 1965 Yearbook.

During the recent presidential and senatorial campaigns, Broadalbin students were given a chance to voice their sentiments. A board, elected by the students, registered everyone in grades 9-12 who wished to participate. Campaigns were organized and the supporters of each candidate were allowed to present their views over the public address system. Election day arrived. Nearly all registered voters cast their ballots. They were divided as follows: President; Johnson-195; Goldwater-67; Senator; Kennedy-149, Keating-104; Paolucci—12.

Students Speak But

Winner Richard Hughes.

Each year juniors and seniors are given an opportunity to participate in the "Voice of Democracy" contest sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the National Association of Broadcasters. The contestants deliver an original speech of approximately five minutes. This year the topic was "The Challenge of Citizenship." The winning speech is taped and placed in competition with those of other area winners. The national champion receives a college scholarship.

Korensic Teague Achates Disarmament

High school forensic activities are rapidly increasing in popularity throughout the country. Last year Broadalbin students, under the guidance of Mr. Richard Horwitz, formed their own league. During the current season they are studying the national debate topic "Resolved that nuclear weapons should be placed under the control of an international organization."

Representatives Kearn About Democracy

Each year two Junior boys and one Junior girl are chosen to represent Broadalbin at Empire Girls' and Boys' State. This event, sponsored by the American Legion, the Rotary Club and the Legion Auxiliary, brings together leading students from all parts of the state for one week. They listen to expert speakers from various branches of government. They also gain practical experience in the democratic process by electing their own state, county and city governments. The participants report to the student body the following fall.

Jere Brown; Bev Anderson; Bill Jennings.

Organizations

Society Konors Teading Students

Senior society members: Bill Bilobran; Phil Lawton; Charlene Schoonmaker; Mr. Towne; Bev Anderson; Jere Brown; Doug Mussen.

Each year outstanding students are inducted into the National Honor Society. Election to this society, which has chapters in every state, represents the highest honor which a high school student may receive. Members are selected because they display the qualities of character, scholarship, leadership and service. Broadalbin has two chapters, one for junior high students and one for those in senior high.

This year's senior high inductees were: Joanne Adamec; Sally Anderson; Irene Bishko; Russell Bogardus; Cynthia Butkus; Linda Calder; Evelyn Canary; Linda Crannell; Richard Hughes; Ronald Petoff; Linda Pearsall; Cheryl Prussien; Carol Reid; Bart Stillman; Edward Tanner.
