Our Heritage

Reflecting on what to leave our friends and underclassmen brings us to a fuller realization of what we have received from P.C.S. But, how can you leave knowledge so hard won, now an integral part of us, laughs piled on one another in profusion, now only a faint echo, memories glad and sad, too precious, too personal to discard? What's left? Stuff and nonsense undoubtedly. An inimitable part of our bequest, however, it is our best wishes, our thanks - it's been real.

We, the class of 1963, leave:

To the School - an empty room 22.

To the Juniors - $1,000 to add to the $1.39 with which they started the year 1962.

To the Sophomores - a policy that works as well as their "good relations" one has for the past two years.

To the Freshmen - faith to withstand the next four years, which may now appear hopeless to them.

To Mr. Dylong - the ability to tolerate his next home room class as well as he did ours.

I, Don Abraham, leave to Mr. Oarr my hair which he envies so much.

I, Leon Anderson, leave my thoughts to Mr. Marcil in 8th period study hall.

I, Carl Angus, leave my tardiness to all underclassmen.

I, Ed Banewicz, leave my hair to Mr. Dylong.

I, Carol Barnoski, leave my ability to get into trouble to any frustrated junior who wants it.

I, Ed Cetnar, leave my ability to get out of gym class to Jim Pelneau.

I, Chrys Chiappa, leave to Pat Sollecito my battle with Mr. Dylong to go up the west-end stairway.

I, Nick DeMaria, leave my ability to skip class to anyone who wants it.

I, Diane Dziewit, leave to Bill Daggett my sense of direction so he may still find G.H.S.

I, Lois Edel, leave my long hair to anyone who wants it.

I, John Fitzgerald, leave my driving ability to Mary Ann Makacynas.

I, Allan Greene, leave my ability to grow a beard to anyone who needs hair - Mr. Dylong.

I, Alan Hart, leave to Mr. Dylong all his pens that I borrowed.

I, Greg Healey, leave my Pepsodent smile to all TV commercials.

I, Mary Lou Hemstreet, leave that "Great Symphonic Feeling" to Mr. Marcil.

I, Joe Herba, leave with the hope that I can take everything with me.

I, Judy Higgins, leave my shyness to a very bold junior.

I, Carolyn Ippoliti, leave to Pete Budnikas peace of mind since I won't be here to chase him.

I, Andy Kilinski, leave my ability to stay out of school four days a week to Ditty Pickrell.

I, Marshall Knapik, leave to Dick Dziewit my draft card for Skyview.

I, Bob Kosiba, leave my Joan Baez records to Pete Budnikas.

I, Diana Marek, leave my old college catalogs to Pat Sollecito.

I, Tobie Matthews, leave my convertible to Rich DiCaprio anytime he may need it.

I, Gail Mildern, leave my ability to work in the library period after period to anyone who wants it.

I, Carol Peck, leave my ability to type a perfect letter to Tim Murphy.

I, Joyce Reksc, leave my ambition to anyone who might need it.

I, Nadine Renyak, leave my stature to Candi Fuerst.

I, Richard Siegle, leave with a sigh of relief.

I, Sharon Smith, leave my unearned spirit of innocence in class to Donna Bellinger.

I, Rosemary Stewart, leave my ability to make excuses in gym class to Dianne DuMont.

I, Faye Anna Sweet, leave my ability to talk in study halls without being caught to my sister, Kathy.

I, Celia Traver, leave to my brother, Bernie, my ability to pass the geometry regents with a booming 65.

I, Gay Tyler, leave my ability to be treasurer two consecutive years to whomever wants it.

I, Eleanora Vanosky, leave my driving without license plates to Linda Wenskoski.

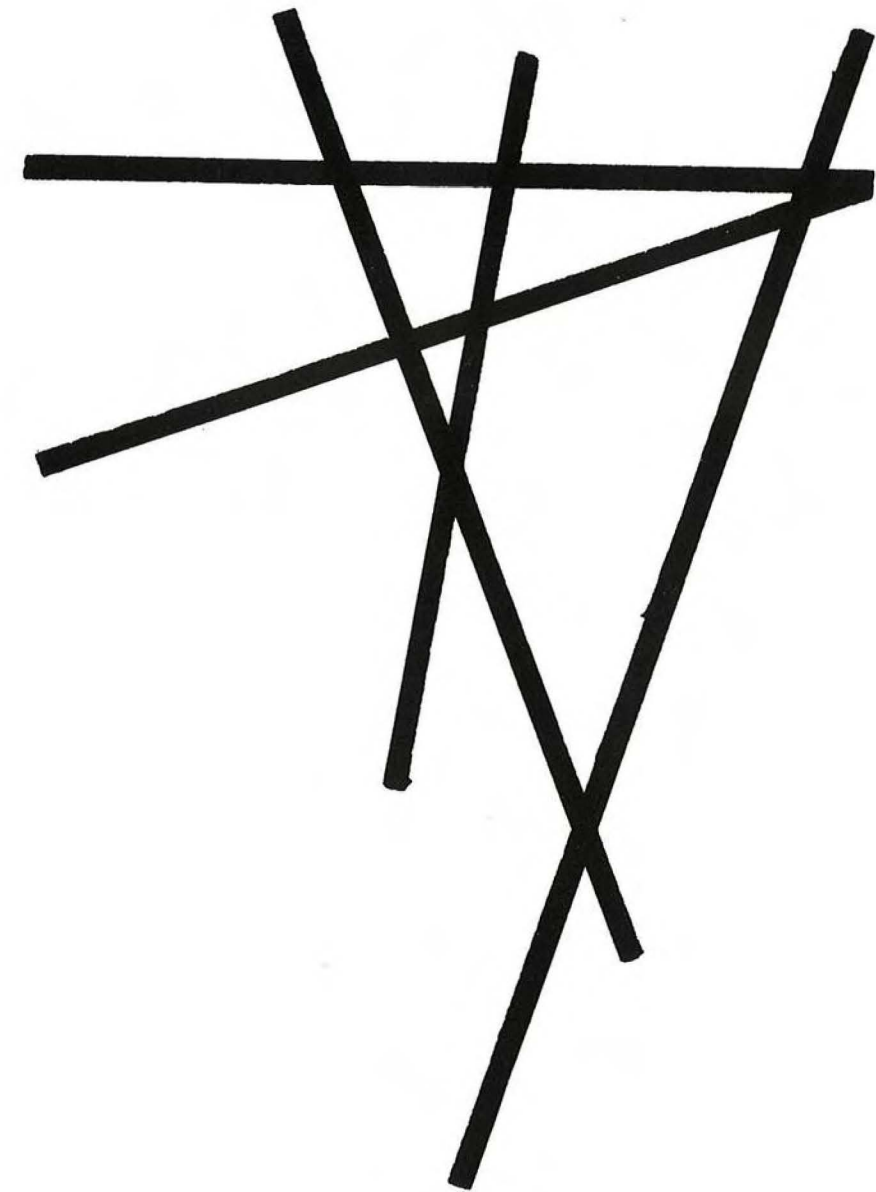

I, Arlene Vidulich, leave my ability to flunk History to Marion Skretkowicz.

I, Diana Vielyn, leave my laugh to Mr. McConville.

I, Bernie Wenskoski, leave my promptness at play practice to the next "red-headed boy."

I, Anne White, leave my ability to mess up directions to Barb Kulczycki.

I, Diane Zwolak, leave to Mr. Oarr all the booklets I borrowed from him.

Library Club

A three day Book Fair aimed at promoting students' home libraries proved to be an encouraging success in the newly organized Library Club's first sponsored event. Another project well received by teachers and students was a program of story telling for students in grades K-4

Enthusiastic student response indicates a promising future for P.C.S.'s newest club under the able guidance of our librarian, Mrs. Whipple.

L to R, SEATED: L. Yost, M. Jackowski, D. Zwolak, L. Wenskoski, D. Clark, T. Kowalczyk, M. Billings, B. Pelotte. TOP ROW: J. Klobukowski, R. Burns, R. Phillips, G. Mildern, K. Yost, D. Vickers, L. ### ACT I

Scene 1 (Enter various members pictured above carrying make-up kits, sundry play scripts. Some players are declaiming in stentorian tones, while others quietly discuss fundamentals of correct speaking. Left-Center of stage, important looking person raps gavel. Hush falls over group all attention focused on Miss Ruggiero, faculty advisor.)

Miss Ruggiero: "Now, fellow players, let us set our goals for this year."

First Player: "Let's put on a play (The Inner Willy)."

Second Player: "Let's have a dance."

Third Player: "Let's help the seniors with their play."

Fourth Player: "Let's do all three."

(Curtain descends amid shouts of approval as meeting comes to a close.)

"A promoter of lively discussion"
"A source of gossip about classmates"
"An outlet of the latest fashion news"
"The arbiter of student opinions"

Amid cries of "deadlines, .copy. .space. . headlines" the junior class attempts to put the character described above to bed. A brief trip to the printers and in a few days this character will appear in the halls as the "Scroll," a student newspaper.

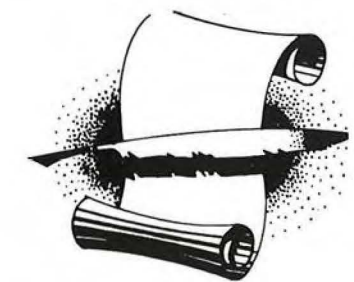

Diligent attention to details and just plain hard work have made the "Scroll" a keenly anticipated tri-weekly event at Perth.

Feature Reporters gather to discuss work.

Sports Staff plans layout.

Publication and Circulation Staffs plan better sales promotions.

Rich moves for save.

Dick leads attack.

Pete's bid is thwarted.

Great play stops "Raiders."

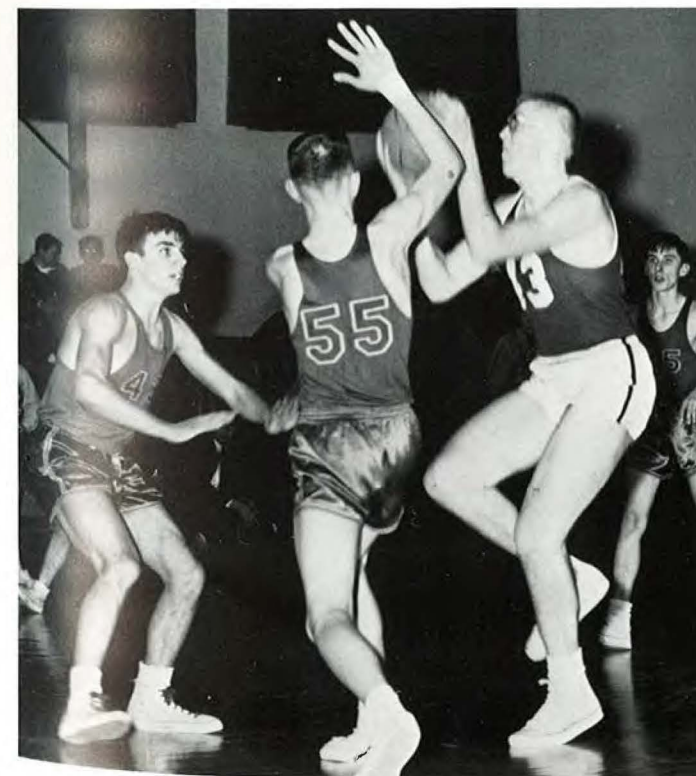

When the air turns brisk in the late long shadow slanted October days, dull thuds and high pitched faint cries of excitement carry from the soccer field. Another season of "kickball" is here.

This year's team, under the tutelage of Coach Coluni, had the most successful season in Perth history. Action, fast-moving play, thrilling scores, and near misses are plentiful in each game.
