Thomas A. Jennings

Seated behind coach's small wooden desk, alternately chewing and gesticulating with his huge provolone cheese sandwich, he explained the baffling geometric functions amid the tumult of ten or fifteen students. His lunch hour and only free period, he was doing what he liked best--teaching. He has taught most of us and in the classroom, his wit and persuasive manner is engaging and encouraging. He has also been our class advisor. This job includes chaperoning at dances, supervising class monetary affairs, and tactfully suggesting new ways to raise money. He did this and he did more. The West Point trip, the Senior Picnic, the My Fair Lady Trip, and lasting memories of our senior year, were his innovations and successful undertakings. When time lagged, he coached some of us of the bowling, golf, or junior high basketball teams. Besides these things there was an extra. The whole, in this case, is greater than the sum of its parts. We feel that he has a genuine affection for us; he is interested in us and our problems. In turn, we like him. But, as in all truly affectionate relationships, we have alternately delighted and frustrated him; he flashes his infectious smile and scowls his gloomy frown. Always, the stone face dissolves and we are friends again.

We spell his name: warmth, wit, and patience.

We give this, that he remember us--we will always remember him.

Fall

Opening Day

Old friends, new stories.
New teachers, old teachers.
It is good to be back.
At least for the first day,
it is good to be back.

New Faces

A name in an August paper is matched to a face in a September assembly.
Each has a style we'll long remember.

Mrs. Riley: "Otra Vez . . . this time a little louder."

Mr. Peterson: "Senior does not mean picnic."

Mr. Jones: "Now for our next project we'll have a poster showing . . ."

Mr. Aulisi: "So foul and fair a day I have not seen."

Mr. Hertik: "Use the TOP of the T-square."

Mr. Fliegel: "rrrrr, in French you roll the R."

Miss Scudder: "O. K. kick the BALL."

Miss Rice: "What do you really think Whitman is saying?"

Soccer is practice and . . .

Soccer

There is no glory in soccer. No cheerleader yell, no fan applause echoes the soccer field. But this does not lessen the desire, competitiveness and combative-ness of the players. Whether practice or game, soccer demands 100% from its participants. It is a rugged game, exciting to play and to watch.

Games

Coach Coluni FIRST ROW: D. Clapper, J. Banewicz, J. Goodspeed, L. Schneider, M. Quackenbush, J. Pond, C. Menge, G. Jevitt, D. Bellinger, J. Redmond, T. Quackenbush. SECOND ROW: A. Bucciferro, C. Fuerst, D. Chiappa, D. Weaver, T. Wedrychowicz, L. Rogers, B. Horton, B. Ostrowski, M. D'Addio, J. Klobukowski, B. Traver, J. Woodford, H. Hemstreet.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

"A little water would help."

"If you didn't have ears you would wear your hair this way."

Our Hearts Were Young and Gay

"But Miss I hardly know you."

"I'll shoes you for them."

A Curtain Call.

Behind the Scenes:

"Amateurs!"

"It is stuffed with my life savings."

Will Tom find his two combs, three brushes, one can of hair spray, and his inflatable raft before cue time?

Meanwhile, back stage . . .

Senior Picnic

That ech!!! that Cheryl is pointing to is just one of many obstacles that must be conquered in Mr. King's biology class.

The formidable stance of Mr. Redmond is symbolic of the physical and moral qualities that he instills in his boys in Physical Education classes.

The United States map behind Miss Ruggiero is just an embarkation point to Samarkand, Bukhara and other exotic places visited in her Social Studies 9 class.

Mrs. Whipple's engaging smile is only an outward manifestation of her diligence and helpfulness to all the students who enter the portals of the library.

General Business is only one of several commercial subjects that showcase Mrs. Olendorf's expertise.

Can you tell the difference between a bassoon and an oboe? You could if you listen closely to the audio-visual demonstration in Mr. Fish's Music classes.

Spring

As the sun lifts slowly into the sky, hinting at the golden treasure it carries, a burst of outdoor activity blossoms at Perth. The more than casual observer ignores the first robin, the first buds, rather he looks for the first noontime softball games, the cardiganed strollers, and the short sleeve and sleeveless sun worshippers. As the pictures show, like the first robin, we sometimes rush the season.

The Senior Ball, a gala evening featuring the girls in dazzling gowns and magnificent coiffures, boys in bow tie and tuxedo elegance, is always the highlight of the year's social calendar. Last year's "Evening in Paradise" was no exception. The metamorphosis of the Perth gym into a lavishly decorated ballroom straining with the melodious sounds of a dance band is always surprising even to the oldest witness of this event. Reigning over last year's festivities was queen Pat Sollecito, and her regal princesses, Linda Farley and Betty Herba.

MR. JENNINGS -
Math + Humor = Mr. Jennings

MR. DYLONG -

A growing awareness that history is not just a heavy textbook is a result of exposure to Mr. Dylong.

MR. GILSON -

The suspense of success or failure always enlivens Mr. Gilson's chemistry and physics experiments.

MRS. WHITE -
Working along with her students, Mrs. White passes along many helpful hints in home management.

MISS MARTIN -
Our dental health is kept under careful check by our dental hygienist, Miss Martin.

MR. BAILEY -

Mr. Bailey favors his math classes with wit served extra dry, and through many field trips explores our area's geology with his Earth Science class.

MR. COLUNI -

The rigors of student driving seem not to have taken their toll on Mr. Coluni's patience and affability.

MR. PARSONS -

His skill and experience allows Mr. Parsons to instruct our boys in the elementary and advanced courses in industrial arts.

MR. MARCIL -

Voicing our opinion and taking an active part in the discussion are the main objectives in Mr. Marcil's informal classes.

MRS. PELOTTE -

Whatever creative talent we have thrives in the informal atmosphere of Mrs. Pelotte's art classes.

MRS. JENNINGS -

Patience is mixed with just the right amount of friendliness by Mrs. Jennings to make each of her typing and shorthand classes a refreshing experience.

MR. McAULIFFE -

The abstraction that is English is made more concrete through the watchful direction of Mr. McAuliffe.

MRS. WEST -

A cheery smile greets each and everyone as they enter Mrs. West's office for medical assistance.

MRS. PARIS -

The mysteries of modern math are unraveled under the skillful guidance of Mrs. Paris.
