

Ninth Grade Summer Reading Guidelines

For summer reading, ninth graders will read A Raisin in the Sun by Lorraine Hansberry. (ISBN 978-0679755333). You are expected to read this play carefully without using Internet summaries or any sources other than the actual book (including movies).

When reading this work, you may create notes to help you study for the test. Some suggestions for notes include a brief summary of acts; for example, use only 2 or 3 well-written sentences to tell what happens in that particular section. Writing these summaries is an opportunity to practice concise prose. You may also consider keeping a list of characters. As you read the play, write brief phrases to identify important characters and add to this list as you progress. This work has been chosen because it exhibits the literary theme of coming of age or bildungsroman. Make sure you are familiar with the meaning of this theme and can give examples as to how A Raisin in the Sun qualifies as a coming of age text. You will not be able to use these notes on the test, but they will serve as a valuable study guide.

You will take a test, which will include an essay portion, on A Raisin in the Sun on Friday, August 11, 2023.

Remember that the Compliance Form must be signed and returned on August 11.
