About Us

Creekview Ranch, home of the Raptors, opened in 2008. Our staff collectively and diligently works to promote positive self-esteem, self-motivation, acceptance of differences, and a sense of responsibility in their students. Visitors to Creekview Ranch will see our personal standards in action by observing the positive interaction between adults and students, focusing on academics, students' well-being socially and emotionally, student engagement, family engagement, and programs encouraging student achievement and involvement in our educational community. Creekview Ranch School is also a PBIS school where all staff and students strive always to follow "The Raptor Way" (Show Respect, Make Good Decisions, and Solve Problems).

Principal Marty Alberti is a highly accomplished professional, receiving numerous recognition for his work quality and professionalism throughout his career. Mr. Alberti oversaw the transition of Creekview Ranch from being a traditional middle school to now one of the only public TK-8 campuses regionally. Mr. Alberti is a well-respected educational leader in Placer County and has served in multiple leadership roles in educational organizations and on Dry Creek's negotiations team.
