

What can SARB do for students and their families?

- Help students understand the importance of school, and the consequences for failure to comply with the law.
- Offer counseling programs for the student and/or family.
- Offer parenting classes to support parents. Recommend changes in the student's program that might be unusual but necessary.
- Direct a student transfer to an alternative school or program.
- Request assistance from other county agencies and programs (Probation, Sheriff, Children's Services, counseling and mental health).
- Recommend the establishment of needed resources.
- Coordinate assistance from volunteers to help students get to school.
- Refer for academic tutoring.
- Refer chronic attendance problems to the District Attorney Truancy Mediation Program or other appropriate agency for further assistance.

What is SARB?

The Student Attendance Review Board or SARB was established by the California Legislature in 1975 for the purposes of helping students who are not going to school, and keeping students and parents out of the juvenile court system. In order to meet the needs of the student and their families, the legislation provides for a multi-agency SARB that includes the following agencies:

- School Site/District Representatives
- Children and Family Services
- Probation
- Law Enforcement
- Parents or Community Representatives
- Community-Based Organizations
- Child Welfare & Attendance Personnel
- School Guidance Personnel
- District Attorney's Office
- Mental Health Personnel
- Health Care Personnel

Who is referred to SARB?

- Students with chronic attendance and/or behavior problems which have not been resolved through school efforts.

What is SARB?

The SARB process begins at the school, where students with chronic attendance and/or behavior problems are identified and monitored. The school can do the following as forms of intervention:

- Phone calls or letters to the parent
- Parent conferences with school personnel
- Attendance and/or behavior contract with the student, school, and parent

What happens at the SARB hearing?

- A school staff member shares the attendance record.
- SARB members ask the student and parent to explain why the student is not going to school.
- SARB members ask the student and parent questions to help identify the problem.
- SARB members make recommendations to assist the family and student.
- The student and parent sign a SARB attendance contract.

What does the SARB contract mean?

- The contract is a promise that the student will go to school every day, be on time and follow school rules.
- The student/parent also promises to follow all other conditions on the contract, which may include participating in a parenting class, attending counseling sessions, signing in with a school official, attending tutoring, and other conditions.

- The attendance and/or behavior of the student will be monitored on a regular basis; the family may be asked to return to the SARB for a review of the case.
- Violations of the contract could result in a referral to the District Attorney for truancy mediation and prosecution.

FACTS RELATED TO POOR ATTENDANCE

- Parents and guardians strongly influence a child's attendance patterns.
- Children's absence patterns are established as early as kindergarten.
- Children's older siblings frequently set attendance patterns in a family.
- Children are absent more frequently on Mondays and Fridays.
- Children stay home more often on rainy days, inclement weather, and the day after a school holiday.
- Children who take family vacation during the school year.
- Children who do not eat breakfast are absent more than children who do.
- Children who are excessively absent suffer losses in educational achievement, perform poorly on tests, and are at greater risk of dropping out.
- Children who are truant commit the majority of daytime burglaries and may become involved in delinquent behavior.
