Alumna and Senior Speakers

Antonia McGrath

Antonia is the Founder and Director of educate., an NGO working to empower children and young people in rural Honduras through supporting community-driven initiatives focused on education. She is also a PhD candidate at the University of Amsterdam's Centre for Latin American Research and Documentation (CEDLA) where she researches the role of civil society organizations in tackling youth violence. She holds a BA in International Studies and Latin American Studies from the University of Leiden and a Masters in International Development Studies from the University of Amsterdam.

After graduating from ZIS in 2014, Antonia spent a year living in Honduras working at a children's home. Over the past nine years she has been engaged in a variety of pursuits surrounding research, journalism, activism and non-profit work in Honduras and other parts of Central America, spending months every year working with communities on the ground. educate., which she founded in 2017, today runs a youth center and public library with arts and global citizenship programs for children and young people, and high school and university scholarship programs. The organization provides support for public schools through the creation of school-based community libraries and other forms of support. Strong local leadership is at the center of all of these programs, ensuring deep impact and long-term sustainability.

Corinne Pace

Corinne joined ZIS in August 2011 from California to start Grade 1. Throughout high school Corinne has been a debate team member, student council grade representative for two years in a row, and the president of the National Honor Society. She has also competed for ZIS on the cross country, volleyball, and basketball teams. Corinne is excited to embark on her new adventure at Wake Forest University, where she will continue to grow her interests in all subjects.

Reed Lucke

Reed joined ZIS in 2018 in Grade 8 from the Freies Gymnasium Zürich. At ZIS, he has been involved as the president of the history club, as well as a co-leader of the debate and MUN clubs. Reed has also served as a student council executive, in addition to being the director and co-founder of the Lion's Roar, the students' weekly news show. Outside of the ZIS community, he is a dedicated athlete for the Ruderclub Thalwil. Reed is excited to be attending Brown University in the US next year, studying International and Public Affairs.
