

Thermostat Savings Chart

A general recommendation is a thermostat setting of 78°F degrees when using Air Conditioning and a setting of 70°F degrees when heating is used. For example, a 75°F setting will cost approximately 24% or more than a setting of 78°F when using Air Conditioning.

This chart can help you measure your potential costs or savings by simply adjusting your thermostat settings:

