Canadian School of Florence Goes Wild for Endangered Species on WWF Wear it Wild Day

Canadian School of Florence (CSF) in Florence, Italy, took part in WWF's (Worldwide Fund for Nature) Wear It Wild on June 1st, to raise awareness and vital funds to help protect our planet. CSF, as a Globeducate school, is a partner of WWF and each year supports the charity´s efforts to raise awareness of endangered species.

Our world is under threat like never before. Globally we're all using the planet's resources faster than nature can restore itself. Wear it Wild is WWF's fundraising event that aims to inspire thousands of people, young and old, to dress up wild and donate, in order to help nature and people thrive for future generations.

Isabelle Leblanc, Head of School at Canadian School of Florence, said: "Young people will inherit a world shaped by the actions we take today so we must act now and protect our planet. Our pupils are really excited to be involved in WWF's Wear it Wild and are inspired to get involved in this fun event, raise awareness and funds and help spread the more serious message that we all need to take action. As a Globeducate school and school on the Eco-Schools journey, our students are actively involved in using their voices and energy to raise awareness of the future of the planet and all of its inhabitants – wildlife and humanity."

Louise Hall, WWF-UK spokesperson, said: "It's incredibly inspiring to see so many schools taking part in Wear It Wild to help protect our planet. We're the first generation of people to know the impact of what we're doing to the planet, and the last that has a chance to do anything about it. At WWF we hope that Canadian School of Florence's participation will inspire others to take part in future and support the campaign.

WWF's Living Planet Report 2020 shows some of the devastating impacts we are having on our natural world and how our relationship with nature is broken. Wildlife populations have declined by over half in less than 50 years. Plummeting numbers of mammals, reptiles, amphibians, birds and fish around the world are an urgent sign that nature needs support. As well as increasing awareness, all money raised will help support WWF's work to tackle growing threats to the natural world and our precious wildlife.
