

School Board Recognitions

October 2019

Check under “Kudos” at fcps.net for more details about these and other awards and honors.

Several students from Locust Trace AgriScience Center competed at this summer's Kentucky State Fair. The floriculture team was runner-up with Keirra Bruce, Maddie Felts, Lewis Glasscock, and Max Warnken earning red ribbons.

Fayette County Public Schools boasts 45 semifinalists in the 2019 National Merit Scholarship Program.

The 2019 Kentucky School Social Worker of the Year is Lori Vogel, a child guidance specialist at Leestown Middle School.

Principal Lester Diaz (center right in striped tie) accepts an Energy Star award for Frederick Douglass High School, which the Environmental Protection Agency recognized for the building's superior energy achievements. The design and everyday efforts save FCPS about $220,000 each year in energy costs.

The Kentucky Chapter of the American Institute of Architects also presented Frederick Douglass High School with an award for Achievement of Excellence in Architectural Design.

The Kentucky Environmental Education Council congratulated The Academy for Leadership at Millcreek Elementary for its green initiatives.

The Kentucky Environmental Education Council congratulated Bryan Station High School for its green initiatives.

The Kentucky Environmental Education Council saluted
Tates Creek Elementary as a 2019 National Green Ribbon School.

The Kentucky National Energy Education Development Project (NEED), which focuses on K-12 energy education, congratulated SCAPA at Bluegrass and its Bagstreet Boys team for their success in the Lexus Eco Challenge.