Lexington Mayor Linda Gorton delivered a proclamation for January's School Board Appreciation Month.

Several students excelled in the inaugural David Moore Piano Competition in Richmond. Awards went to Emma Mizuno of Rosa Parks Elementary, Jenny Lee of Paul Laurence Dunbar High School, Vivienne Lucier of Henry Clay High School, and Emily Peng of Bryan Station High School.

The girls' "A" basketball team at Beaumont Middle School capped an undefeated season with a close win in the tournament, edging Morton 39-37 in the championship game. Beaumont is coached by Tony Wilson, Brittany Shaver, and Chelsee Mischner.

In the girls' "B" championship game, undefeated Edythe J. Hayes beat third-seeded Southern 39-26 to cap their perfect season. The Panthers are coached by Mike Graves, Kelsey Meece, and Lauren Moss.

Tates Creek High School brought home second-place honors from the Kentucky Theatre Association's high school festival and play competition. The students performed "James and the Giant Peach," which is based on a children's classic.

January's winner of the superintendent's 212 Degrees Award was Kasey Spicer, the Family Resources Center coordinator at Dixie Magnet Elementary. This award recognizes an employee who goes above and beyond their usual duties.
