Sophie Pennington of Bryan Station High School (center) earned Best of Show honors in the Kentucky Art Education Association's state competition with her sculpture 'Date Night.'

FCPS produced a half-dozen winners in KET's Young Writers Contest, which encourages creative expression and literacy development.

Students from Winburn and Leestown middle schools and Lafayette High School excelled in the state-level National History Day competition.
