National History Day

NHD is a yearlong, national program which focuses on Historical research through interpretation and creative expression for students in 6th to 12th grade. By participating in NHD students may become writers, filmmakers, web designers, playwrights and artists as they create unique contemporary expressions of history. The experience culminates in a series of contests at the local and state levels and an annual national competition in Washington, DC in June. Students adhere to a yearly theme and select their competition category: historical paper, performance, exhibit, website or documentary.
