

Clear Creek ISD Instructional Materials Adoption Guidelines for Publishers

The District is a closed district with respect to instructional materials adoptions. Official district instructional materials and ancillary samples to building teachers will be coordinated through the Instructional Materials and Distribution Coordinator.

1. Selection of district instructional material/electronic media systems is based upon informed decision making of Subject Area Subcommittee (SAS) members rather than a “popular” vote of all teachers.
2. General instructional materials hearings are scheduled by the Instructional Materials and Distribution Coordinator and publicized throughout the District. SAS members are required to attend. Other interested school personnel are invited to attend.
3. Publisher representatives may contact the SAS facilitator by appointment. Publisher representatives are prohibited from contacting any individual subcommittee member or other staff during the adoption process.
4. Publisher-sponsored workshops, social functions, and gifts are allowed if approved by the Superintendent’s designee.
5. No SAS member or spouse may have been employed in any capacity by a publisher/vendor of books under consideration by SAS for a period of two years prior to the adoption.
6. All negotiations about materials to be included in the adoption will be through the SAS facilitator ONLY.
7. All negotiations/procedures regarding shipments, distributions, and allotments will be made through the Instructional Materials and Distribution Coordinator in accordance with TEA policy.
8. The District reserves the right to modify these regulations at any time.
9. Violations of these guidelines will be reported to the Instructional Material Division of the Texas Education Agency.
