Though your clothes may be crimson, they have yet to be washed in Hi-Lex.

You're always free to change your mind and choose a different future, or a different past. — Richard Bach

The world is your exercise-book, the pages on which you do your sums.
It is not reality, although you can express reality there if you wish.

You are also free to write nonsense, or lies, or to tear
the pages.
— Richard Bach

Perhaps it is that we never do really grow up; we go up to the top of the stalk and then revolve, like lollipops.
— Howard Nemerov

It's like that deserted feeling you get

There Never Was a Better Time

"What is REAL?" asked the Rabbit one day.
"Does it mean having things that buzz inside you and a stick-out handle?"

"Real isn't how you are made," said the Skin Horse. "It's a thing that happens to you. You become. It takes a long time. That's why it doesn't happen to people who break easily, or have sharp edges, or who have to be carefully kept. Generally, by the time you are Real, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out and you get loose in the joints and very shabby. But these things don't matter at all, because once you are Real you can't be ugly, except to people who don't understand."

— The Velveteen Rabbit

It mortifies me to spend my life on such trivialities, but what else can I do?

I want to be bad and not even care
I want to go out of my head somewhere
I want to go crazy like the dogs in the yard I want to cut the rope but it's getting so much harder.
Gonna have a good time before it's too late

The man who must watch his child dying stands in the utter shadows by her bed and reaches out to her with a dry, frozen hand.
In his dream, he shreds the clouds and shatters the sky into a million ice-drop fragments.
But now only his teardrops glisten in the wrinkles under his eyes.

His daughter sleeps without dreams, yet stares wide awake that numbs the life thrashing in her veins to escape,

Her father presses her to his own heart but she flees even as she is dragged, and stares back to him, her body crumpled by sobs She can say nothing, only stare at him with huge eyes stare into his weeping eyes moan in her sleep.

A perfected modern battle plan is like nothing so much as a score for an orchestral composition, where the various arms and units are the instruments, and the tasks they perform are their respective musical phrases. Every individual unit must make its entry precisely at the proper moment, and play its part in the general harmony.

— Lieutenant General Sir John Monash

Joel Philip Kaatrud

. . . men are in general divided by a law of nature into two categories, inferior (ordinary), that is, so to say, material that serves only to reproduce its kind, and men who have the gift or the talent to utter a new word . . . the first category is always the man of the present, the second the man of the future. The first preserve the world and people it, the second move the world and lead to its goals.

— Dostoevsky

And I have felt a presence that disturbs me with the joy of elevated thoughts; a sense sublime of something far more deeply interfused, whose dwelling is the light of setting suns, and the round ocean and the living air, and the blue sky, and in the mind of man; a motion and a spirit, that impels all thinking things, all objects of all thought, and rolls through all things . . . in nature and the language of the sense the anchor of my purest thoughts, the nurse, the guide, the guardian of my heart, and soul of all my moral being.

— Wordsworth

So runs my dream; but what am I? An infant crying in the night, an infant crying for the light, and with no language but a cry . . . O life as futile, then, as frail! O for thy voice to soothe and bless! What hope of answer, or redress? Behind the veil . . .

Don't you get embarrassed when you think about the way you were Yesterday the day before when you were young with much to learn Aren't you glad it's your last term
No more acting lowly worm
You can make suckers squirm
When you tell them how much you earn Don't you feel ashamed at all the bitterness you keep inside Does your ego save your face "I had a go — I really Tried"
Now you know your leaders lied Does it stop you acting snide Or are you still a boy that cried Tears now surely long since dried.

Nothing that is worth doing can be achieved in our lifetime; therefore we must be saved by hope.

Nothing which is true or beautiful or good makes complete sense in any immediate context of history; therefore we must be saved by faith.

Nothing we do, however virtuous, can be accomplished alone; therefore we are saved by love.

No virtuous act is as virtuous from the standpoint of our friend or foe as it is from our standpoint.
Therefore, we must be saved by that final form of love which is forgiveness.

Man will occasionally stumble over the truth, but most of the time he will pick himself up and continue on.

Hawkins' Theory:
Progress consists of replacing a theory that is wrong with one more subtly wrong.

Elizabeth Anne Schumacher

Keep the faith, never bend, be yourself to the end.
Don't look back, keep your head toward the sky, life works out by and by, while you give life everything you've got.
— The Gap Band

Ronald Eric Schwartz

Never imagine yourself not to be otherwise than what it might appear to others that what you were or might have been was not otherwise than what you had been would have appeared to them to be otherwise.

— Lewis Carroll

Fly away Skyline Pigeon fly Towards the dreams You've left so very far behind.
— Elton John

Time it was and what a time it was.
It was a time of innocence,
A time of confidences.
Long ago it must be,
I have a photograph, Preserve your memories, They're all that's left you.
— Paul Simon

Life is a series of hellos and goodbyes I'm afraid it's time for goodbye again
— Billy Joel

And one more thing.
Let's be careful out there.

John Alexander Seymour

Sight has to do with understanding; hearing with reason; smell with memory.
Touch and taste are realistic and depend on contact; they have no ideal side.
— Arthur Schopenhauer

Never do today what you can do as well tomorrow: because something may occur to make you regret your premature action.

— Aaron Burr

Night — the nurse of thoughts.

If eyes were made for seeing,
Then Beauty is its own excuse for being.
— Ralph Waldo Emerson

Jesse (T.B.) Singh

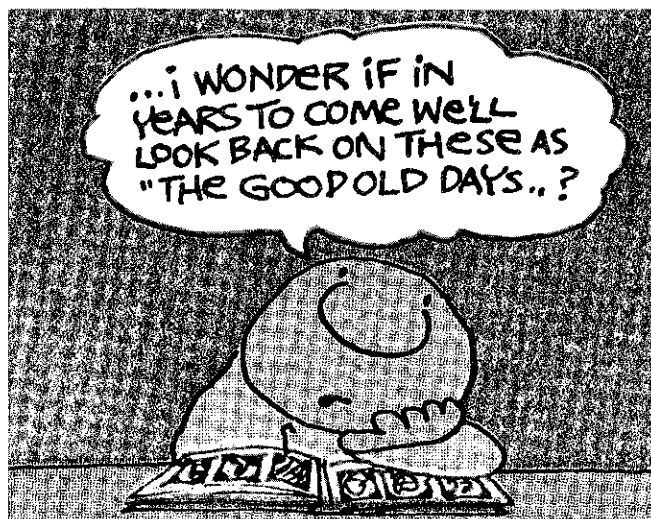

I remember all the times
I tried so hard,
But you laughed in my face Cause ya held the cards.
I don't care anymore!!
— Phil Collins

I think it's time to get ready to realize just what I have found.
I have been only half of what I am,
It's all clear to me now.
— Gary Wright

Fearlessly the idiot faced the crowd, smiling. . . .

Our memories of yesterday Will last a lifetime.
We'll take the best, forget the rest,
And someday we'll find These are the best of times.
— Styx

You've got to get up every morning with a smile on your face And show the world all the love in your heart.
— Carol King

The time shall not outgo my thinking on you.
— Shakespeare

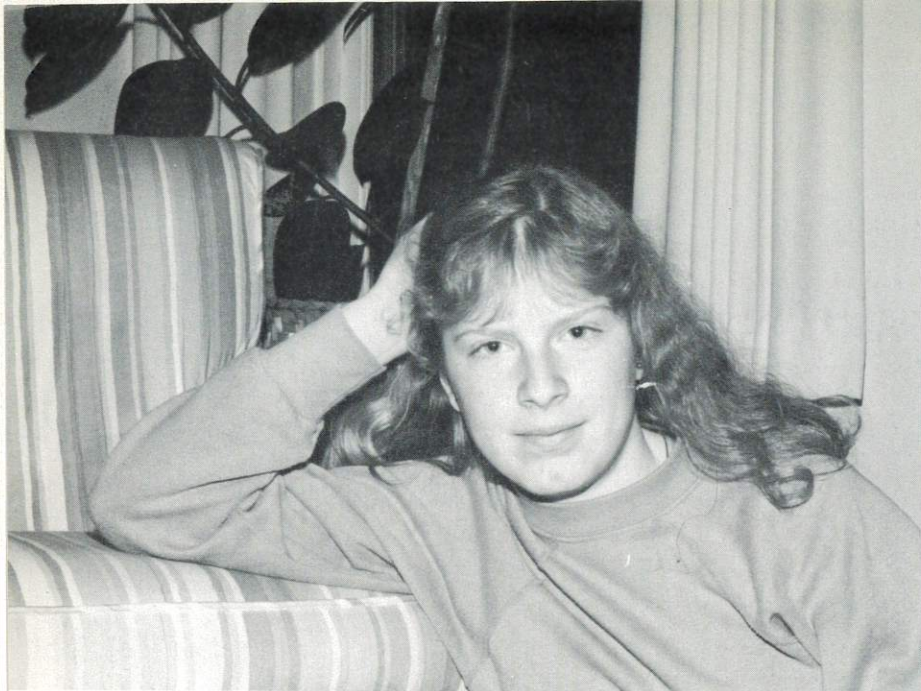

Man's passions make him live.
His wisdom merely makes him last.

We know there is a logic and perfection in chess. There is also fantasy, art, and creation. There is democracy and fair play. There is a special language, an adherence to fashion and style. There is modesty, courage and vanity. There is the pleasure of victory. There is elegance, beauty, mystery and magic.
There is time, motion and life.
Yes, life!

— Lubosh Kavalek
