Why should you become an apprentice electrician?

- Incredible Pay!
 - Apprentice electricians in Colorado make an average of $17 - $21 an hour according to Indeed Career Explorer and ZipRecruiter.
 - Licensed Journeyman electricians currently make an average of $64,000 a year according to tax data collected by Intuit TurboTax.
- Fulfilling Work!
 - Electricians are literally the ones keeping the lights on. As an electrician you get to build the future with your own hands.
 - Electricians get to see parts of Denver no one else will ever be able to. The work electricians do touches every part of modern life.
- Full-Time Hours!
 - As an apprentice electrician you will work a full-time 40 hour schedule. Want to earn extra money? Many apprentices and licensed electricians do extra work on the side to bolster their earnings.
- Great Benefits!
 - Our 200+ member contractors offer competitive benefit packages including healthcare, retirement, and more!

- Earn college credit!
 - Electricians who finish IECRM's 4 year apprenticeship earn 41 college credits towards an associates degree through Emily Griffith Technical College, or 53 credits towards a bachelors degree through CSU Global.
- No college debt!
 - Licensed Electricians have a $60,000+ a year job without the $20,000+ in college debt.
