English III
Summer Reading Assignment 2023

Please finish reading and annotating BOTH The House on Mango Street and Between the World and Me before the first day of school and bring your books to your first English class.

Task #1: Read and annotate The House on Mango Street

Task #2: Watch: Ta-Nehisi Coates explores America's racial divide in new book

Task #3: Read and annotate Between the World and Me

Guiding Questions:

You do not need to write responses to these questions. They are designed to help guide you as you read this summer.

a. How does our past influence our present and our future?
b. What does it mean to be American?
c. How would one define the American Dream?
d. How has the American Dream changed over time?
e. What are American truths and myths?
f. What is the American ethos and how are these values reflected in our art, literature, and culture?

Annotation Advice:

There are many ways to interact with a text. Everybody has a tendency when it comes to the type of annotations they tend to write – I ask a lot of questions, define words I don’t know, make personal connections, and comment on language that I find beautiful, challenging or confusing. Find a way to balance your annotation with your enjoyment of reading.

Book Information:

The House on Mango Street and Between the World and Me are available on Amazon and other online and in-store locations. You are responsible for purchasing the books on your own.

The House on Mango Street Synopsis (from amazon.com):

Told in a series of vignettes stunning for their eloquence, The House on Mango Street is Sandra Cisneros's greatly admired novel of a young girl growing up in the Latino section of Chicago.
Acclaimed by critics, beloved by children, their parents and grandparents, taught everywhere from inner-city grade schools to universities across the country, and translated all over the world, it has entered the canon of coming-of-age classics.

Sometimes heartbreaking, sometimes deeply joyous, The House on Mango Street tells the story of Esperanza Cordero, whose neighborhood is one of harsh realities and harsh beauty. Esperanza doesn't want to belong, not to her rundown neighborhood, and not to the low expectations the world has for her. Esperanza's story is that of a young girl coming into her power, and inventing for herself what she will become.

Between the World and Me Synopsis (from amazon.com):

“In a profound work that pivots from the biggest questions about American history and ideals to the most intimate concerns of a father for his son, Ta-Nehisi Coates offers a powerful new framework for understanding our nation’s history and current crisis. Americans have built an empire on the idea of “race,” a falsehood that damages us all but falls most heavily on the bodies of black women and men—bodies exploited through slavery and segregation, and, today, threatened, locked up, and murdered out of all proportion. What is it like to inhabit a black body and find a way to live within it? And how can we all honestly reckon with this fraught history and free ourselves from its burden?

Between the World and Me is Ta-Nehisi Coates’s attempt to answer these questions in a letter to his adolescent son. Coates shares with his son—and readers—the story of his awakening to the truth about his place in the world through a series of revelatory experiences, from Howard University to Civil War battlefields, from the South Side of Chicago to Paris, from his childhood home to the living rooms of mothers whose children’s lives were taken as American plunder. Beautifully woven from personal narrative, reimagined history, and fresh, emotionally charged reportage, Between the World and Me clearly illuminates the past, bracingly confronts our present, and offers a transcendent vision for a way forward.”
