WHO SHOULD APPLY?

Retired non-commissioned officers (NCOs) and officers who meet the qualification requirements of 10 USC 2031 and this regulation. Qualified individuals who possess strong leadership skills, high energy, a commitment to cadet growth, and a passion for working in a military boarding school environment are encouraged to apply. Persons interested in coaching drill, rifle, and/or Raiders are highly desirable.

OVERVIEW & EXPECTATIONS

The SAI works for the academic dean, coordinating closely with the commandant and athletic director, to help fulfill our promise to cadets and their families — the Academy’s mission to help cadets reach their full potential. The SAI will support and encourage MMA’s positive learning environment, characterized by relational teaching, high expectations, mutual respect, goal setting, and esprit de corps. As a leader at the Academy, the SAI’s support of the Academy’s military educational model— based on structure, self-discipline, and accountability — is essential.

The SAI will educate, encourage and motivate cadets through appropriate learning instruction and assessment of cadet progress. The SAI will make necessary adjustments to manage the learning environment and support cadet learning and achievement.

A commitment to the academic and social/emotional growth of young men is essential. The ideal candidate would possess excellent administrative, planning, and organizational skills and be able to successfully work with parents, colleagues, company leadership advisors, and cadets in a professional manner with a sense of purpose.

Faculty members are expected to participate in wide-ranging activities across the campus including: cadet life activities, as academic advisors, and chaperones at various events. This position requires strong communication and interpersonal skills, impeccable integrity, mature judgement, patience, multitasking, and a passion to work with young men.
