STATE STLP CHAMPIONSHIP

Several students placed at the Kentucky Department of Education’s Student Technology Leadership Program State Championship. Every day, students across Kentucky are utilizing digital tools to construct knowledge, collaborate, and communicate what they’re learning. These innovative designers are producing digital artifacts to tell their stories and to demonstrate what skills they are developing. The Kentucky Department of Education created STLP as a means for students to design, make, connect and learn through technology utilization and creation of original digital content. Each year, STLP hosts an in-person state event at Rupp Arena in Lexington. This allows students the opportunity to share the year-long projects they have worked on, get recognition for their digital products submitted virtually, compete in live competitions, and get the opportunity to explore some of the latest and greatest technology in education.

Samuel Wollert - Digital Music - State Champion

Sam created a piece of original music titled “Journey to the Edge.” Using a website called Flat.io, Sam experimented with time signatures oscillating between multiple time signatures to build a dynamic, beautiful and exciting piece. The big wave at the beginning represents embarking on the journey, the middle waves being the volume of the journey, and the exciting final wave representing the believed-to-be final stretch to the end of the journey that evens out into uncertainty and tension when “the Edge” is nowhere to be seen alluding to that there may not be an “Edge” after all.

Camden Station Elementary

Austin Darlage, Evan Lemmons, Colin Mizell, and Kara Mizell and their Eaglestrike Robot Royale team finished 2nd place for the Robotics Line Follow Challenge.

La Grange Elementary

Kimbree Davis (1st place) and Roland Roberson (2nd place) swept the 3D Design category. During the Design Process unit of study, students each received a citizen who was colonizing a new planet and had a problem during colonization. Their task was to design a solution that could be printed on a 3D printer on the new planet. Kimbree designed a “Broken Bone Scanner” to help her citizen who had fallen out of a tree and thought he might have broken a bone. The scanner would also cast the body part if a break was found. Roland’s citizen was having trouble because the soil wasn’t good for growing food. He designed an “Underwater Base” where submersibles could be docked, and citizens could grow crops in an underwater greenhouse.
