How does the study of the mind and behavior (psychology) help us to understand ourselves and the world we live in?

Course Sequence:

Unit 1) Psychology Introduction & Methodology
Unit 3) Consciousness
Unit 5) Bio-Psychology & Psychological Disorders

Unit 2) Personality
Unit 4) Learning/Memory

Required Materials for Class

Black/Blue pen/pencil	red/colored pen	Chromebook (charged)
3-ring Binder (specific for psychology)	Loose-leaf paper in binder	Highlighter

Grading will operate on total points in PowerSchool

Expectations: Attendance/Tardiness/Late Work

- I will be on time to class.
- I will come prepared to class everyday with required materials.
- I will participate respectfully in class by asking questions, taking notes, and sharing my ideas.
- If I miss a day (or seven) of class, I will check Google Classroom to see what I missed. I will check in with Ms. Jonesi.
- I will turn in assignments on time. If I turn them in late, I understand that I may not receive full credit.
 - All homework is due at the beginning of class, late work is anything submitted after it is collected. Late assignments will only be accepted during the unit it was given. Student grades will be deducted when an assignment is late per teacher discretion.
- I will not use my phone during class time. I will only use my Chromebook when it is appropriate.
- I will come to class with a positive attitude.

While we will discuss mental health and factors related to treatment in this class, I am trained as an educator, not a clinician. If you need help with mental health concerns, I will assist you by referring you to student services for additional support. I cannot provide psychotherapy services myself.

This counts as a homework assignment, so it's an easy A+

Movie Permission

Throughout the course of the semester, I plan on using clips/films to highlight class material. I try to use as many PG films as possible, but there are a few R-rated movies that may accent the curriculum well. Some of the movie titles we may watch are listed below.

“A Beautiful Mind”

“Awakenings”

Yes, I have read, understand, and agree with the expectations of Psychology. By signing this, I am acknowledging and giving permission for my student to watch the movies listed as well as clips from others pertaining to Psychology.
