CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of Newport High School, having come at last to the end of our educational tether, and being about to pass out into the great, wide, beautiful world beyond the banging doors of our dear old Alma Mater, and being in sane mind and sound body and eternally in Dutch, do, according to well-established precedent, heretofore and hereinafter, being properly registered, licensed, notorized, legalized, cauterized, and Sim-onized, give, freely and unabashed, surreptitiously and energetically, willfully and spasmodically, to all the individuals, entities, quidnuncs, reprobates, crustaceans, and tycoons, hereinafter mentioned, our one-and-only last will and testament, in full appreciation of all the golden hours of comradeship they have so selflessly given us.

Dorothy Benner wills her ability in Chemistry to Fielden Poirer. (He needs it.)

Fern Clausnitzer wills her sudden bursts of laughter to Alma Small and Gordon Amas.

Mary Earl wills her natural instinct for running down gossip to Shirley Erdman. (It will keep you busy, Shirley.)

Grace Edens wills her ambition to get kicked out of school to Steve Freshman and George Zimmer. (Hope you realize it, boys.)

Janet Elkins wills her "Oh, really!" to Susie Woelk and Don Holst. (Pick it up--it gives that certain touch)

Wilma Ferguson wills that newly acquired prestige to Ward Fisher and Fred Umbarger. (It really is something!!)

Pauline Smallwood leaves anything but her boyfriend to Jean Longbottom. (She says she feels generous.)

Lois Ownbey wills her Cusick excuse to Viola Muller. (It may come in handy, Vi.)

Wallace Kliewer bequeathes his interest in Eileen Losh to Bob Pearce. (Take it easy, Bob.)

Clara Sowl wills her figure to Delbert Reed and Homer Beedle. (The girls envy you, boys.)

Bessie Stark leaves her gum chewing technique to Donroy Dunwoodie and Pat Robeson. (But not the gum.)

Dwight Halstead wills his "can'ts" to Barbara Evans. (Miss Spriggs is a good one to try them on.)

Alyce Oberg bequeathes her Government to Gertrude Gretner. (Make good use of it Gertrude.)

Lester Schilke wills his giggles to Virginia Hall.

Robert Wyckoff wills his red hair to Joyce Vanderholm. (It goes good with red, Joyce.)

Billy McIntosh wills his height to Rosemary Shupp. (You can sneak to school late then.)

Don Hupp leaves his seat in Government to Carol Webber. (You'll always be sure of attention.)

Margaret Lincoln wills her repartee to Theodora Lear.
