SENIOR CLASS

The year 1945-46 was one of great activity as well as study for the seniors.

The class started the year out by initiating the freshmen, an occasion which every one enjoyed except the freshmen. The seniors then honored the freshmen by a party.

Earned letters in football: Don Zyph, Glen Rusho, Jack Zimmer, Pete Smith, Loren Weigelt, Ray Mason.

Earned letters in basketball: Loren Weigelt and Don Zyph.

The seniors were also well represented in spring athletics.

The seniors were represented in band and took an active part in the Student Council representation.

The senior play was the first dramatic demonstration of the year and proved a great success.

On May 14 the seniors really took a day off to enjoy themselves. Chartering a boat at Coeur d'Alene they traveled the length of the lake and went up the St. Joe river where they spent most of the day picnicing, swimming and hiking.

Returning to Coeur d'Alene in the evening they went roller skating or to a show.

The last two weeks of school were especially busy with graduation preparation. The class completed their final exams by the evening of May 22 and went to work decorating for the senior ball, which drew much favorable comment. It was on May 24.

The Rev. Luther Penalton gave the baccalaureate sermon May 26. On Tuesday, May 28, commencement exercises were held, with the Rev. Paul Calhoun of Spokane giving the commencement address.

CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of '16, being sound and sane in mind, hereby decree this to be our last will and testament, and hereby bequeath and convey individually and collectively to the following persons all our possessions, both real and imaginary, to-wit:

To Phyllis Holmes and Ray Scott, Joy Cornes wills her eyes. All the better to see your one and only with, kids.

To Lloyd Dahlin, Gladys Smith wills her "gum snapping." But don't pop it in English class.

To Betty Chamberlain, Marion Carter wills her athletic ability. Make good use of it, Betty.

To Harold Unruh and Jim Vansirsdale, Margaret Kubota wills her smallness. Are you boys happy now?

To Dale Shaw, Jerry Geary wills his good looks. Not that you need it, Dale.

To Floyd Tarbret, Don Zyph wills his popularity.

To Maxine Mann and Merle McKim, Bernadene Cain wills her ability to flirt with the boys.

To Patty Smith and Tommy Kubota, Lillian Broten wills her blonde hair.

To Lloyd Johnson and Edgar Moos, Corkey Weigelt wills his "Casanova."

To Ruby Mortez and Phillip, Beth Geaudreau wills her plumpness.

To Tiny Bowers, Dolores wills her "lady-like manner."

To Tommy Strayer and Gene Reed, Ray Mason wills his curly hair.

To Billy Shackelton and Wain Geaudreau, Hulda Woelk wills her quiet disposition.

To Wilma Bridges and Richard Hamacher, Jack Zimmer wills his eye lashes.

To Gordon Faust and Billy Miller, Bill Zimmer wills his acting ability (Droopy in the senior play).

To Ted Monk and Bill Storms, Norman Haugen wills ability to be the only senior who didn't have to take senior English.

To Bobby Johnson, Pete Smith wills his "Inventional Genius."

To John Skaar and Earle Erdman, Glen Rusho wills his fighting ability.

To Joyce MacArthur, Evelyn Roberts wills her extra credits.

CLASS PROPHECY

It is the year 1961, an age of solar power, space ships and atomic futurescopes. We gaze into this atomic wonder, we see—no, it can't be, but it is—Pete Smith, the great inventor who is bending over a huge iron pot vigorously stirring something. Is it trouble or is it another of his inventions? Boom! I guess it was a little of both.

The mist is clearing away and through it we see a face. We can't quite make it out but we think it is—yes, it is—Beth Geaudreau. She has a nurse's uniform on. Do you suppose she has come to care for Pete?

We leave these two now to probe deeper into the future. This new contraption is so superior to the old crystal ball that—speaking of a ball, isn't that Jerry Geary whom we see knocking all those bright little pool balls around, and that one he is behind now looks like the 8-ball. Any day now Jerry will be on his way to the Navy.

When Jerry comes back, he will have to have a home to live in, and as we look just a little further, we see Marion Carter bending industriously over her board. We thought as much—she is drawing and designing a house. In a moment, she seems to be fading away and in her place we see the inside of a luxurious room, which takes the shape of a dentist's office. Who is that bending over that poor patient sitting in the chair of agony? Yeow!! That sounds like Ray Mason. He must be getting his teeth fixed—and on the army's time at that. Say there, Dr. Weigelt (Corky, that is), let's take it easy, after all, Ray isn't very big.

Shifting our gaze a little, we find ourselves peering into the thick jungles of Africa. There we see a group of natives sitting around in a circle, and in the center with her back to us sits a woman. There is something familiar here and we finally guess it. It's none other than Hulda Woelk, a missionary, and as we see her now, she is busy spreading faith and good will among the natives.

As you know, there are places in this world where conditions are still not up-to-date. For instance, this place where Hulda resides requires roads, lights, water and many other improvements; and on the job is that world-famous engineer, Jack Zimmer. Jack should arrive here in two or three hours if he takes that new jet propelled rocket ship. With him we can expect to see his ever-present secretary, Evelyn Roberts. Mr. Zimmer says Evelyn is the best secretary he ever had; she should be, she has had years and years of practice.

There is an army camp not far from Hulda's small village, so we will just sneak up to one of those long, low buildings and peek in through the window. Hmm—looks like the army kitchen and mess hall. Who is that sitting on the stool with that huge pile of potatoes in front of him? Why, it is none other than Norman Haugen, the one and only buck private. He is still going strong and that pile of peelings is getting higher and higher. Poor Norman!

Speaking of the army, isn't that Don Zyph we see struggling out from underneath that two-ton army truck? "What on earth are you doing under there, Don?" "Oh, just fixing a few little do-dads," and as you have probably already guessed, Mr. Zyph is the star mechanic of this day and age.

Now, let's go back to the states and see if we can't locate some more of our old classmates. Let's see, there's Berna Cain and Lillian Brolen. We wonder what they are up to. We heard they were working in one of those new atomic laboratory buildings. Let's sneak up to the fourth floor and peek in the door. There they are, the tops of their heads are just sticking up above all those papers. They surely are busy running those comptometers. Just look at the papers fly—here comes one our way. Well, well, imagine that! If it isn't a mortgage on Glen Rusho's 500-acre farm, located in Blanchard Valley. Just look at that list of expenses! Glen must have mortgaged his farm to buy one of those popular atomic airships which are advertised in all magazines.

Here's a picture of one now. Hmm—sketched by Gladys Smith. Well, that's a surprise. I thought she was going to be a dress designer. And what's this picture next to Gladys' sketch? Looks like an advertisement for some new kind of face powder. "That longer-lasting face powder, for the face you love to look at." Created by Joy Carnes. She and Gladys have their own little designing business.

Which reminds us, Bill Zimmer, one of our outstanding machinists of this age of atomic power, may need some advertising of some kind. We understand Carnes and Smith, Inc., will take care of him by calling their secretary, Miss Margaret Kabota.

Talking about taking care of people, we see a kindly face bending over a small boy, who is very sick with a disease which has no cure. Yes, no need to keep you guessing, it is Dolores Poirier. She is a nurse now and is trying her best to help find the cure for those child diseases which have baffled mankind.

Now, let us skip back to the states—as we near the end of our futurescoping, the atomic wonder becomes misty and everyone is fading slowly away. We have reached our destiny.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

On Sept. 5, 1934, forty-nine frightened little children entered the first grade room in the big white schoolhouse and six of these children are still with us: Bernadene Cain, Lillian Broten, Marion Carter, Norman Haugen, Corky Weigelt and Gladys Smith. Here they met their teacher, Miss Huston.

We were all very studious the first year, as school was new and extremely interesting. Once during the year, we would have open house—at which time we displayed our works of art to the grown-ups. Our first year passed quickly and in the second grade, Don Zyph joined the group.

In the third grade we moved from the old grade building into the high school building and another high school building was erected. Here, Ray Mason joined us. In the fourth grade Hulda Woelk became a student at Newport.

Again the years passed quickly, and we found ourselves in the seventh grade. All had been going pretty smoothly up until now, but the class suddenly had an ornery streak. We spent most of our time cleaning out the light fixtures after filling them with paper, chalk, not to mention colored crayons and erasers. When we weren't doing that, we were throwing things at each other and the teacher. Poor Mr. Tobert!

Ah. At last we are high and mighty eighth graders. We had gained a reputation in the seventh grade, and here we added to it. A highlight of the year was a trip to Coulee Dam, as a reward for winning a magazine contest. The biggest thing that year was our graduation when we entered high school with some trepidation, having heard awful tales of the life of a lowly frosh.

As frosh, we had to go through the Ole Tradition of Initiation, which, of course, was much worse than we had expected. Mr. Bailey, our frosh advisor, found our mischievous ways a little too hard to bear and Mrs. Russ took over. It was this year that the rest of our class joined us. They hailed from such secluded places as Blanchard and Idaho Hill. The seniors sponsored a "frosh reception" and we gave the "frosh return."

Then we entered into an uneventful sophomore year. The only important event this year was the barn dance, sponsored by sophomores.

Next came our junior year and we were considered "upper classmen" although we really didn't act like it. This year was highlighted by our junior play, "When the Cat's Away" and the "Rainbow Prom." And then, of course, we don't want to forget the play cast party, which was held at Diamond Lake.

Now, we entered our last year at the old occupation. This year, we had the privilege of initiating the "Little Greenies." Our senior play was "Miss Jimmy," starring Bernadene Cain and Glen Rusho. Our play cast party was held at Shaw's lodge, Diamond Lake. Later, the senior sneak was one of the highlights of our social life. Everyone had a grand time and we came back to school determined to make the best of our remaining days in high school.

The senior ball, which was a huge success, closed the social life of our high school career. Then came graduation with flowers, smiles, and last farewells with good wishes, as we started out on the life path which has been chosen for us.

"MISS JIMMY"

Louise	Bernadene Cain
Florence	Dolores Poirier
Catharine	Lillian Broten
Doris	Astrid Oscarson
Harriet	Gladys Smith
Droopy	Bill Zimmer
Miss Walkins	Beth Geaudreau
Jimmy	Glen Rusho
Professor Frazier	Loren Weigelt

The Class of '46 presented "Miss Jimmy," a three-act comedy, on December 14, under the direction of Miss Rhoda Skindlov. The audience enjoyed every moment of it and over $220 was taken in.

The play centered around Briar Mountain College, with action beginning when Jimmy is forced to enter the girls' dormitory in search of a girls' dress. At the same time the girls are finding it hard to get dates for their big dance of the year, and when they capture Jimmy, they decide to make his fraternity brothers take them to the prom by holding Jimmy for ransom.

Droopy, the colored janitor, helped the girls, while Professor Frazier and Miss Walkins added much to the difficulties.

Mary	Tiny Bowers
Jack	Gene Reed
Mr. Smudgely	Jimmy Vanairsdale

On Friday, April 12, the Class of '47 presented the three-act comedy, "Almost Summer," directed by Miss Rhoda Skindlov, before one of the largest audiences this year.

The plot of the story revolves around Paul Jones, a high school senior, trying to get a grade of 95 in history, so that he can enroll at the university without summer school. Incidentally, he is also having trouble with his girl because of a "Convertible."

Proceeds were used by the class for the Junior Prom.

BASKETBALL

The Newport Grizzlies climaxed a basketball season that gave the fans plenty of thrills and chills, by coming from behind to win the county tournament held in Newport February 21, 22, 23.

The team started the season by winning 7 out of 9 practice games, splitting the series with Sandpoint and Priest River. The Grizzlies then won six and lost two in regular conference play to wind up in a tie with Cusick for the pre-tournament title.

By defeating Cusick in the tournament Newport also won the cup for this title.

In the seven-game tournament Newport lost to Metaline Falls in the opening night and then proceeded to down the other three teams in succession to come out on top.

In the district tournament at Spokane the Grizzlies lost to Ritzville 41-37 in the opening round and dropped a thriller to Fairfield, 32-31, in consolation round.

All the players except Captain Zyph will be eligible for the season next year.

"N" CLUB

First Semester		Second Semester
Glen Rusho	President	Lloyd Johnson
Don Zyph	Vice President	Wendell Stratton
Gene Reed	Secretary-Treasurer	Ray Mason

The "N" Club lettermen's group, numbered 16 members, including Jim Vanairsdale, John Skaar, Phillip Moeser, Edgar Moos, Pete Smith and Bobby Johnson, who were initiated during the year.

The "fun" part of the ceremonies were given before an assembly, much to the delight of everyone except those being initiated. The formal part of the initiation was held during the evening followed by a luncheon for the new members.

The club gave one of the year's outstanding high school parties.

Standing: Phillip Moeser, Pete Smith, Edgar Moos, Lloyd Johnson, Coach Ricketts, Don Zyph, Loren Weigelt, John Skaar, Jack Zimmer.

BASEBALL

Hoping to cop the county softball title the second successive year, the Grizzlies started out strong by defeating Metaline Falls and Cusick in the opening league games and Priest River in a non-conference tilt. Remaining games on the schedule include two tilts with Ione, one each with Cusick, Metaline Falls and Priest River.

Two players were lost from last year's championship squad. This year saw the reduction of a team to nine players under the new rules.

Second row: Wendell Stratton, David Sherman, John Skaar, Glen Rusho, Dale Shaw, Bill Zimmer, Phillip Moeser.
