Girls on the Rise Parent Engagement

Parent Engagement and Supportive Services

Supporting families is a critical part of our program because strong families = a strong and confident child. Success in the program is based on the relationship and trust developed with the parents and the girls. The family component provides emotional support, individual and family counseling, and material resources when a family is most in need. Parents are motivated to become strong, confident, and better advocates for themselves and for their children.

Core Areas of Family Support

Case Management

Provide information and referrals to other community-based service providers.

Crisis Intervention

Help families through crises with the help of a licensed clinical social worker.
