PLEASE BE AWARE - Many of the grants and waivers available during the pandemic are no longer available, and school meals are no longer free to all children. Households who need assistance purchasing school meals must apply for Free and Reduced Meal Benefits or qualify by direct certification.

Free and Reduced Price Meals

Every household must reapply each school year or be directly certified for their student to receive free and reduced meal benefits. Parents are encouraged to annually submit one application (after July 31) for their entire household before their children attend school. Be sure to apply early to allow time for the approval process. Students who do not qualify for free or reduced price meals at the time of service will be charged for their meal.

Notice: Salt Lake City School District waives the added charge to our reduced price students – providing their school meal free of charge.

Direct Certification

Households who qualify for and use the following assistance programs are directly certified for free and reduced meals.

- Food Stamps (SNAP)
- Medicaid
