

Finding articles in newspapers and popular magazines

Using Sophi Search

- Do a general search for the topic
- Limit to News under Resource Type (Note: The News limiter can be helpful, but it also removes potentially useful results from popular magazines and small papers.)
- Use the Publication date slider to limit to current articles

Resource Type

- All Results
- News (32,404)
- Magazines (109,146)
- Academic Journals (28,029)
- Reviews (10,409)
- Books (7,541)

- Try adding Texas as a second search term

A screenshot of the Sophi Search interface. On the left is the Sophi Search logo, which features a stylized blue owl head. To the right of the logo, the text 'Searching: Discovery Service for Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary' is displayed. Below this, there are three search input fields. The first field contains the text 'gun control' and has a dropdown menu labeled 'Select a Field (optional)'. The second field contains the text 'Texas' and also has a dropdown menu labeled 'Select a Field (optional)'. The third field is empty and has a dropdown menu labeled 'Select a Field (optional)'. Between the first and second fields, and between the second and third fields, there are 'AND' dropdown menus.
