Developed by the Professional Learning Innovation Team 2021 - 2022
Professional Learning System Overview and Process

One outcome of the 2018 TrueNorth strategic plan was the need to create a comprehensive professional learning system that fosters collective responsibility for student success across the TrueNorth region. A professional learning system can be described as “how professional learning works.” The remodeling of the system allowed opportunity to examine transparency in decision making, intentionality, and effectiveness of professional learning.

To meet the charge of designing the system, the Professional Learning Innovation Team was launched in April 2019. The team consisted of engaged participants from member districts and TrueNorth programs and departments; they represented different regions, roles, and age of students served.

The innovation team designed a system to (i) equitably support member district needs and (ii) impact student learning. The system’s essential components, which are included in this document, were developed by the team.

1) A shared vision of and beliefs about professional learning, in alignment with TrueNorth’s Strategic Plan;
2) A definition of professional learning;
3) Standards for Professional Learning;
4) Stakeholder roles and responsibilities defined and articulated;
5) Ongoing assessment and evaluation; and
6) A transparent process of how resources are allocated.
A special thank you to the members of the Professional Learning Innovation Team. We are grateful for their leadership and valued the diverse perspectives that contributed to the design of the system. Our sincerest thanks goes out to:

Professional Learning Standards

Overview of Professional Learning Standards
Learning Forward, with the contribution of 40 professional associations and education organizations, developed the Standards for Professional Learning. The Professional Learning Innovation Team adopted these standards to guide the design, implementation, and evaluation of professional learning.

Learning Communities: Professional learning that increases educator effectiveness and results for all students occurs within learning communities committed to continuous improvement, collective responsibility, and goal alignment.

Leadership: Professional learning that increases educator effectiveness and results for all students requires skillful leaders who develop capacity, advocate, and create support systems for professional learning.

Resources: Professional learning that increases educator effectiveness and results for all students requires prioritizing, monitoring, and coordinating resources for educator learning.

Data: Professional learning that increases educator effectiveness and results for all students uses a variety of sources and types of student, educator, and system data to plan, assess, and evaluate professional learning.

Learning Designs: Professional learning that increases educator effectiveness and results for all students integrates theories, research, and models of human learning to achieve its intended outcomes.

Implementation: Professional learning that increases educator effectiveness and results for all students applies research on change and sustains support for implementation of professional learning for long-term change.

Outcomes: Professional learning that increases educator effectiveness and results for all students aligns its outcomes with educator performance and student curriculum standards.
Process of how needs are assessed and resources are allocated

The chart below articulates the process of assessing professional learning needs from our member districts. Once the needs are assessed and prioritized, resources are then allocated to develop professional learning plans. This transparent process distributes resources equitably based on the greatest needs of students and educators. The process also applies the professional learning beliefs to action. This alignment of the beliefs are articulated in the rationale for each step of the process.

Assessment and Evaluation

TrueNorth prioritizes professional learning programs rather than single events. This shift aligns with our definition of “professional learning designed to refine and expand knowledge, skills, attitudes, and practices in order to impact student growth through intentional, continuous, and collaborative engagement.”

A well-designed program evaluation provides data to inform changes and improvements within the program. Evaluation data can also provide evidence of return on a district’s or school’s investment. The evaluation process is outlined in the “how resources are allocated”.

TrueNorth professional learning is assessed through merit, impact and worth.

Merit addresses how closely a program adheres to the Standards for Professional Learning.

Impact addresses the changes for educators and students that result from a program; it goes beyond program participation, examining the measurable impact on learning. Program development includes consideration of these questions:

1. In what ways have educators been affected by their participation in this program (specifically, their knowledge, skills, attitudes, and behaviors)?
2. In what ways have students been affected by this professional learning?

Worth is the perceived value of professional learning, and is assessed at the completion of each professional learning activity. Worth data is used by presenters or facilitators for reflection and also to monitor participant satisfaction in general.
