Riley Boyle

treat people with kindness

TRUCK

Writing and page by Izzy Levine '23

The Northern Highlands Senior Issue would not be complete without spending some time reflecting on a beloved member of our senior class, Riley Boyle. Whether you knew her personally or not, everyone can attest to the vibrance and warmth she inserted into a sometimes gloomy world.

Riley was always loud and laughing, but so often she brought this out in others. It has been said a million times, Riley's laugh and energy were simply infectious. To us, that is just who she was and now, who she will always be. And that is how I choose to remember her always.

To her friends, despite her tough exterior at times, she was the warmest person. She cared more about her friends than anything else. Riley had the biggest heart, she always texted me to make sure I was okay. If someone was upset, she just had to try to make them laugh... because that's the kind of person she was.

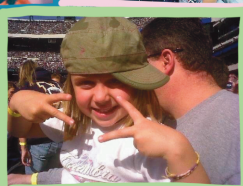

There are so many examples of her kindness and love for her friends. Like when she decided we were going to be each other's valentines and sent me tons of candy grams with the sweetest messages. Or the fact that she would help me every single day in algebra and geometry even though I knew it was annoying for her. Or when she would constantly tell all her friends about how much they meant to her and shower them with love.

While these are more specific memories from having a friendship with her, I think everyone can attest to the fact that they have very similar experiences. Riley's friendship was not exclusive, she genuinely offered it to anyone who needed it. Even at times when you felt you weren't necessarily as close with her, you could always count on her to reenter your life right when you needed it. That is why her loss was felt so profoundly but not only by her closest friends, but by the entirety of the grade and all her teachers.

I feel Riley's loss every day in all aspects of my life, as I am constantly reminded of how vivacious she was. While I never, and could never, forget her loss, it comes back to me in waves and moments I didn't expect. Like when Olivia Wilde and Harry Styles broke up, I think we all thought about how Riley would've rejoiced. Or when the newest Guardians of the Galaxy movie came out (and was actually good compared to recent Marvel movies), we thought of her. Or when Taylor Swift announced her Eras Tour, we thought of her. And, when we see a blue jeep, we think of her. Her love for these things was a part of who she was and now those parts of her live on in all of us.

There's not a day that goes by where we aren't reminded of, or are thinking about, how much we miss her. Her legacy as a hilarious, generous, and loving person will forever live on in her friends and family's hearts, as well as the entire class of 2023.

We love and miss you, Riley

i love you 3000
