Students will have opportunities to see live performances, participate in visual and performing arts activities, and connect with local and national artists.

STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math)

STEM education is integration and application of science, technology, engineering, and math through problem-based, performance-based teaching and learning which encourages students to use all these areas for investigation of authentic local and global situations.

STEM education develops students' abilities to actively participate as members of a STEM-literate citizenry who can conduct inquiry, think logically and critically, solve problems creatively, and design innovations in academic, designed world, and natural world contexts.

Dual Language Immersion

Dual Language Immersion is a form of bilingual education in which students are taught academic literacy and content in two languages.

DLI encompasses culturally responsive learning environments that value inclusivity, equity, and the differences of all students while providing paths for students to be adaptive, open-minded, culturally competent, and globally aware.

Outdoor Education

Outdoor education aims to develop an environmentally literate citizenry by fostering stewardship of the planet and exploring present and future environmental challenges. Through the lens of all disciplines, students investigate the interconnection between humanity and the natural world while developing a sense of place using essential skills such as critical thinking and innovative problem-solving. By extending the classroom into the outdoors, students can more deeply investigate the environment's intersection with other aspects of society.
