

EQUIPMENT, BOOKS AND MATERIALSTextbooks

No high school student shall be required to purchase textbooks for a Baldy View Regional Occupational Program (ROP) course. Adult students may be required to purchase books.

No student shall be required to purchase supplementary books, and students shall be expressly notified by teachers that it is not required or desirable that books for supplementary use be purchased by students or parents.

Textbooks and supplementary books owned by the ROP may be sold to students at a price which shall not exceed the actual value of the textbooks and supplementary books.

Supplies

Provide instructional supplies which are consumed in the class as a part of the regular class activity. Supplies retained by the student for personal use shall be paid by the student.

Uniforms

Students enrolled in a ROP program where uniforms are used will be required to purchase these uniforms. Exceptions for hardship cases will be made on an individual basis.

Student Production of Services and Materials

Permit students to provide services and construct materials in ROP courses only when such production furthers the student's educational development.

Make the user or consumer responsible for costs of services and products produced in ROP courses for non-ROP use or consumption when such costs are over and beyond normal instructional and material costs.

Prioritize availability of services and products for non-ROP use (i.e., servicing automobiles, floral arrangements) as follows:

1. Students in the program.
2. ROP and participating school employees.
3. General public.
