The Seminarians, with Father Boniface, their director, recite the small hour of Prime as the morning Prayer.

The day of a minor seminarian is divided between prayer, study and recreation. As a future Benedictine he is made to live, according to his age, the motto of the Benedictine Order, "Work and Pray."

With the breaking of the pinata during their Christmas party, its every man for himself.

MORAL GUIDANCE . . .

Ranking first in the course of studies at the Academy is Moral Guidance. Here the student is taught to evaluate correctly all the forces that are his environment. Here he gets the guiding principles that will enable him to "stay in orbit"

An integral part of this guidance is attendance at Mass. Frequent Holy Communion is the strength that makes the boy a religious boy, and later a man worthy of the name Catholic.

R. Hurt, R. Stillman, J. York and Albert Bledsoe study symbols of the Seven Sacraments.

ENGLISH . . .

Having learned how to live, the student is next taught how to express himself. Being informed Catholics is only part of their training, they must be able to explain clearly what they hold and believe.

Father Ambrose, in English IV, stops to give William Roberts some help in working an assignment in class.

Father Philip in English I, checks answers while the class is busy on their next lesson.

CIVICS . . .

We are citizens not only of the Church, but also of the state. Important in the training of the Academy student is his understanding of his responsibility and duty to his city, his state, and his country.

Tom O'Brien is engrossed in the study of United States History.

Busy doing some research work in World History are James Sullivan and Robert Mayberry. Coach Shelby Cole is the teacher.

NATURAL SCIENCES . . .

The most interesting classes to the average boy are those in the sciences. Here both head and hand must work together. From among such as these will be found the scientists of tomorrow.

Jerry Muttera, Phil Westergren, Adrian Mallia and Carrol Kridler work together to study the expansion of metals when subjected to heat.

Jimmie Hermes and Pat Dunne work as a team in one of the experiments in the Chemistry course.

MATHEMATICS . . .

In the day of missiles and space travel, mathematics becomes more and more important. The academy student is required to take at least two years of math.

Father Edwin stops by to give Mathieu some help in one of the more difficult problems in Trigonometry.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES . . .

In the age of jet travel knowledge of foreign languages takes on a greater importance than ever before.

The Academy offers courses in Latin and Spanish.

Joe Stearns and Roy Rodriguez get carried away in the study of Spanish. Using his coat for a cape Roy studies the style of the Matador in the picture.

Father Adrian points out some of the finer points of construction to his second year Latin class.

Father Luke goes all out in explaining and demonstrating some problems in freshman Algebra.

BUSINESS - ARTS . . .

These courses are designed to help the student, both in his college career and in the business world.

Tommy Mathieu, a transfer student, is earnestly at work trying to master the typewriter as quickly as possible.

A popular course on the campus is mechanical drawing, a two year course. Robert Kaler shows great concentration in his work.

SENIOR PROM, MAY 21

Seniors swaying to the music of Jake Stevens.

Orville Schonefeld and his charming date, enjoy themselves at the Senior prom.

The Senior Prom of Incarnate Word Academy and Corpus Christi Academy was held in the Exposition Hall, beautifully decorated to the theme of "An Evening in Paris."

Sweet music from the music makers of Jake Stevens, make it a perfect evening for dancing.

Father Edwin Wright, O.S.B., assistant principal, and Sister M. George, I.W.B.S. check the list of graduates to make sure that all are listed.

Joint Commencement Exercises for Incarnate Word Academy and Corpus Christi Academy were held in Del Mar Auditorium, May 24.

Below. The graduates of Corpus Christi Academy march into the auditorium to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstances" played by the Academy band.

The seniors listen in wrapped attention to the words of Father McNaboe, the commencement speaker.

Bishop Garriga presents the diploma to Mike Murray, with Father McNaboe looking on.

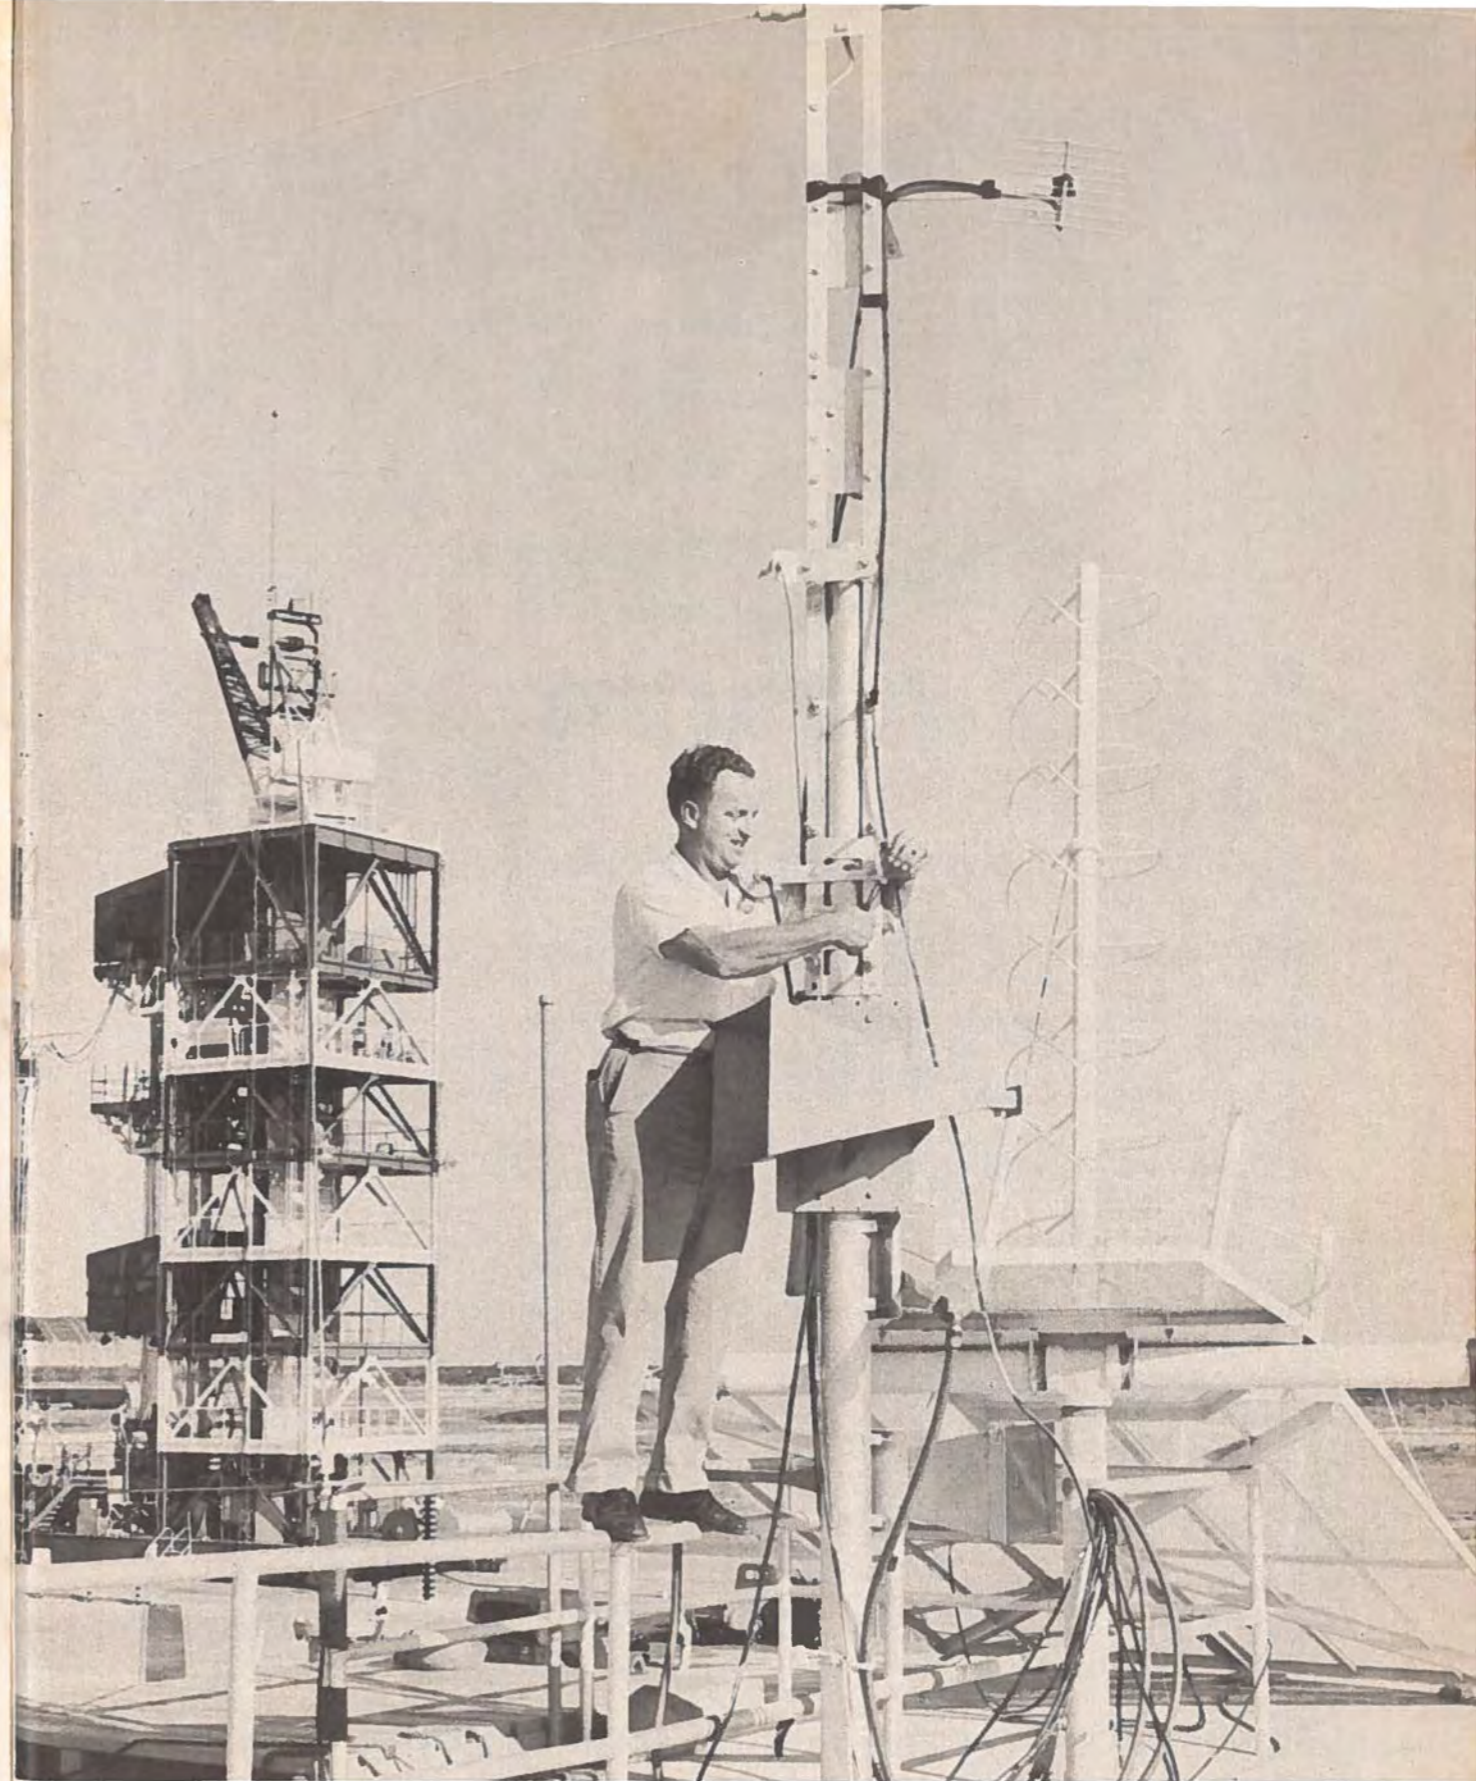

Richard Matelske, Valedictorian, speaks for all of his classmates in bidding farewell to the Corpus Christi Academy.

Bonner Dorsey, salutatorian of his class, waits nonchalantly at the phone, waiting for opportunity to ring.

Bishop Garriga presents the Alhambra medal to Bobby Whitworth.

The Gateway to a Better Life. Day after day, from September to June, boys come by private car, by school bus, and even on foot, to further their education. The Academy is proud of the boys who have passed through this gateway, who now as lawyers, priests, doctors, engineers, men in all walks of life have proved that it was worth the expense of getting their education at the hands of the Benedictine Fathers.

Undoubtedly the noon hour is the most popular hour on the campus. The worthy seniors take the place of honor to eat their lunches.

One of the favorite games during P.E. is the one pictured here. Perhaps we should call it "Broomstick Hockey."

The underclassmen spread out under the trees, to discover just what mother has put in their lunch sacks.
