"Freedom is a word I rarely use without thinking ..."
(Donovan)

Perhaps we too frequently use freedom to denote that tendency of men to cast off all shackles of daily existence.

Freedom is not entirely free; yet it is not binding. Freedom is an inborn quality of the spirit, not a gift from this or that governmental figure. However, this quality must be both cultivated and directed by regulation inspired and preserved by men.

In our fleeting lives as students of Incarnate Word Academy we have begun to exercise our heritage of freedom maturely and wisely. In our numerous accomplishments and trials we learn and are thankful that we are free.

Free To Serve Community

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS ...

The Sparkling City by the Sea
"The diocese with the most beautiful name in the world."

(Pope Paul VI)

Man cannot achieve true liberation of spirit or productive creativity outside the context of community. He cannot be truly free without the community in which he both gives and receives.

It is the privilege and duty of each student at Incarnate Word Academy to learn and exercise her active role in the service and advancement of Corpus Christi and the world.

Leaders in our Christian community play an important role in our lives. Their witness to Christ, our perfect leader, serves as a guide and inspiration for us in the use of our freedom to strengthen the Church we form together.

SISTER AGNES MARIE TENGLER
Superioress General

Sisters of the Incarnate Word
and Blessed Sacrament

His Excellency, the Most Reverend Thomas J. Drury, D.D., Bishop of Corpus Christi

"Didn't you love the things that they stood for?
Didn't they try to find some good
in you and me?
Can you tell me where he's gone?
He freed a lot of people, but it seems good he died young.
Thought I saw him walking up over the hill,
with Abraham, Martin, and John.

(Dion)

Dion's song commemorates Abraham Lincoln, John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King, and Robert F. Kennedy. Each tried to obtain freedom of some kind for his country during his lifetime, and each of them died trying to accomplish his goal.

But they did not die in vain. Their belief that all men are created equal will continue to inspire leaders who will strive to protect and advance our American Heritage.

Lincoln, the two Kennedys and King helped our country by believing in themselves, their fellow man, and God. To the memory of these men we dedicate the 1969 Aurora.

Religion Classes Plan Annual Retreat

Class discussions, priest teachers once a week, Insight films, and liturgy preparation were all features of religion classes this year. Classes planned the agenda for their yearly retreat. At upper right, Bea Rodriguez, Martha Ganz and Maria Teresa Fernandez, sophomores, practice before the Retreat Mass. Seniors Deidre Jaloway, Gaila Reyna, Joyce Campos, Diana Burgess, and Freda Castillo (right) rehearse hymns for their liturgical celebration.

Journalism Classes Attend State Convention

The CROWN and AURORA staffs strive to present to the student body an accurate account of important happenings in the school. Staff members attend workshops during the year to improve techniques.

English, Speech Students Interpret Works

Both English and speech classes entail dramatizations on the part of students. Through the year speech students give oral interpretations of cuttings from plays, prose, poetry, and speeches of varying lengths. Below, Cecilia Parker presents an excerpt from Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

At upper left, Susan Farek and Linda Caldwell entertain their fourth period English class with their own interpretation of Anton Chekhov's THE BOOR.

Math, Psychology Demand Interpretation

Math courses offered this year, taught by five teachers, varied from Related Math to Trigonometry and Analysis. Top left, Mrs. Costley instructs Maria Fernandez in the fundamental principles of math, while sophomore students (top right) are involved in a geometric problem. Psychology, a new course offered to seniors only, instructed the students in the handling of everyday problems. Students of Sister Martha Ann (above and right) observe behavior patterns of children in the Montessori School.

Business Courses Develop, Improve Skills

Choir Performances Demand Much Practice

Membership in the choir requires constant practice for assemblies and contests. This year the choir, in conjunction with the Fine Arts Club, presented the musical "Finian's Rainbow" (top). At right, Sister Sharon Deemer applies make-up to Dawne Hagens before a performance. Above, the first period choir prepares for their competition in the thirty-fourth annual Music Festival at Our Lady of the Lake College.

Science Labs House Various Specimens

Lab experimentation is a major part of the Science classes which include General Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Advanced Science. Below, Roxanna Havelka, sophomore, prepares frogs for discussion.

Sister Suzanne Friedmann demonstrates the use of a new machine as the class looks on.

New Studio Enriches Art Department

Art students display hidden talents in the new studio at Mary McGloin Hall. Below, Mary Lourdes, Becky Jackson, and Cassandra Marshall concentrate on their painting, while Sheila Bath and Mary Ramirez set up displays of their art work.

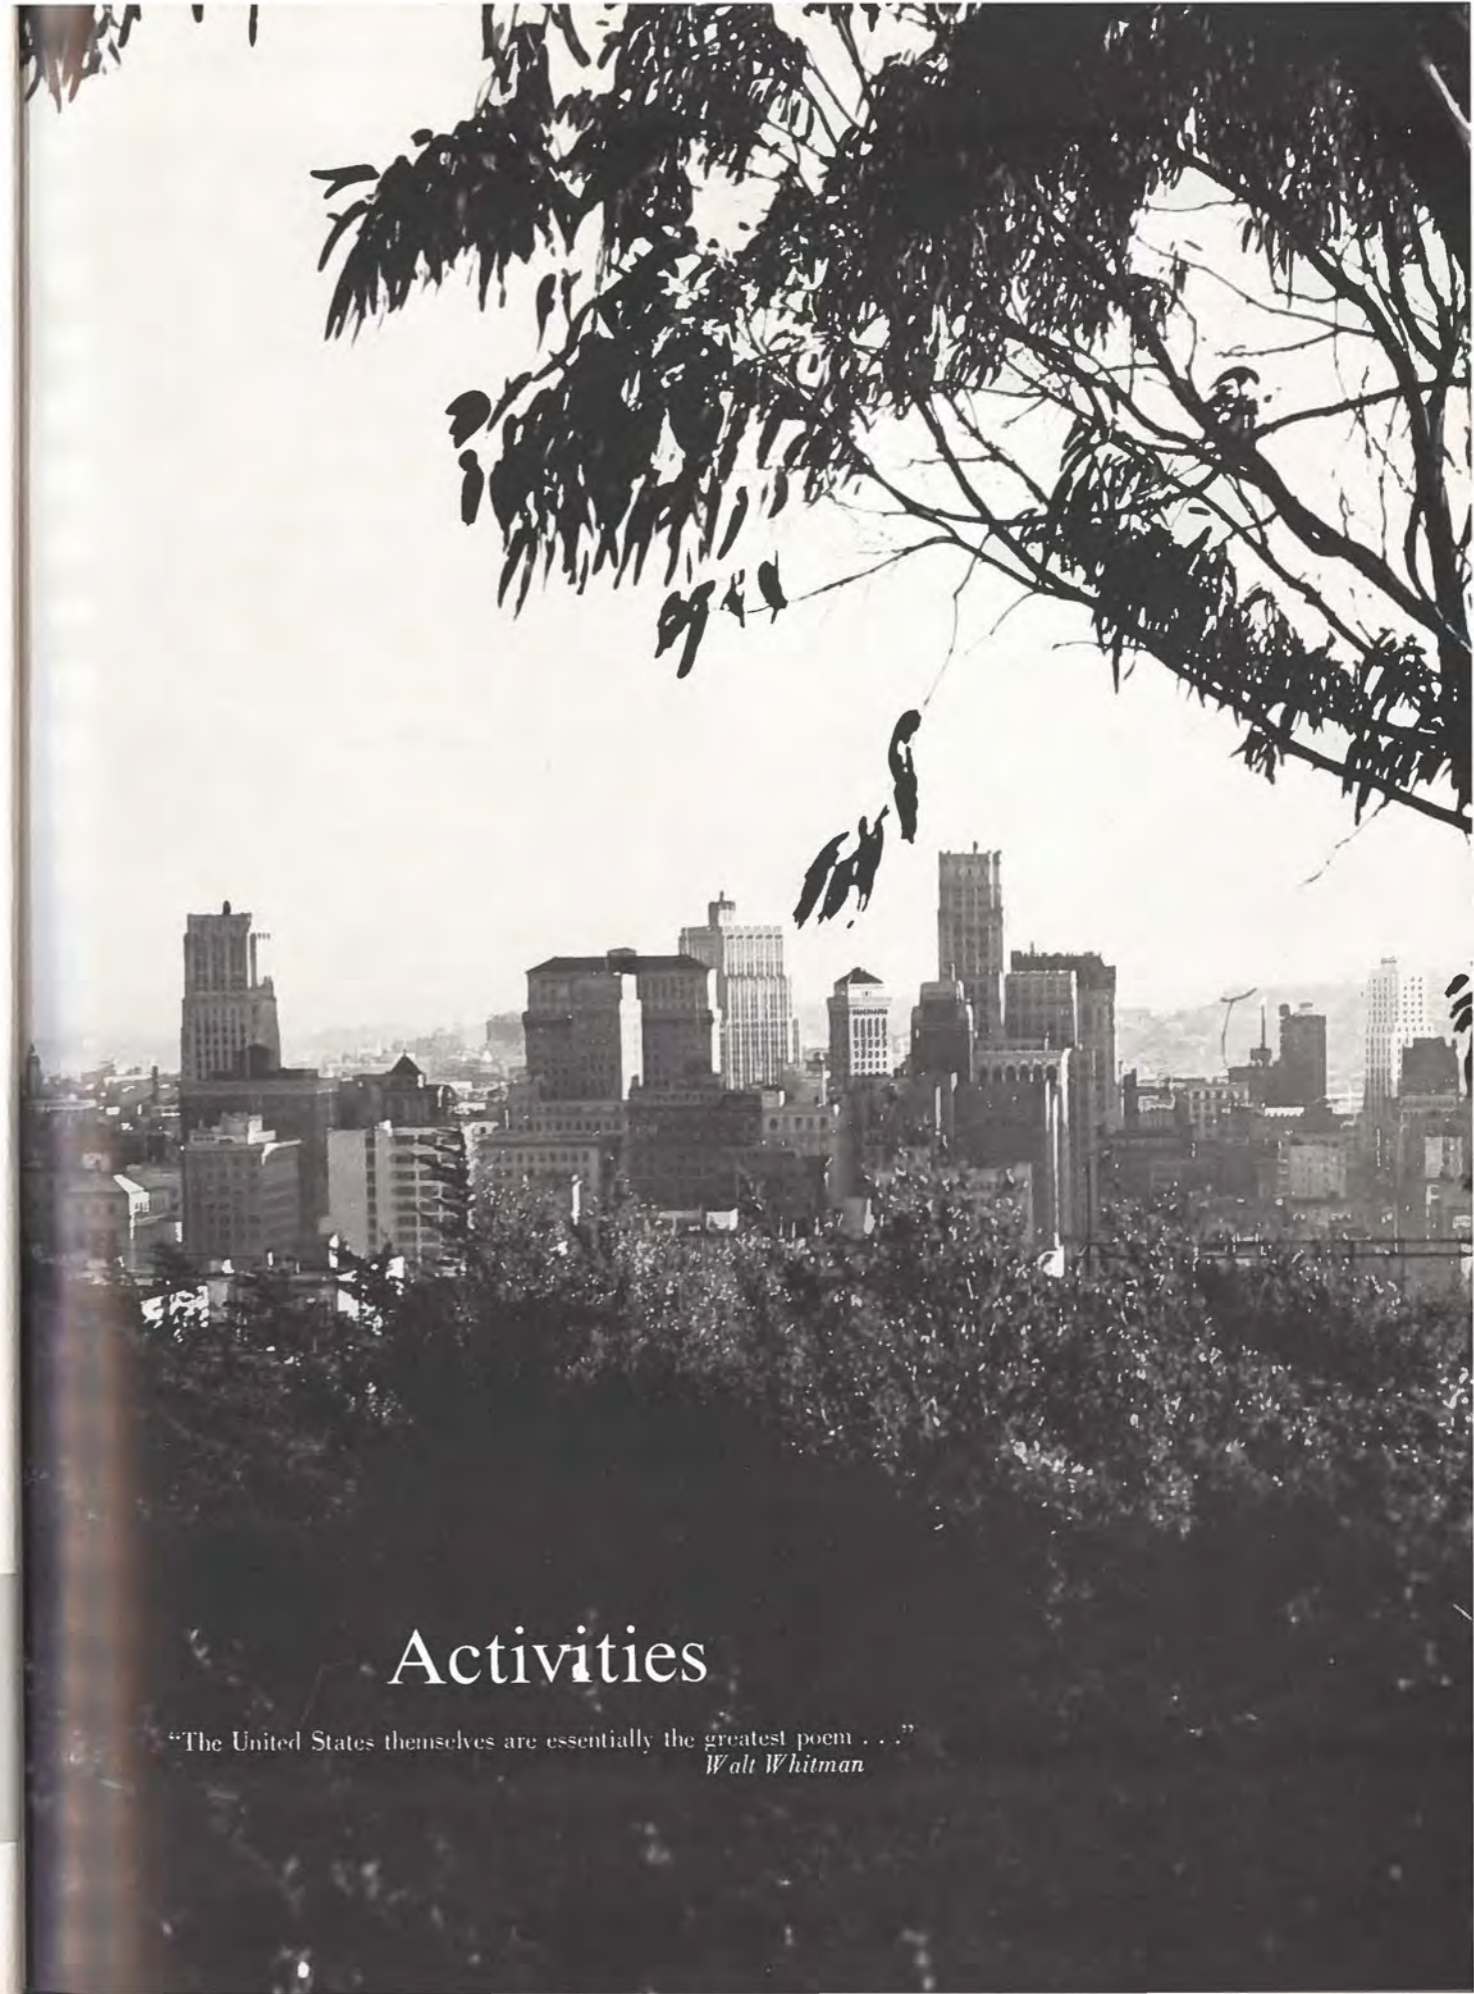

The choir, under the direction of Sister Sharon Deemer perform at most school assemblies and concerts. Choir members sometimes perform in specials groups or the two classes combine to form a unit of melody and harmony.

Homemakers Cook; Karate Class Kicks

Activities

"The United States themselves are essentially the greatest poem . . ."

Activities Give New Dimension To Educational Goals Of Incarnate Word

Our concept of education has changed considerably with the growth of our country. No longer are the three R's adequate for a well-rounded education. A new dimension has been added to learning. Through various activities of the school, a student develops the desirable qualities of leadership, service, scholarship and involvement. Student participation in the Mass, political campaigns, and class and schoolwide projects help to extend growth in the many facets of education.

Council Project Promotes Citizenship; Encourages Participation, Leadership

Student Government Week, sponsored by Student Congress, is one of the major events held annually at IWA. Various activities such as flag raising, student-teacher day, election of proxy homeroom officers, and an assembly of understanding, realization, and pride in the democracy in which we live. Two new activities, voter registration and locker decoration contest help to boost this spirit.

During the week, students register to vote in the election of Student Congress President and Vice-President for the following year. Locker decorations feature class themes or original ideas to instill a spirit of patriotism and enthusiasm.

Six Students Run In Congress Elections

Becky Dudley, junior, rushes to congratulate Edna and Mimi after they are announced winners of the campaign.

Poster displays, explanation of platforms, distribution of tags, and nomination speeches and skits are the product of many weeks of preparation made by each candidate for the two top offices of Student Congress. Running for the office of president this year were Mary Meehan, Linda Salyers, and Mimi Vallejo. Edna De Los Santos, Pat Faution and Barbara Reichert placed their bids for the office of Vice-President.

Classes Undertake Various Projects

Marchathon: Persistently We Worked Persistently They Watched

In developing a sense of citizenship we give service to the community through the annual March of Dimes Marchathon. In the intracity competition IWA, CCA, and the Minor Seminary collected together and gained second place ratings. Collecting for IWA are Maggie Villanueva and Gloria Guerra (upper right), Dorothy Victor (far left), and Shirley Tolin (bottom right).

Future Freshmen Tour School, Visit Classes

Future Freshman Day is annually held at IWA to give prospective freshmen a view of school life and extra-curricular activities. During the day, the girls participate in tours of the campus, club discussion panels, special basketball games, and an assembly given in their honor. On this day, seniors traditionally wear black and drape their lockers in mourning, to symbolize the ending of their four years of high school at Incarnate Word.

Senior Whirl Gains Speed as Year Closes

Activities center on seniors as the last school days come. Awards Assembly, School Spirit Day, Senior Prom, and the Alumnae Patio Party are some of the last experiences graduates have as a class. Baccalaureate and Commencement Exercises bring their high school careers to an end and carry them into further life experiences of work or college. But the Class of '69 leaves behind a spirit that will never die.

Students Participate More in Liturgy; Retreat Features Teamwork

The religious activities this year have been enhanced by more student participation. Students have taken part in planning masses, offertory processions, and scriptural readings. The purpose of their involvement is to make the Mass and the Catholic religion more meaningful and applicable to a student's everyday life. Below, students wait to walk in procession during the Mass for President Eisenhower. Girls from Incarnate Word were among students from Corpus Christi who gathered in the Coliseum for the annual Youth Salute to Mary on December 12.

Students, religious, and lay people were involved in the planning of the annual retreat this year. Mass and discussions were planned by the various classes.

At upper left, juniors and sophomores enjoy the patio lawn during discussion. Seniors, center, experience new aspects of faith by participating in the "Blind Walk" which demands complete trust in the person leading the "blind man." Father Gus Petru O.M.I., retreat master for the seniors, checks the time before the next experience. At lower left, freshmen "eat out" and afterwards visit the grotto.

Howdy Days Begin School Spirit Competition

The year's activities started off with a bang during Howdy Week. The halls echoed with gunshots and western lingo. The spirit lasted through the Christmas holidays. December meant Christmas decorations, Christmas vacation, and the Holiday Ball. Class favorites were announced, and the formal ended the first semester. The second semester began with exams, and continued through with hard work and study. But the studying was over-shadowed and the excitement of School Spirit Day stirred the classes to good-natured rivalry as the final competition for spirit points came to a screaming, happy end.

Seniors Offer Prize;

An increase in school spirit by inter and intra-class activities has made the school year an exciting and exuberant one. At right, Laura Haffner presents the Spirit Stick, the symbol of this enthusiasm, during the Offertory of the Baccalaureate Mass. Below, freshmen let go of their sudden burst of energy after report card distribution in a game of volleyball. Girls from Incarnate Word helped boost spirit for the Corpus Christi Academy Cavaliers as cheerleaders. Far below: Diane Shumate, Annie Whitworth, Teresa Burghardt, Mary Nicholas, Debbie Snapka, and Cindy Kosarek.

Juniors Receive Senior Rings Early

As school draws to a close, final examinations, report cards, the senior ring ceremony, and good-byes pave the way for summer activities. Juniors (above) receive rings before report cards are distributed. At left, Connie Houseman, Candace Jennell, and Dawne Hagens wait for report cards. Lower left, Mary and Martha Ganz bring younger sisters along as they bid their good-byes on the last day.

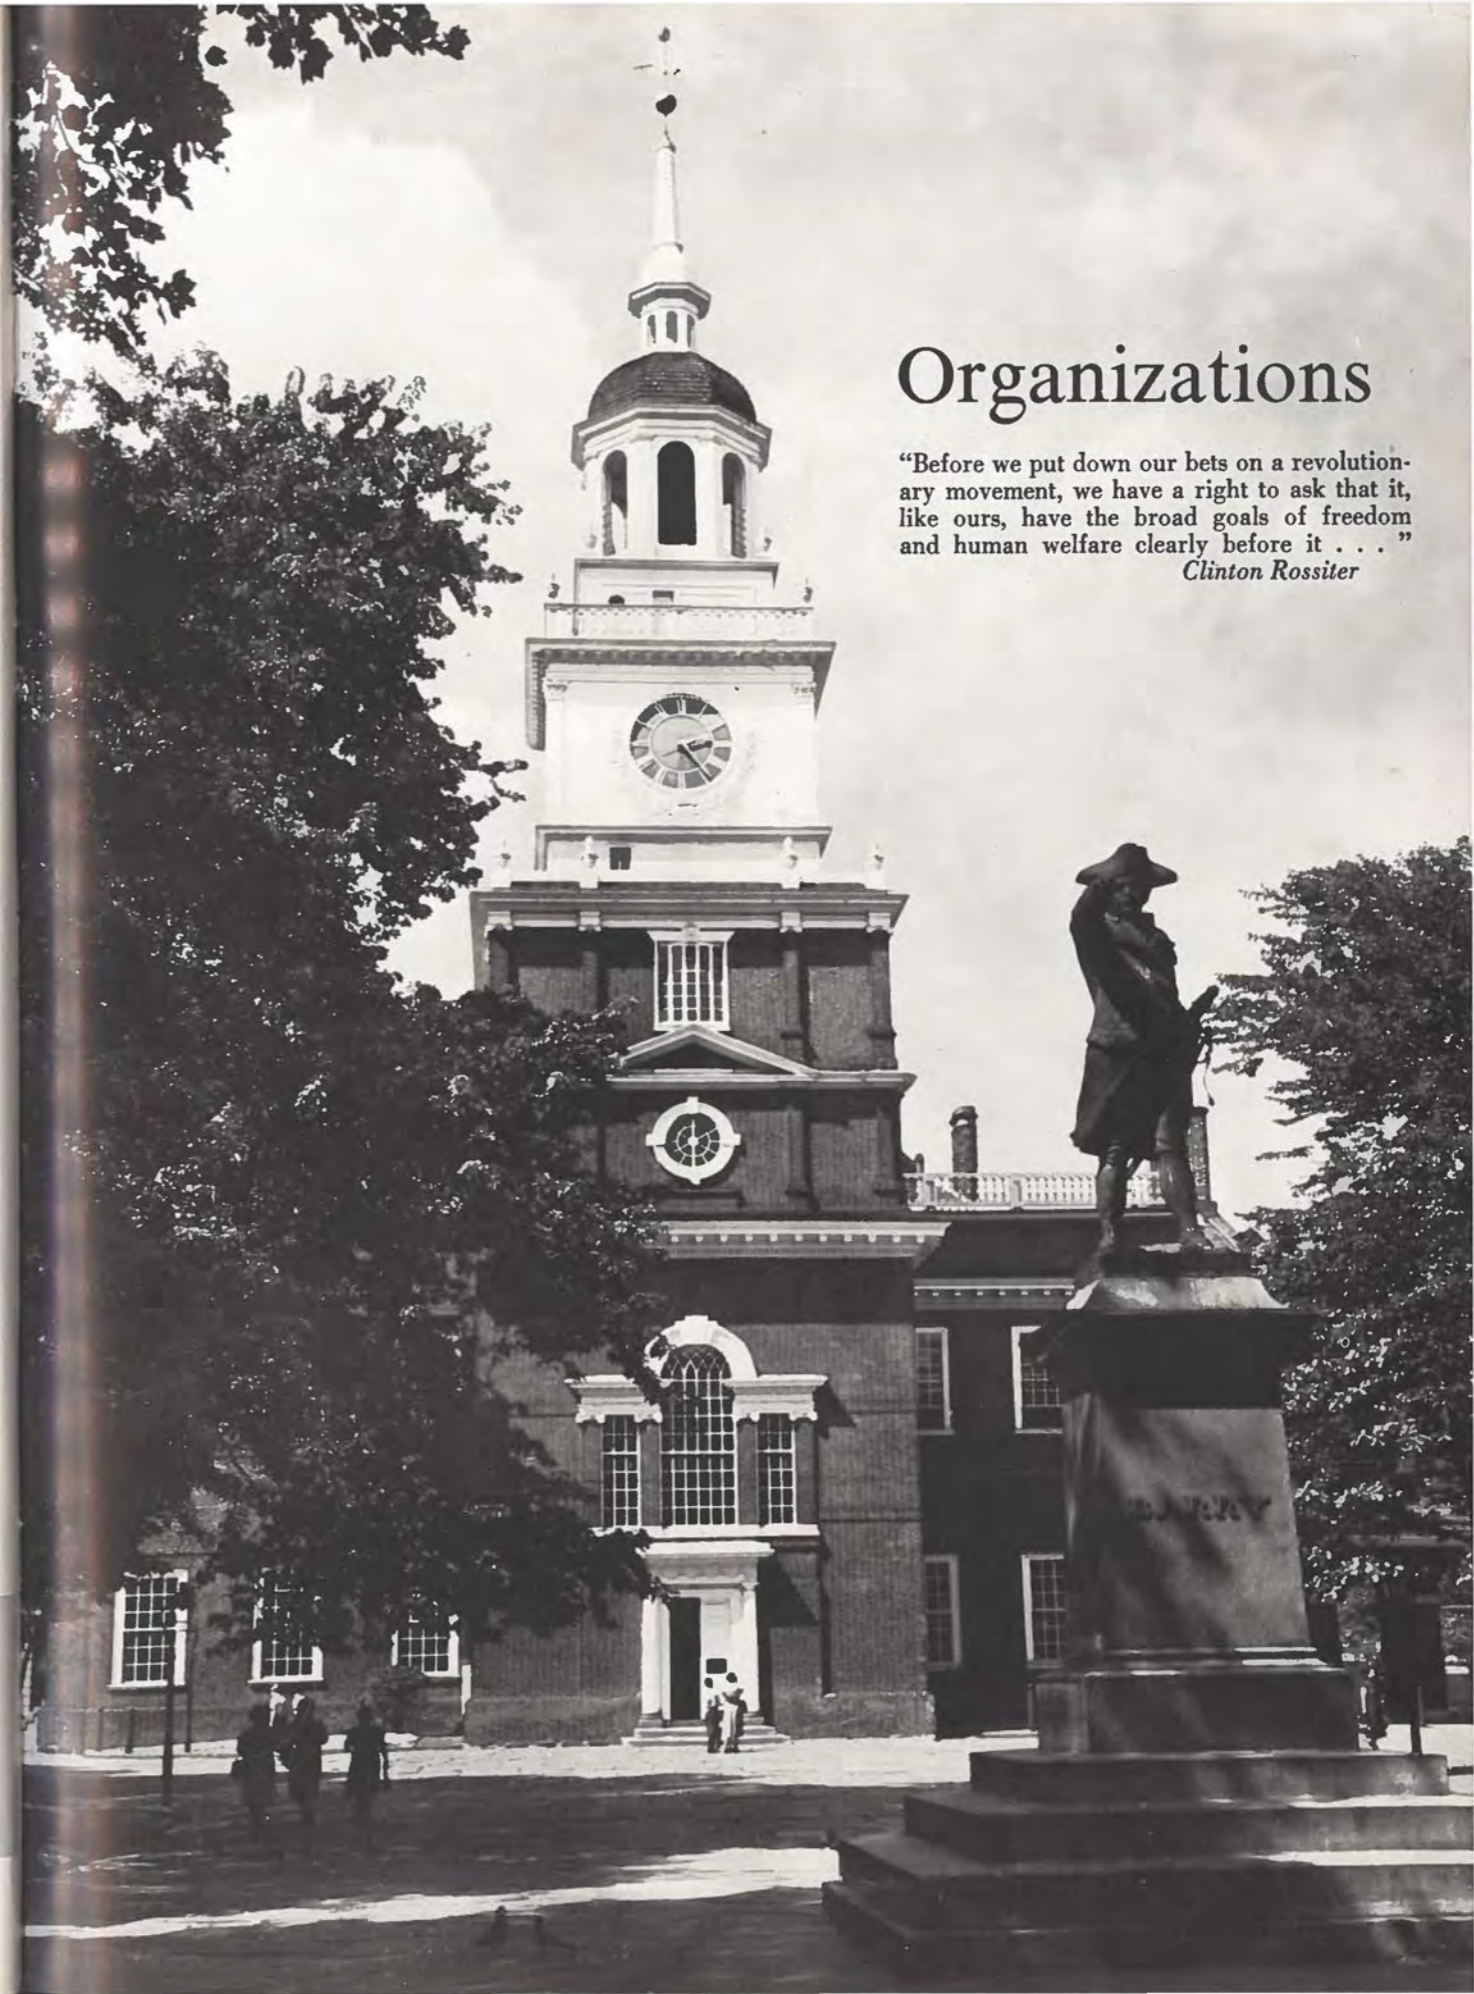

Organizations

"Before we put down our bets on a revolutionary movement, we have a right to ask that it, like ours, have the broad goals of freedom and human welfare clearly before it . . ."

Religious Clubs Develop Students' Christian Commitment

Gaila Reyna, Shelley Newman, and Mary Ganz chat with Sister Lucy Garcia, moderator of the Christian Life Community, formerly known as Our Lady of Grace Sodality. Projects for the year included a retreat, a special program for the senior citizens at Mount Carmel, and a study of the Sodality rules.

The purpose of the newly formed Liturgy Committee is to promote the religious aims and spirit of the school. Members prepare for the liturgical celebrations and lead the student body in prayer every morning.

Another religious club initiated this year is the Theresians high school group, headed by Mimi Vallejo as president. Senior Theresians meet with the group to help them find means to encourage and foster religious vocations. Sister Dorothy Anhaizer sponsors the group. Pictured above are Beth Malish, Mary Meehan, Mary Alyce Stillman, Mimi Vallejo, Laura Wilmot, Julie Shamoun, and Patricia Valencia.

To develop dedicated Christian women is the religious aim of the school. Students have an opportunity to serve God and their fellow man by participation in the religious clubs.

The Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, to help finance its mission projects, held IWA's first Spring Day. During this day the members sold spring flowers, spring potions, and gave shoeshines. Dressed as Shoeshine boys are (top to bottom) Dorothy Victor, Susan Jaloway, and Linda Salazar.

Members of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine help to spread the faith as teachers or as helpers. (Upper right) Sister Carmen gives CCD members and their sponsor, Sister Catherine, hints on teaching methods, while students perform in the CCD talent show, (lower right).

National Honor Society Hosts Talent Fair

Coyo Duchstein's photography and Nancy Boudreau's monologue were entries in the Talent Show sponsored by the National Honor Society.

Students who possess outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, character and service are inducted into the National Honor Society. Sister Mary Lucy Garcia is sponsor of the club. Officers are Margaret Godbout, president, Pat Faubion, vice-president, and Mary Ganz, secretary-treasurer. Members are seniors Nancy Boudreau, Laura Haffner, Diane Moreno, Linda Caldwell and Sylvia Mir; juniors Cathy Kinsel, Genny Harrod, Pat Faubion and Linda Salyers. Sophomores selected on a probationary basis are Beth Arnold and Vickie Blaschke.

Publications Staff Reports Action

To report the news fairly, to entertain its readers, and to capture memories of the school year are the objectives of the Crown and Aurora staff. Co-editors of THE CROWN are Sandra Hogan and Yolanda Perez. At left, Sandra and Pam Buhidar, business manager prepare copy for the last issue of the paper.

At left, Mary Milloy, Sister Michelle Marie, advisor, Linda Garza, Luisa Flores, and Julie Shamoun leave the TWU auditorium after a yearbook session at the Texas High School Press Association convention. The Crown and Aurora received All-Texas ratings at the convention.

Language Clubs Promote Culture Study

Latin Club members (right) dress in Roman togas for their annual Latin Banquet. Before the feast they gather around Mother Patricia, sponsor.

Dawne Hagens, Eileen Baca, and Kathy Tepera, officers of first year French, study the map of France. Activities carried out by the French Club this year featured cultural meetings, and a Christmas Drive to send goodies to VietNam. Sponsor of the club is Mrs. John Sulik.

Members of the Pan American Student Forum are serenaded at the PASF Mexican Supper, held March 13 in the IWA Cafeteria. As another project, the club sent 15 delegates to the State Convention. Officers (right) are Mary Alyce Stillman, treasurer; Norma Paniagua, parliamentarian, Gaila Reyna, vice-president; and Yolanda Perez, president.

Thalesians Enjoy Annual Tarpley Trip

The Thalesians Science Club took its annual trip to Tarpley in February to explore scientific material. Shirley Montgomery, president (upper left) looks down on Hondo Creek while Mrs. Costley helps pitch a tent. Mary Irby watches as Denise Hightower and Teresa Burghardt get into the action. Later, Denise and Yolanda Perez take a rest.

Fine Arts, Choir Produce Musical

The Fine Arts Club presents its annual musical "Finian's Rainbow." Other projects include the book fair and a drama production. The main purpose of the club and its projects is to introduce more culture to the school.

The sponsor of the club is Sister Sharon Deemer. President of Fine Arts is Deidre Jaloway.

Clubs Promote Service Projects

The Library Club opens up the fascinating world of Literature for students. This year's projects include a book-reading contest and displays in different areas of literature during National Library Week. The club is sponsored by Sister Mary Schulze. At right are members Mary Evelyn Kalinec, Mary Ganz, Ginny Kapusta, and Judy Tom preparing a magazine to be checked out.

The aim of the Homemaking Club is to develop abilities in the field of home economics. This year, projects include serving refreshments at the faculty meetings, a style show, and banquet. Sponsor of the Homemaking Club is Sister Dorothy Anhauser. At lower right are members Ann Hoban, president, Jan Kucera, Judy Stryjak, and Edna De Los Santos.

The Red Cross, sponsored by Sister Philomena McCormack, strives to help those in need and less fortunate. This year IWA served as vice-president of All-City High School Red Cross represented by Gaila Reyna, president of the IWA chapter.

Adult Organizations Serve School

Incarnate Word Academy could not function as smoothly without the help and support of the two adult organizations of the school - the Alumnae Association and the Parents Club. Help in financing new audio-visual equipment, air-conditioning, gym acoustics, and many other aids have been provided by the two groups.

The Parent's Club of Incarnate Word Academy has sponsored many projects during the year. A Mexican supper, Arts and Awards Night, and the Parent-Daughter Breakfast were among their projects for the year. Proceeds from the various projects were donated for school improvements.

The Incarnate Word Academy Alumnae held its second annual rummage sale October 5. Proceeds from the sale went to purchase equipment for the school. Along with the rummage sale, the Alumnae sponsored a Christmas party for the faculty and a patio party for the graduates. President of the Alumnae this year is Mrs. Grace Hooper, (above).

Varsity Takes Second Place Trophy In Second Home Tournament

In the final game of the Incarnate Word tournament, the Angels played the "game of the season" against Mt. Carmel of Houston. Angel forwards Sherry Faubion (above center), Anne Russek (upper left), and Mimi McLemore (right) battled for points and kept the eyes of the audience glued to the action.

Guards Pam Buhidar, Laura Haffner, Margaret Kucera, Linda Salyers, and Carmen Hernandez held Mt. Carmel offense to a close margin in scoring. Although the Angles lost by only one point in over-time play, spirit was revived when three team members, Sherry, Margaret, and Anne, were named to the All-Star team. The second place trophy won in the tournament was displayed with individual trophies in the showcase of the front lobby.
