More Than Meets the Eye...

To the casual observer, Skyview was just an ordinary high school. However, to students, Skyview had a lot of unique qualities that set it apart from any other school. Where else could you find a place to learn with all of your friends, in and out of classrooms? Where else could you go to see people in togas, pig kiss contests, student walk-outs, and hall sweeps? Where would you look to find students who were more involved in school sports and activities? Those who came to Skyview just to learn got a lot more than they bargained for.

"Everything about the school makes it different," stated Sophomore Timothy Martin. Ninety-five started a lot of new options for students. With Micro-Academy, A School Within A School, Traditional Delivery Learning, and new District standards and portfolios, people had a variety of choices for how they wanted to learn. We also broadened our learning with the breaking in of several new teachers to the school, such as Mr. Wichart, Mr. Newton, Mr. Austin, and Ms. Cook, who brought with them different new teaching styles.

"Band life made it interesting to me," commented Freshman Mark Mobley. Students learned about life in many unique ways. Underclassmen learned how to survive in high school with a little help from the juniors and seniors. Meanwhile, the class of '96 struggled to prepare themselves for the "real world." Juniors learned that you can't beat a senior at Powder Puff.

"This year's Seniors make Skyview unique!" said Lisa Davis, while John Ostreicher insisted that it was the class of '98 that made Skyview different. However, Senior Garret Rosa believes our headboy is the best part of our school. Every student had a part in making 1995-96 a special year. We started many new traditions -- such as the Mr. Wolverine pageant, the International Club, and Lip Service -- while continuing with the old -- for instance the Homecoming Parade, Powder Puff, dress-up days, senior ditch day, and initiation. The students showed school spirit unmatched by any of our nearby rivals. With Powder Puff cheerleaders painting their bodies with '97, a bigger, better school newspaper, and a winning football team, Wolverine pride was in the air.

At a glance, Skyview may have seemed average, but when you're inside, it's much more.

Pigskin Dreams...

Despite the silliness and careless behavior during Homecoming week, there came the seriousness in the Homecoming football game. It showed who the true players were, the players with fight and heart, and our Skyview Football team proved to be those players in the game against the Pirates of Alameda. The players wanted a win for the school, and Junior Danny Barajas said, "In a game as big as Homecoming, you set personal goals aside and play for the school." The football game was hard, but the team endured the pain. When asked what was on his mind during the game, Junior James Troutner stated, "From the beginning of the game to halftime it was 'we were going to win,' but the second half I was thinking about everyone laughing at us." Nevertheless, the team showed their school pride, and kept going despite everyone's remarks and comments. Junior Jeremy Strickland commented, "Everyone is always dogging the football team and putting us down...at least we are trying and not giving up." There will always be more Homecoming games, and everyone is hoping for a win next year. This year's game, as always, was a memory maker, because the team played their all.

The guy cheerleaders, class competition, and brutal attacks made the Powder Puff game worth the money and bruises. The memories of the game, including embarrassing moments and tremendous efforts made, will last forever. The football game was like any other, with plays and offense/defense action, but a lot of it revolved around Senior/Junior rivalry and the desire to...WIN. Senior Tia Wilson remembers, "How much fun we had kicking the Juniors' butts." The girls practiced hard and played to the best of their ability. When the big day came, spirits were high and heads were spinning. Senior Desirea Hurst mentioned, "I felt like a chicken with its head cut off most of the time. When I actually got on the field, I forgot most of the plays." The game was great and expressed the school's spirit. Unfortunately, this was the last for the seniors, but they did walk away with a win. Senior Valerie Gonzalez will remember, "We won, and I actually got the ball and ran far." The tradition will keep going, and for next year's game, Junior Tia Price warns, "I think '97 will take it all."

What do you think of when you hear 'Homecoming'?

Spirit Week ?

Does Skyview High School have school spirit? According to Senior Jamie Campbell, "No, because people aren't comfortable enough with themselves to express their individuality. Most are too afraid that their friends will think that they are dorks." Ms. Campbell was not alone in this feeling. "I think that the reason that the school lacks school spirit is that everyone has lost all respect for their school and themselves," commented Senior Erin Woodend. In the words of Freshman Matt Yates, "More people should have come to the Homecoming game and participated in all the fun we had during spirit week." Surveys taken after the Homecoming week showed undeniably that a good majority of the students felt this way. Others such as optimistic Freshman Arron Bartsch thought, "Skyview has the most school spirit out of any school because the students are proud to go to Skyview."

"The people who do have school spirit show it well," said Senior Heather Richmond. This was found to be true throughout the week of activities and events. For example, attendance at the Powder Puff Game proved to be at least one third more than most sports had last year. Although not publicized very well, there were a number of activities planned for Homecoming including a variety of dress-up days, Lip Service (Karorke), Mr. Wolverine Pageant, pep assembly, a movie on the field, a parade, and a dance. As Sophomore Eric Helton put it, "The activities kept people busy, but didn't wear you out."

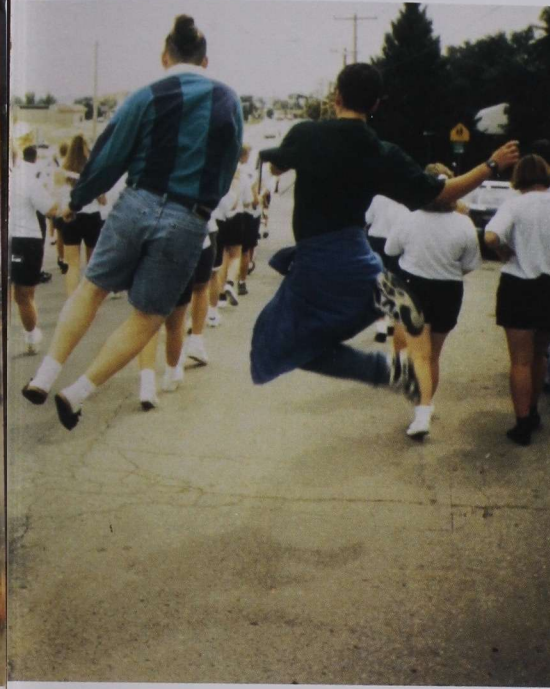

"Regardless of whether or not Skyview students have school spirit, there is always room for improvement," commented Sophomore Tanya Rodriguez. When asked what we should do to increase the spirit, Mr. Dave Sauer suggested that, "We need more people praising the school and looking at its good points rather than harping on its bad points." School spirit was something that made the average boring week wild and crazy.

Just remember to try to be a little different in the future and have some fun. School didn't have to be a prison unless you made it one!

Whispers in the Night...

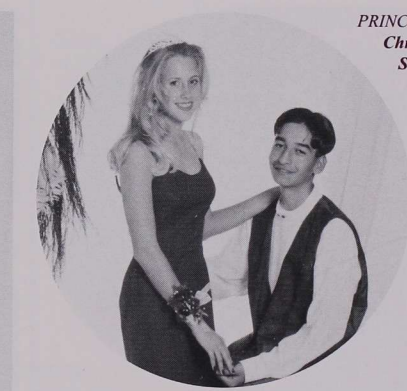

As Homecoming week comes and goes, there is one thing that lingers in everyone's mind, the Homecoming dance. Whether you spend it with your friends or with that special someone, the dance is definitely a wonderful experience. The beautifully decorated cafeteria, courtesy of Student Council, was filled with masks, music, and fun. It didn't matter if the decorations were on the floor or hanging from the ceiling. The atmosphere they created was very enjoyable. When asked her opinion of the decorations, Senior Norma Chavez replied, "The dance was really pretty. The masks were unique."

The announcement of Royalty took place at our Homecoming pep assembly, where they were recognized before the entire student body. They were crowned, first at the traditional football game, then again at our masquerade ball. Crowned Baron and Baroness were Freshman Kermie Maldonado and Angie Punt; Duke and Duchess were Sophomores Eric Bernal and Marlo Holt; Prince and Princess were Juniors Christopher Sierra and Shannon Flowers; and King and Queen of our 1995 Homecoming were Seniors Garrett Rosa and Patricia Johnson. Lord and Lady of this Homecoming Masquerade were Mr. Fred Gomez and Ms. Annette Chandler. "What made the night special was being crowned royalty," stated Freshman Angie Punt. As you can see, being acknowledged as a part of the Royalty is a great honor.

The night, however, did not flow so smoothly for everyone. Junior Paula Coleman said, "My most embarrassing moment of the entire evening was when our waiter tripped and spilled a strawberry daiquiri all over my date, Desmond Hargrave. The whole restaurant turned from what they were doing to look at what had happened." Another response to the most embarrassing moment question came from Freshman Isaac Rodriguez. "When I was going to dance with a girl, she slipped and fell, and everyone turned and looked at us."

It's obviously safe to say that the Homecoming dance was definitely a night to remember.

How To Make A Living

There are many ways to get money. You could ask your parents for money, but that could only last for so long. You could hope that everyone who owes you money will have it in your time of need. Not likely! You could dig really deep between the seats in your car to see if you have any spare change. If you don't have a car you could ask to vacuum the house in search of cash lying in the way. You could sit on the sidewalk in front of your house and beg, but it's kind of embarrassing when your parents yell at you in front of the whole neighborhood. Or you can do what every person in their right mind will have to do: WORK!!! You really don't have to get a job, but look at your alternatives. You've got to grow up sometime. RIGHT???

What are some student's reasons for getting jobs? They may want more spending money to take out someone special. Maybe they're saving to buy that dream car or clothes they want, not the ones Mom wants. Most people get a job to pay for their car insurance. Junior Matthew Schultz said, "My parents said the minute I stop working is the minute I stop driving."

Face it! It's not the most exciting way to spend your spare time. However, it shows a sign of independence. To have personal income is a sign of freedom. True, you may still have to pay for insurance, lunch, breakfast, those clothes, or that dream car, but YOU earned it, enjoy it. There's a great deal of pride that comes from paying with your own money. On the other hand, there's that overwhelming urge to start crying once you realize how much money you've actually spent. Budget your money responsibly and you're set. Think of it this way: at least you know what you're in for in the future.

Where do you go for lunch?

What About Lunch?

With only 43 minutes for lunch, students rushed to their favorite places to eat. For some, this was the nearest fast food establishment; such as Taco Bell, McDonald's, or maybe Subway. For others, lunch meant a trip home. Still, others nobly stayed behind in the cafeteria to eat with friends or catch up on some homework.

Many students agreed that Taco Bell, was the cheapest and the best. "I eat at Taco Bell because their food is chillin'. However, to get to the chillin' place, we must travel at high speeds," said Junior Jason Huber.

"I either go through drive-thru at Wendy's or Hamburger Stand, eat for five minutes, and come back to school," said Senior Lynn Marsh.

On an average, many people said they spent about $15.00 to $20.00 weekly on lunch and when they had no money, home was the favorite. "I go over to my friend's house and eat because I don't care too much for school food and the fast food places are packed. Besides, the food is free," said Senior Desiree Baca.

Lunch wasn't just a time to eat. Many people took the opportunity to run errands. Some took time to relax and catch up with friends, while other students, who stayed at school, took time to finish their last minute homework assignments.

Not having a car would put a damper on your choices for lunch. Luckily, the convenience stores and Pizza Hut were very popular. "Sometimes I go out to eat at the Western because they have fair prices," said Senior Jonta Davis.

During lunch, often some students would decide not to return for their afternoon classes, but those who did make it back were sometimes late to fifth hour. With almost ten minutes less than students and faculty were allotted last year, everyone found it hard to straggle back.

With so many different options, students could never run out of things to do and places to go for lunch. No matter what people decided to do for lunch, everyone agrees that their favorite thing to do was eat.

IS LUNCHEDEBIBLE TODAY???

If I only had a car, I wouldn't be sitting here. Sophomores and freshmen crowd the cafeteria. Lacking transportation they enjoy a taste of Skyview's finest.

Through an Artist's Eye

When Skyview students were asked how they expressed themselves artistically, most of the students had the same opinion as Junior Charlie Washburn who said, "Art is not something you think about, it's something you do." Others had unique and diverse ideas, like Junior Jerrod Brito who said, "I just sit there and draw until I get bored and exhausted, or until I get something I like." Junior Drew Hadley's idea of art is much different. "I sing to myself and try to make up songs to sing for other people or I pull out the crayons." Senior Tina Hedglin commented, "I express myself artistically by getting up on stage in front of huge audiences and making a complete and utter fool of myself." When Junior Siobhan Barros was asked what she thought about art and how people expressed themselves at Skyview she replied, "I feel that the art programs bring all of us together, people from all different groups can come together to create some really neat things!"

Almost all art students take their work very seriously, whether they're in a painting, photography, drama, or music class. Kindra Michel, regarding her painting, "Outpost", commented, "My art is very important to me; it really gripes me when people don't understand what I am trying to portray." On the other hand, when Junior Danny Valenzuela was asked if he thought he would mess up his large watercolor painting he insisted, "You can never mess it up only make it better." This is some great advice for all of the struggling artists out there.

It's safe to say that art can be for everyone. Whether it's your music or your painting or the clothes you wear; everyone has a way in which they express themselves. "Art is very important because it gives us culture and without it our society would become bland and boring," said Junior Matt Schultz. He was also quoted as having said, "I express myself artistically either by getting up on stage or by rubbing vaseline all over my body and rolling around in a tub full of paint and spaghetti." The world will always be entertaining and artistic as long as people like Matt keep on rolling in their own personal tubs of spaghetti.

How do you express yourself artistically?

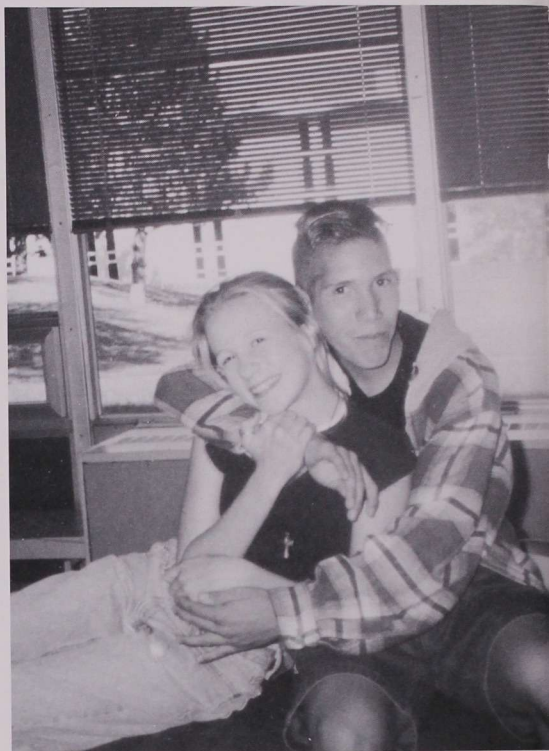

HOW ADORABLE!!!!

YOU WERE MY FIRST CRUSH!! Sophomore Kristine Vasquez shyly acknowledges who her first crush was. "My first real crush was in sixth grade. I had a crush on Joey Contreras. He left our school when he was expelled, but he came back when I was in seventh grade and he was in eighth. After that he asked me to be with him. We were together for about three and a half years." (Photo by D.Crest)

You were my first...

There are firsts for everything. There are first crushes, first kisses, and even first loves. Ah... how romantic! Isn't it? Senior Ben Hatfield seemed to think so. "My first kiss was romantic because it was on the last day of school, in elementary, and she was leaving so I never saw her again." Well, most first kisses are romantic, but not always. Junior Sarah Dechant agreed on that one. She said, "My first kiss wasn't romantic. It was funny, but I'm not telling you why!" First kisses can be a lot of things: funny, sweet, stupid, or even unenjoyable. But, who cares? No one's perfect... some things just take practice! Some people had a worse situation with their first kiss. Take Freshman Jennifer Bryan for example. She wasn't thrilled at all about her first kiss. "My first kiss was not romantic because when he kissed me, it was wet, and he slobbered all over me! Sick!"

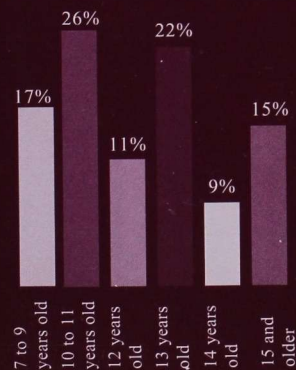

A lot of people have had their first crush but not found anybody that they really love. After all, true love is hard to find. On the other hand, some people believe that they have found their true love. Senior Melanie Howard said, "I love my boyfriend Cody because he is just like me!" For some people, it takes longer for them to find their true love, but it will happen sometime. As long as people go to dances stag there's always hope.

A lot of people claimed to have found their first love, but were very disappointed with how it turned out. Freshman Ezra Bagley had found her first love, and she said, "That guy will always have a piece of my heart."

Crushes are the subtle beginnings of love. Everyone has dreamt of having their own special someone. However, often elements such as shyness or timing or other people seemed to always get in the way. Christopher Sierra admitted, "My first crush was on a teacher."

Anything can happen. Love is in the air. If someone hasn't already been hit by Cupid's arrow, then fear not: there will always be Valentine's Days, midnight kisses on New Year's, secret admirers, and tall, dark, handsome men (or cute, ditsy blondes). No one is immune to the sublime disease of love.

How old were you when you got your first kiss?

HUGS AND KISSES!! Juniors Jennie Bean and Nick Bagley hold each other tight. Even though Nick wasn't Jennie's first crush, she said, "We were best friends in elementary school, then in Junior High he was a guy and I was a girl. Hey why not?" (Photo by D.Crest)

High School Expectations

As you entered high school you didn't know what was waiting for you. Senior Lisa Davis thought, "Skyview was such a huge school, I didn't know how I was going to be able to manage!" Everything was strange and the experiences you encountered are memories you will never forget.

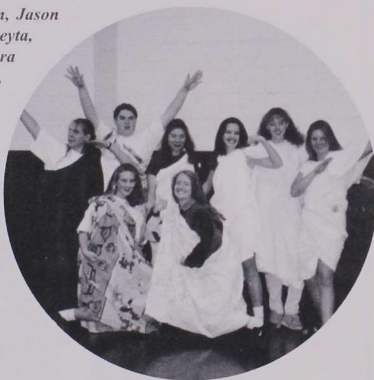

One thing everyone expected was to be initiated. Initiation was a time of love and hate--seniors loved it, freshmen hated it. Although underclassmen had to obey their senior superiors, everyone had a lot of fun. Having to sing "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star" is something that Sophomore Jerry Puckett will always remember. Anyone can tell you that there was nothing like having the graduating year written all over your body in permanent marker or coming to school dressed in your grandma's clothes and make-up. You just couldn't beat the feeling of floor burn on your nose as you pushed a shiny penny across the Skyview gymnasium. Junior Dustin Fladung recalls, "I remember it hurt when I got beat up every day." These are all things freshmen had to endure with a smile on their face.

Academically, students thought they were in for some rough times. As Senior Kim Hoffman said, "I expected the work to be harder and more challenging." Most students said their classes weren't hard as long as they understood what was going on and the teacher spoke a language they knew. The education they expected to receive in high school was the most important reason they were here, but sometimes it seemed hard to fit all that work into their busy schedules. Fortunately, students somehow managed.

Meeting and making new friends is a what made their years here unique. Everyone expected to leave these walls with lifelong friendships that have passed the test of time. Junior Robbie Kuoppala explained, "High school is where my best friends and I became really close. We've shared a lot of good times, and they only get better." Getting all you expect out of high school is up to each individual, but everyone always leaves with a lot of laughs. As Junior Jennifer Disher said, "It's all been fun, but thank God I'm almost done."

What would you like to do to a freshman during initiation?

Friends

Have you ever had someone that you could just talk to, that would sit and listen to you without interrupting? Maybe someone you have spent the whole night laughing with. If you have, you've got a great friend.

A friend is someone you have fun with when your watching a movie or driving around. Actually if your friend is truly great, you could have fun doing absolutely nothing. If you have a bad day your friend will be there to cheer you up, whether you want them to or not. They know you would do the same for them.

When you have a bad hair day, or you're feeling blue, they will be there to see you through. If you are really bored, you can call and talk about nothing. It's all right. That's what friends are for.

When your brain doesn't function properly without your friend attached to your hip, and you know you're going to the same looney bin, you know you're friends for life.

A Taste of Victory!!!

The 1995 Skyview football team started out the year with one main goal, to win a game. Victory came very early in the year with Skyview winning their very first game. They broke a seventeen game losing streak, beginning a winning tradition for the football program. A completely new coaching staff, with the exception of Dave Sauer, meant a brand new offense and defense for the players to learn. With only five seniors, the juniors' contributions to the team were very important. As the season started, team unity seemed very strong and the team kept their high spirits. No one would have guessed that victory would come so early in the season, but Skyview football was hungry and they feasted on Lincoln. It was a close game but a great moral victory for both the team and the school. The next great accomplishment was their victory over Westy. Next to the Ranum game, it was the most memorable game of the year. The Ranum game was expected to be a blowout, but Skyview stuck with Ranum until the end when an interception by Ranum ended the game, and Skyview's hopes for an upset. They can't really say the rest of the year was a spectacular one. Skyview ended the season with three victories, but those few victories were all the team needed to get their heads on straight. Now, the main focus is preparation for next season and hoping to keep the winning tradition alive.

"Setting" the Standards

The volleyball team had an outstanding year. With three seniors and three other returning lettermen the team had a lot of potential. They had four up-and-coming players that brought the team hopes of a good season. By the end of the season the coaching staff moved two players up to join the already great varsity team. Head Coach Julie Roybal and Assistant Coaches Kristina Refell and Pat Latta worked hard with these fine ladies.

These girls had some great moments and some bad moments. For Junior Luisita Trujillo, they were all wrapped up into one. Luisita said, "My most memorable and most embarrassing moment was when I dove for the ball and slid right into the pole."

Junior Varsity had a few injuries that resulted in a shortage of players. However, this didn't slow down the young team. They fought hard to stay with the season. At the end of the season they brought up three freshmen to help out. They were a little lost at first, but the Junior Varsity players kept them in line. They played their hardest and proved to be a very good asset to the team. "Great job" to those girls.

Freshmen had a tough season. They started out with a few conflicts with new people and a higher expectation. This is to be expected, but they worked out their differences to become great friends.

Varsity, despite their rough season, came out great in the end. They had five wins and one loss in the Fort Lupton Tourney. They ended up third in District and fourth in League. Congratulations to you for a great season, ladies.

The Legacy Continues...

The Skyview tennis team continued their winning tradition this year with another winning season, finishing the year with a team dual record of 8-3. Skyview had all but one of their players make All-Conference this year. 1st team All-Conference members were Ryon Rivera, Jesse Pixler, and Dominic Carra. 2nd team All-Conference members were Karl Buck, Jeremy Dean, Jimmy Skinner, Brandon Frawley, Matt Marshall, Martin Serna, and Felix Heermann. Ryon was the lone state qualifier on the team.

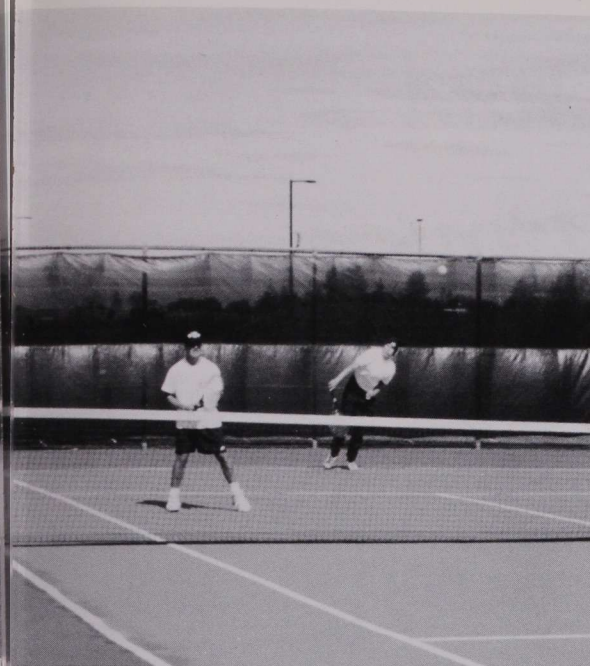

Leading this team for his final year was Head Coach Terry Cooter, along with new Assistant Coach Ben Austen. The coaching staff molded this year's squad into a well prepared group of athletes. "This team had a great bunch of guys that were a joy to work with. Coaching them was the highlight of my year," stated Coach Austen.

With six seniors on the team, the Wolverines had a lot of experience to go along with some of the younger players that are coming up. Also on the team were two new exchange students, Thibault DeHaes and Felix Heermann. "Tennis in America is a lot different because in Belgium we play on clay and the competition isn't as tough as it is here," said Thibault.

Although next year's team will be young, the Wolverines, under Coach Austen, will still be very competitive.

Kicks and Grins

The Boys' Soccer Team had a lot of spirit which helped them to achieve an incredible season. They practiced with a dedication that was apparent each time they took the field. Players and fans alike knew that this was their turf, and it was their job to protect it. "I think we put Skyview soccer on the map and proved that we were capable of defeating our opponents!" was how Junior Dustin Fladung described what he felt the team had accomplished on the field.

Teamwork is a key factor in a sport as competitive as this. When asked how they worked as a team, Sophomore Kermie Maldonado replied, "We were cooperative and wanted to work together." Learning to play together helped the Wolverines become successful this year. Finishing the season with a 9-4-2 record was a very delightful experience for the entire team.

This year brought forth a lot of change. As Senior Robert Cisneros explained, "This season was a new beginning for us because we had a new coach and had to get used to his style of coaching." Although they had many changes, Skyview put them aside in order to get the job done with a little humor. Sophomore Matt Markley said, "A memorable moment was when we played Kennedy in State and everybody lost their voices before we got to the game from cheering so much."

A League of Their Own

Moving into the inaugural season, expectations weren't set at the full potential for the first year team. So it came as a surprise when the Lady Wolverines ended the season with a 10-5 record, taking second in the league. This was definitely a very remarkable year for the "Wolf Pack," not only because they were the first girls softball team to play for Skyview High School, but the program received an unexpected Junior Varsity team, which was great for the players, since the turnout for the sport was so large.

Many girls had much to say when asked about their best memory of the season. Sophomore Leha Velasquez recalled, "It was a day when it was snowing outside, so we practiced sliding, since the grass was wet. After that, some of us stayed and played tackle football even though we were freezing!! It was the best practice that we had." Sophomore Chelise Montoya stated, "I remember when the whole Varsity softball team went out to lunch on a game day and came back late. We all ended up in detention together." While Junior Melissa Cordova expressed, "The best memory of the season was when Coach Hackenberg talked to us before our Regional game and told us how there wasn't another Skyview team that could replace us, 'The Originals'."

The feeling of sliding in the wet grass, having teammates that are as close as sisters, doing everything as a team (including detention), the feeling of victory, and that of defeat, the feeling of being an "Original" was all part of the girls 1995 softball season.

VARSITY: Top Row: Coach S. Hackenberg, G. Trujillo, P. Johnson, M. Holt, Coach R. Tracy, M. Martel, A. Perdue, A. Alarcon, Coach L. Haden. Middle Row: A. Cowherd, L. Velasquez, C. Montoya, M. Pierce. Bottom Row: M. Cordova, G. Martinez.

CONFIDENT, NOT COCKY!!! "What made the season so special was that we were able to win as a first year program. The girls made it special." Coach Steve Hackenberg puts on his game face. (Photo by R. Tracy)

On the flip side...

Gymnastics is a complicated and daring sport. Everyone was triumphant when the team broke the school record this year. The record was 150 points, they scored 151.75 points. They did a stupendous job!

To be a great gymnast you have to try very hard. Junior Sarah Dechant learned that it's not always easy "I do gymnastics to keep in shape and it makes me happy. (As a little girl I always wan't to be in the Olympics, but it will never happen. Oh darn!)" Sacrifice is another factor that is important in gymnastics. Sophomore Kristine Vasquez remembers that part of being on the gymnastics team. "We all met at 5:00 a.m. on a Saturday, at McDonalds, and they weren't even open yet! So, everyone was standing around in their pajamas."

Gymnastics isn't all work though, it's a lot of craziness and fun times. It attracts a small, yet weird, crowd of people. The 1995-96 gymnastics team was quite a distinct group. Take Sophomore Annette Medina for example, she says "The craziest thing I remember about the gymnastics season was when Valerie Gonzalez stuffed paper cups in her leotard." One of our beloved seniors, Valerie Gonzalez has had a few to many strange conversations and bizarre episodes. "I started to cry at Ponderosa because I got lost and locked in somewhere!" All in all, the team was great friends and had a distinguished year!

Sporting the Speedo gear

Swimming isn't just a bath in the pool. It takes commitment, hard work, and being able to humor Coach Kurt Englemann. Kurt provided the team with valuable leadership, support, an occasional day off, and words of wisdom such as, "I should have taken the early retirement." Individually swimmers found their own personal successes which contributed to the teams valiant efforts this year. Although the team only had one diver this season, Senior Kristine Washburn, proved to be a strong challenger. Through each new boundary broken, the team learned priceless lessons. Senior Jamie Campbell stated, "You don't need to breath during a 50 freestyle to live." Many swimmers tried a new approach to swimming. Just ask Sophomore Amanda Nelson "I swam the 500 freestyle and lived to tell about it!" she reports.

This season shed promising light for the future. Standards were set as Freshman Allison Schmid broke eight individual event records and one relay with three other talented swimmers, Sophomore Nicole Lovato, Senior Elizabeth Sedalnick, and Junior Sarah Prudlo. There were a lot of new beginnings this season. As Freshman Sarah Kolody said, "We have made a lot of progress and don't look like drowning chihuahuas anymore!" Only one word can be used to describe the 95-96 season, "unforgettable." Memories were made, new friendships began and the coach got his prescription refilled.

Never quitting

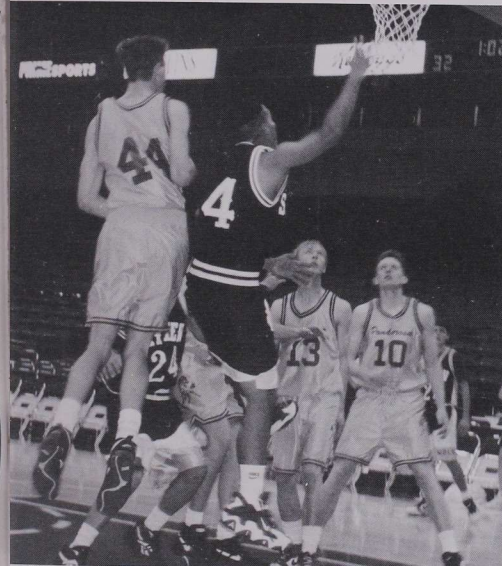

The 1995-96 boys' basketball team exceeded everyone's expectations this year. The preseason polls had the Wolverines picked last in their league. "I wasn't very excited about coaching this year's team until summer camp. Then I saw how good this team could really be," stated long-time Skyview Head Coach Paul Barringer. The Wolverines started off as everyone had predicted, winning only one of their first six non-league games. "The preseason was very tough on us. We knew we were one of the better teams in our league, so when league started we just came out and played the way we knew how to," stated team Co-Captain Derek Hargrave.

Then things turned around for the Wolverines. They started off league play by winning their first five league games, including a thriller over arch-rival Broomfield. Skyview then went on to win 4 out of their next 7 games to place second in the Skyline League, better than anyone had even imagined. Skyview beat Adams City in the first round of the District Tournament, but then suffered a heartbreaking defeat against Englewood which ended their season. Senior Billy Newman said, "We did pretty good, but we knew we could have gone to state if we had played better."

This year's team did leave their marks, however. All five starters received an All-Conference mention. Hargrave and Senior Ryon Rivera received First Team All-Conference, Junior David Fehr received Second Team All-Conference, and Senior Karl Buck and Freshman Derek McCoy received Honorable Mention All-Conference.

Nothin' But Net

The 1995-96 girls' basketball team played through their season with all the heart they could offer. The girls showed up every day to work hard at practice with focus and determination. They came together on and off the court to become a closely knit family. By eating dinner at least once a week at one of the teammate's houses they worked at becoming a group instead of individuals. Not only were they dedicated to the game, but after long hard practices they still had to go home and study for their classes; thus showing how much love they had for the game.

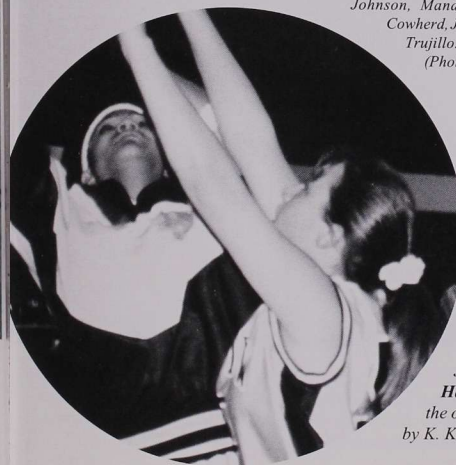

A new addition to the Wolverines was Freshman Jenny Bahl who started every game this season. The four returning seniors to the team were Co-Captain Jamila McCoy, Desirea Hurst, Patricia Johnson, and Alicia Cowherd. Jamila and Desirea were a strong force underneath, pulling down boards and taking charges. While the other Co-Captain Tia Price, Alicia Cowherd, and Jenny Bahl worked the ball from the outside. Strong off the bench were Libby Parys and Danielle Coleman. Resulting from their achievements throughout the year Jamila was named first team all-conference, Tia was named second team and Jenny Bahl received an honorable mention. After a strong season filled with ups and downs the Lady Wolverines' season ended in a heartbreaking loss to Ranum in the first round of districts. The Lady Wolverines came out of this season with ingenuity, strength and memories they will cherish forever.

Tee'd Off On The Mats

This year's wrestling team went out with force, winning five matches out of seven, not including tournaments. A select few of the wrestlers made it through many rounds of regionals. Freshman Isaac Alvarado's work paid off at the end of the year, sending him to the State Championship Wrestling Match. Junior Tran Pacheco had another successful year, also making his way to State. The superb coaching staff encouraged the wrestlers to pursue wins and conquer their opponents by guiding them with encouragement and leadership.

When some people hear the word golf, they think of old men driving around in carts hitting little white balls all over the place. They forget about the dedication and hard work it takes to play this game. These young men work hard to conquer one of the most difficult games ever invented. Golf is a game of patience, skill, and technique. It takes all three when you learn how to hit a golfball 200-250 yards across a long stretch of grass. Compared to recent years, the golf team had more participants. The team worked hard to make the season challenging and fun.

These two teams worked hard to make this year the best it could be for them individually and as a team. These sports take a lot of time and dedication to strive for the success required to become a champion.

The magic Touch

They are found at every game, and are there for every practice. They are as committed as the athletes and are just as important. They are the athletic trainers, a special group of girls out to heal with their Magic Touch. They came from far and wide, around Skyview, and seem to like their duties, through the good and bad. Mandy Nieto says the best part is "to help injured athletes the best you can to get them back into play for your school." It was a general consensus that the best part was being able to help the athletes and to take the pain away. It is not all fun and games though. The trainers have to learn a lot. Before they go to the games they all go through training to learn how to wrap injured limbs and what to do to take away the pain. As you can guess sometimes dealing with the athletes is difficult. Keturah Herring comments, "Not all the athletes appreciate what we do, but the ones that do appreciate it make up for the ones that don't." To top off all the wonderful trainers is Fusick. Always happy, and full of good, positive advice, he becomes a big influence on many of the athletes. When all is said and done the athletic trainers are a very important part of our athletic department and we are proud to have them around.

HARD AT WORK...

Cropping pictures, marking pages, and checking copy, Seniors Garrett Rosa, Karl Buck, and Jeremy Dean work together to finish their pages. The horribly long process of finishing deadlines proved to be a strenuous task all year. (Photo by K. Washburn)

Supplying the school with records of the year's events, the staffs of the Silver Lining Yearbook, the Predator Newspaper, and SBN were responsible for keeping the student body "up to date."

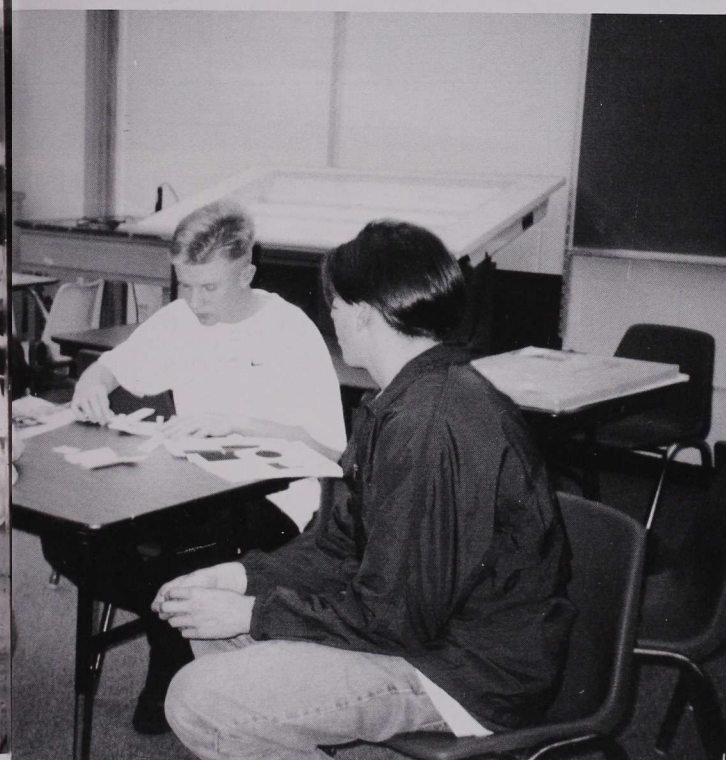

Delivering the daily announcements, the quarterly changing staff of the Skyview Broadcast Network ritually reported to the back room of the library everyday at the beginning of third hour. It takes a certain kind of personality to be on SBN. Sophomore cameraman Matt Aerne said, "I joined SBN because it's fun!" Junior anchor Ryan Hull replied, "All of my life I have had trouble reading in front of people. I knew that if I were to read on SBN then I would overcome this fear."

On its second successful year with Advisor Rebecca Delisi, the Skyview Predator reliably published monthly issues. The ten-member staff was responsible for everything from art and ads to features and the bilingual page. "We try to improve our paper every month. We find what's wrong with previous issues and try to correct our mistakes so the paper can be the best it possibly can be!" remarked co-editor Junior Lisa Duran. Each member had assigned responsibilities. Pictured below, ads editor Sophomore Stephanie McTaggart begins the long process of pasting up her section - an assigned duty of all editors. Each member was personally responsible for their own photography, copy, and layouts. The variety of skills required to put out each issue made the class an educational experience. "I'm learning good skills and responsibility," said features editor Junior Eric Bauer.

The Silver Lining Yearbook Staff of the 1995-96 had its most challenging year ever. With a new sponsor and only a handful of returning staff members, they practically learned the entire process of yearbook production over. Regarding the final product, Senior Priscilla Guillen said, "...easier said than done!"

After a long year of deadlines, dilemmas, and outrageous fortune, they made it through a tough year. Skyview's media groups not only got things done by deadline, but they made memories while recording them.

The Predator Staff is responsible for the full production of our school's monthly paper. They also raise $200-$1,000 per month in ads in addition to other miscellaneous fund raisers.

The Skyview Broadcast Network films and anchors the reading of the daily announcements by student volunteers.

The Silver Lining Yearbook Staff is responsible for the full production of the yearbook. In addition to page designs, each member must raise at least $300 in ads and fund raisers.

Although students may not be aware of it, Skyview has a wide range of diversity. Whether they're foreign exchange students or come from families seeking better lives, many students now attending Skyview are from different cultures. Trying to learn more about this is the International Club whose purpose is to promote an understanding of diverse cultures.

Another class/club offered at Skyview is ESL(English as a Second Language). The class meets to learn English, get help with homework in other classes, and talk about their concerns while learning things about one another's backgrounds. Other students may join ESL as tutors, assisting the teachers and helping the students.

The students who make up ESL originated in countries other than the United States. When asked what made him move from Mexico to Colorado, Sophomore Juan Marquez said, "My parents, and to have a better life. There are a lot of differences here, like the law, the schools and clothes." Answering the same question

Sophomore Laura Munoz, also from Mexico, stated, "Para estudiar y conocer y tambien por que aqui esta toda mi familia." Adjusting to a new country can be quite difficult, not to mention uncomfortable. "Here it's easier in school, and the atmosphere is much nicer. There's less violence and better economical opportunities," said Tania Chesnokov from Russia.

Skyview High school students recently formed The International Club which is made up of students who value the diversity that ESL and foreign exchange students provide. What is the purpose of the International Club? The answer may seem unclear to even some of its members, since the club is only in its first year. The club is made up of students who want to learn about international studies. "This is one way for students to learn about the world," stated advisor Ms. Oaks. One goal of the club is to sponsor activities that would teach other Skyview students about the world's many cultures. One activity has been 3-on-3 basketball.

The International Club is made up of Skyview students wanting to know more about other cultures. The club will sponsor activities that teach other students about the diversity in the world.

ESL is made up of a group of students from different countries like Mexico and Russia. The teachers and student tutors' goals are to help the ESL students with homework, school-life and any problems they may run into.

here are many people at Skyview that are talented in sports and many that excel in academics, while others take part in drama or other classes. But do you know exactly what it takes to play a musical instrument? Exactly how much dedication is involved? It requires daily practice. There are many concerts and parades to prepare for. Instruments may be broken and need repair. One need to know all of the basics in music.

Practice makes perfect, and our Wolverine band seems to prove that saying true. They have accomplished so much over the past years, and this year is no exception. Although some may only notice them at home football or basketball games, there is much more to band than that. This past year, they marched in the Sounds of Summer parade, to kick off their 1995-96 year. They took first place in the Adams County parade, second place in the Arvada Harvest parade, second place in the Thornton Days parade, second place in the Englewood parade, and first place for the fourth consecutive year in the Parade of Lights. another year has come and gone, yet our Skyview High School band has once again proved their ability to achieve their goals. They have placed first in the Parade of Lights for the fourth consecutive year. Other accomplishments include qualifying for state in CBA regionals and taking nineteenth place in CBA state.

"My most memorable moment," recalls Sophomore Justin Yeager, "is winning the Parade of Lights. It felt good to stay on top."

Senior Elizabeth Sedalnick expresses her own opinion about the 95-96 season. "The theme for this year was West Side Story. Although the band had no connection to it, we worked off our behinds to pull it off and ended up ruining our parade record. Though we won the Parade of Lights, no one worked for it; therefore, I doubt we will win it next year. Let me correct myself, the parents worked harder than the students did. It was just another season, not spectacular like previous years."

All in all, the band had a fantastic year filled with new accomplishments.

"After struggling through the long, cold Tuesday practices trying to strive for perfection, I felt our 'West Side Story' was a great success. Next year we'll rock, and we will look darn good doing it!"

"It was great to see the show from a different perspective. I'm glad I got to experience the season in a leadership position, and I'm looking forward to next year!"

kyview has a variety of extracurricular activities, but some of the important ones are the musical programs, especially Concert Choir and Orchestra. They bring out the best in everyone, especially their talents. The students in Concert Choir and Orchestra are great, either as musicians or vocalists.

Everybody sings, whether it's in the car, at home, or even in the shower. There's a unique group who took that fun and sang together to make marvelous music. Some of them did it for fun, and some of them were serious. Sophomore Naomi Wilson said "Serious? Serious or not, choir is for fun." Others were very involved in choir. Take Freshman Angelica Salazar for example, "I am seriously into choir because some day I might like to go professional," she said. Talent was also a large contribution to choir. Junior Olivia Luna agreed with that one and replied, "I am in choir to get recognized for my talent!" Choir was a lot of work, but it was also a lot of fun, too. That's exactly what Sophomore Michelle Fisher was thinking. "I always look forward to my choir class. If it weren't for choir, I probably wouldn't be in school." On the other hand, Sophomore Carmela Trujillo didn't take her choir class so seriously. "I like to watch movies in choir when we have a sub."

Orchestra is just as musical, but it takes a different type of talent. It is very inspiring towards people as artists. It influences everyone in some way, but some people don't know exactly how. "I don't know how it influences me, but it made me appreciate things like opera and classical music," replied Freshman Melissa Sorber. Junior Stuart Mobley said "It helps me look for hidden meanings and it gives me a chance to get away from the distractions of everyday life." Junior Emily Helton

When people hear the word "ORCHESTRA," they think classical music. Freshman Katherine Gold disagreed with that. "A lot of the music we play is modern, like Lion King and The Little Mermaid."

Although you wouldn't know from listening to them, Concert Choir is Skyview's beginning level choir. They had a concert in October in which they played songs like "Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel?" In December they had a Christmas Concert and in April, they played on a junior high tour. They also had two concerts in May: Solos and ensembles and Pops Concert.

The Orchestra had a fall concert, a winter concert, and a spring concert. They went to the Thornton Senior Center and the mall to do special concerts. The Orchestra also assembled with all of the schools from the Skyline League and had a District Concert.

SERIOUSLY?? Sophomore Jenny Scollon is the type that only takes important things seriously. She says "I hope my unique singing voice gets me into a Disney movie." (Photo by D.Crest)

rs. Cathy Clark (pictured below) has been the Choral Director at Skyview for the past two years, shaping and molding the voices of Sky's the Limit, Silver Lining, and the Mixed Choir. "I have really enjoyed the people that I've been around [here at Skyview] and that's made this job more fulfilling," Mrs. Clark commented. On the other end of the spectrum, many, such as Senior Rhiannon Ridgel, believed "the best thing about choir is that Mrs. Clark is the teacher."

This talented, young woman contributed much of her time and energy throughout the year. By organizing numerous performances for both Sky's the Limit and Silver Lining, Mrs. Clark ensured all her students would get the most out of the program.

"The year started off with a very memorable Skyline League Festival," stated Senior Melissa Carpenter. This was a time when the schools in the Skyline League gathered together to show off their talents. The following performances were with the spirit of Christmas in mind. In late winter many students participated in the musical The Sound of Music. Later, Sky's the Limit and Silver Lining had other concerts of varying themes.

Students joined in on the fun for many different reasons. Sophomore Cassandra Graham decided to "add her voice to the harmony for the simple reason that [she] loves to sing." Others joined choir because "Mrs. Clark makes it fun," said Sophomore Michelle Fisher.

Choir is not all fun and games as most would assume. "It takes a lot of dedication and work to sound good. Sometimes immature people make it hard to get anything done," stated Junior Crystal Windholz. Freshman Angela Farr agreed by saying, "I wish I could change some people's attitudes."

No matter how hard the work or frustrating the people, the vocalists in these honor choirs were still able to relax and have some fun. Senior Heather Richmond summed up choir best when she said, "It's a time to really be yourself and express a talent. The gift of music is the most precious gift of all. Don't waste it!"

Sky's the Limit was the mixed show choir filled with some of the best vocalist at Skyview. This year they performed in the Skyline League Festival and the lighting ceremony of the Thornton Civic Center. They also performed at Larimer Square and Southwest Plaza. Other concerts were the Pounds and Sounds of Christmas and the Pops Concert. This is a group of very talented young men and women.

Silver Lining was the only all girls choir here at Skyview. Their concerts included the Skyline League Festival, Larimer Square, Southwest Plaza, the Pounds and Sounds of Christmas, and the Pops concert. This is a group of very dedicated girls.

ACTING LIKE ADULTS... Juniors Lisa Duran, Vince Fontana, and Matt Schultz play the roles of adults in one evening's play. (Photo by K. Washburn)

Can't everybody act? Sure, everyone tells a little fib once and awhile, and gets away with it. But these actors take on the roles of totally different people and their lives. This talented group of people are the Thespians and Drama Club of Skyview.

To be a great actor, you must really put your mind to it, and try hard. Most of the time, you get great results from this. Junior Amy Crook agrees with that. "I enjoy the stage and theatre, and also the adrenaline rush you get from it."

Some acting is natural and some isn't. People say that practice makes perfect! Senior Erin Woodend has input about that one, "Some parts of acting are natural, but like anything, you have to practice a lot to become really good!" Being a natural at acting really does help your performance though.

Speaking of natural and unnatural things, what about make up and costumes? They play a major part in great performances. After all, what would a play be without them? Sophomore Karen Urbanic shows how much make up can be deceiving. (Circle photo below) Many people agree being an actor can really help your personality. Senior Tina Hedglin said, "Thespians open your mind up to a whole new world. It makes it easier to talk to people and it makes you look good in front of everyone, no matter what you do." She really agrees it is a good experience.

Drama Club is also very exciting. Junior Ely Lucas says, "Drama gives students the chance to open up and show everyone their creative side. It can be very demanding, but a blast at the same time." You have a lot of great experiences and learn about a variety of different people, how they act and behave, and all about different cultures and lives.

All in all, the Thespians and the Drama Club are very extraordinary and are a whole lot of fun. Anyone who is interested in having fun, being creative, and taking on the role of someone else, should really join one of these clubs.

The Thespians are a talented group of actors. But, they only performed one play. It was called "Take Five". As a group, they saw several plays and attended many acting workshops.

The Drama Club was very active this school year. They performed six different plays: "Paul's Case", "A Rose For Emily", "Wait Until Dark", "It's A Wonderful Life", "I Never Saw Another Butterfly", "Cinderella"

F.B.L.A. participates in district and state competitions. Throughout the year, F.B.L.A. does various fund raisers and has meetings to discuss how to do them. Twice F.B.L.A. went on career field trips.

MESA competes at Storage Tek and in Science Olympiad. The students have opportunities to receive scholarships from the competitions.

The Stars of Skyview changed their name to the Family Career and Community Leaders of America. Their activities include learning about new careers, cooking and sewing.

There are many great clubs at Skyview. F.B.L.A., MESA, and S.O.S. are some of them.

The Future Business Leaders of America planned many activities during the year as well as participating in District and State Competitions. "It looks good on my college application and my resume, plus all the activities we do are fun," said Junior Christina Fischer. "My most memorable moment from being in F.B.L.A. is probably on Halloween when we had our costume contest. I was one of the three people who dressed up," said Senior Desiree Baca.

F.B.L.A. provides the students with many learning experiences. Senior Tara Greenough has learned, "You can succeed in life without having to flip burgers for the rest of your life. There are more careers out in the world than we actually know about."

MESA is a club which participates in competitions such as Storage Tek and the Science Olympiad. Science Olympiad is where the students test their skills and knowledge against other schools.

"Storage Tek" is where they build projects and see how much weight they can hold before they break. Throughout the competitions, the MESA students are given many opportunities to earn and receive scholarships. "I like getting the chance to learn new and exciting things in engineering and math, also obtaining any scholarships for college," said Junior Matt Marshall. "I like the field trips, the competitions, and all the scholarships that are available," said Junior Jerry Pellini. "I like going to Science Olympiad because you're able to show what you're good in," said Junior Eric Bauer.

Activities of the Family Career and Community Leaders of America, also known as Stars of Skyview and Future Homemakers of America, include everything from learning about new careers to how to cook and sew. Sophomore Nicole Gonzales said, "It makes me more aware of different careers and opportunities that I could be interested in. Plus I have fun, too."

So many clubs at Skyview; how to choose which is the best? Nobody knows.

Booster Club, with a new chairperson Cheryl Howard, has kept this year's club running smoothly, as always. Booster Club is one of the most important groups in this school. They help Skyview in so many ways. They give out thousand dollar scholarships and help Student Council with the Christmas baskets. They participated in this year's Homecoming parade for the second year in a row. They have the concessions open at the football games, volleyball games, basketball games, dances, plays, and many other school functions. They also sell the Black and Silver clothing with the school logos on them. The fund-raiser that helps them bring in a lot of money is bingo. The bingo manager, Regina Parys, works hard keeping bingo running year round. They are always willing to bring new people in to help. Booster Club works very hard to keep their projects funded and help the school in as many ways as they can. They wish the best for our school.

Twelfth Man is an organization, run by Terry Talarico, that raises money for the football team by working A.R.A.

They use the money to buy uniforms, get new equipment, and sponsor team building trips. The thing that they are there for most is moral support. They work hard to keep the football team looking good and in shape.

School Advisory and Accountability Committee is a group of people concerned about the way our school is run. The chairperson, Nikki Hanlen, conducts the meetings. They talk about issues and come up with different suggestions to present to Dr. Leo. They brainstorm to come up with ways to make the school better.

These groups work hard to keep this school running and in good shape. They have been helping this school since the beginning of time.

Honor Society is a group that is out to help the community. They organized a blood drive, a toy drive, and set great examples for the rest of the student body. These students maintain a 3.7 or higher G.P.A. and are some of the school's brightest students.

The Knowledge Bowl team is a group of students who compete monthly in tournaments. This is a year long activity. The competitions involve answering academic questions before the other teams do.

Student Council is a group of students who organize things like the homecoming activities and the dance. The Junior class representatives organize prom. Student Council also organizes pep rallies for school spirit.

Student Council, Honor Society, and Knowledge Bowl are three of Skyview's brightest groups. Without these groups the school would risk being an uninspired, uninspired facility.

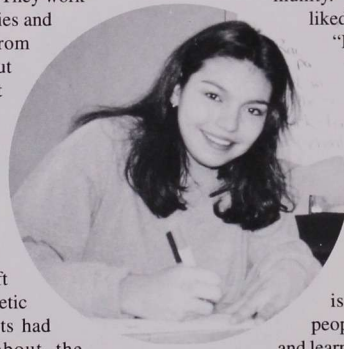

Student Council is a group filled with spirited people wanting to make a difference in their school. They work together to plan activities and overcome criticism from the student body about their plans. Student Council worked through three different sponsors this year: Ms. Cook, Mr. Snyder and, last but not least, Mr. Sauer. The changes occurred because Ms. Cook left to take over as the Athletic Director. The students had varying opinions about the changes. Junior Christopher Sierra said, "The more the merrier!" but Sophomore Leha Velasquez said, "It makes me mad. We need to have one teacher who knows us and exactly what we like." Pictured above, Head Girl Patricia Johnson works on plans during Student Council.

Honor Society is a very prestigious group of Skyview students. These students have worked hard to earn a 3.7 grade point average and maintain it. Honor Society sponsored many functions around school that many may have heard about. The blood drive, toy drive, and College Night were three of their major activities. Senior Ruth Lo replied, "The best part of Honor Society is when you get a good feeling after helping the community." Junior Sarah Dechant liked Honor Society because, "It helps and looks good when applying to colleges." Junior Reanna Davis said her favorite thing about Honor Society was, "The fact that everyone recognizes your hard efforts towards school."

Knowledge Bowl is a group of "energetic people who like to compete and learn new things," said Junior Matt Marshall. The Knowledge Bowl team is made up of people from all grades. The only thing required to make the Knowledge Bowl team is an interest in learning. Sophomore Rob Farrow thought, "Everyone feels a sense of equality and can show how much silly stuff we know."

Congratulations to all three groups on a successful year.

chool spirit was chanted by the young ladies who stood among the crowd. While sports fans' powerful voices encouraged the athletic teams, the pounding of feet and thundering applause rose to a wild crescendo.

Dedication, good sportmanship, dance routines and endless hours of practice qualify cheerleading as a sport of hard work. The squad cheered for all the activities including girls/boys basketball, football, soccer, volleyball and wrestling. They also lent support to the gymnastics team by scoring meets, timed the swim team, and performed at pep assemblies. The cheerleaders, shown right, supported the boy's basketball exhibition at McNichol's Sports Arena and various boys' wrestling tournaments. Skyview's cheerleaders participated in a summer camp sponsored by the International Cheerleading Association and attended a dance seminar held at Regis University where new techniques, basic skills and conditioning were taught.

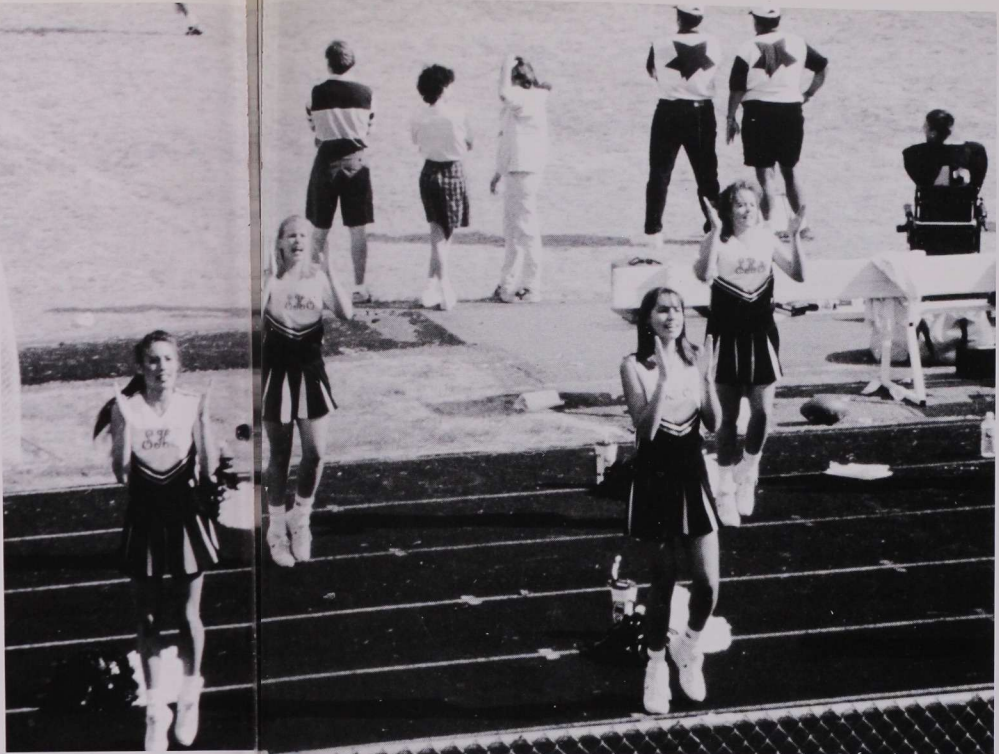

Like other clubs/activities the cheerleaders had another responsibility, fundraising! Their fundraising activities included selling cheesecakes, rootbeer floats and tickets for the Boys' Basketball exhibition of Skyview's Wolverines vs. Ponsderosa's Mustangs featuring the Denver Nuggets vs. the Detroit Pistons. Skyview's cheerleaders marched in the Thornton Olde Time Days Parade and Denver's Parade of Lights, placing place in competition.

One thing is missing from the cheerleading squad, Willy the Wolverine.

Many asked, "Where's Willy?" There is good news and bad news. The bad news is Willy has been injured for quite a while which explains his absence. Since he is eight years old, his injuries are so severe that he will not be returning. The good news is that the squad is drafting new members for next year and will be looking forward to another year of increasing Skyview school spirit and maintaining good sportmanship at the athletic events. The sponsors Raylene Josserand and Shirley Portfield, are greatly appreciated! Let's go, Skyview Wolverines! "Let's rock the house with Skyview's cheerleaders!" said Tina White.

"My most embarrassing moment happened during a new cheer. Tina White and I were still cheering while the others had stopped!" -Autumn Young

"When I went to doing a cartwheel, I didn't know Melissa Porterfield was beside me and I kicked her." -Tina White ower lifting was an activity which exercised the mind as well as the body. Power lifting proved that you can do about anything, if you put your mind to it.

"Power lifting is a fun hobby that gives a person a sense of accomplishment. Those who are involved can measure their individual abilities better than team sports," said Senior Neil Ellis. While power lifting was mostly an individual activity, power lifters also got a lot of support from the team. This was evident in the picture to the right as Senior Neil Ellis gets support from classmates during dead lift.

Powerlifting was popular because it gave the participant a sense of accomplishment. "Power lifting makes me feel like I can actually accomplish something. It's a great hobby and it relieves stress," said Senior Lisa Davis. Senior Clinton Brown agreed when he said,

"Power lifting gives me a sense of accomplishment. It's fun to compete at the meets, against people from other schools. You have to work really hard, but it pays off in the end."

Another reason for power lifting's popularity was the fact that it's just plain fun.

It's a way to keep in shape but is fun enough to keep your interest.

"Power lifting is fun to do.

It keeps you in shape, and when you go to meets, it's fun to compete.

You can also letter in it by making points," said Senior Jason Young.

There were many reasons for being in power lifting. Recreation, staying in shape, and achieving a sense of accomplishment were the most popular.

However, Senior Bret Rosenlof summed up power lifting best when he stated, "weights are heavy."

Little do they realize that it has only just begun. (Photo by G. Wittkowski)

June third was a sunfilled day with temperatures soaring into the 90's as two hundred and three graduates received their diplomas. "Graduation was very long, but memorable. The hardest part was saying goodbye to my friends," said Jennifer Sanchez.

As graduates looked toward tomorrow, the beginning of the rest of their lives, they sat together, as a class, for the last time. "This diploma is my ticket out of here," said Casey Ryan.

During the valedictorian and salutatorian's speeches, the graduates tossed beach balls around. "I remember when Simon fell over the chair trying to hit the beach ball," said Jeremy Silva.

Only days before the seniors said their last goodbyes at graduation, they reminisced at the Senior Dinner. "Everything about Senior Dinner turned out perfect. It was nice and original. The only major problem we had was the shortage of food," said Jennifer Sanchez.

Unfortunately not all the seniors shared Jennifer's opinion of senior dinner. Jeremy Silva said, "It wasn't what I expected. I thought it would be better. It was a little boring."

Graduation and Senior Dinner were a last opportunity for many seniors to express appreciation and say good-bye to teachers and administrators who helped them along. The end of the year and beginning of summer for them was truly a rite of passage.

"We couldn't run as many races because our track team was so small and everyone that was on it could only do four events."

-Harley Wilson

"The team didn't score as high because we didn't have enough people for every event."

-Adrian Teran

"I joined because I felt that jumping would help me in my other sports."

-Tia Price

The 1995 track season was successful in a lot of ways. The season started with 38 people out for the team and concluded the season with only seven. By looking at the meet results, one would think that the team had failed. However, they did painstakingly finish the season and successfully produced three state competitors. "Since we barely had any people we were short in a lot of events," said Sophomore Tia Price.

Numbers were not the only set-back for the team. Many of the track team's athletes were out for injuries. With Freshman Kim Elkerton out with a serious injury, Sophomore Danny Barajas running on an ankle injury from the start of the season, and Junior Joe Ruder out for the last part of the season and school year with a severe illness, the team was left with few healthy competitors. But as Coach Reffel has said, "Track is grueling sport-- it's physically demanding and mentally draining."

The few that toughed it out and stayed were ultimately responsible for the team's success. Suffering through heat waves, long Saturday meets, harsh coaching, tremendous amounts of running, and still sticking it out made the team notably victorious. "I joined track because I enjoy running," said Freshman Harley Wilson. "A lot of people joined but most of them wussed out," commented Junior Joe Ruder.

Skyview baseball experienced a Cinderella season last year. In the midst of a rebuilding year, the team made it to the second round of the Regional Tournament. Most of the returning talent were Seniors Jeremy Silva, David Woodard, Zeke Hanger, David Quick, David Valdez and Brian Birch.

Silva, a lefty, was ranked among the top ten in most pitching categories for Class 4A. David Woodard played a consistent third base and pitched behind Silva. Zeke Hanger brought experience and was the leader of the infield. Brian Birch was the relief pitcher for the Wolverines.

Filling the other starting positions were Juniors Karl Buck and Josiah Masingale, Sophomore Phillip Mendoza, and Freshmen David Connelly, Jake Gray, Bobby Quick and Erik Aragon.

The Wolverines were a young and unique team which turned heads down the stretch of the season. This team made it further than any baseball team Skyview has ever had. Next year's team will not be as strong in the pitching department, but with the returning underclassmen having a year of experience under their belts, the Wolverines may turn heads once again.

The Skyview '95 girls' soccer team had an outstanding year, going undefeated through the regular season. "Being undefeated feels groovy because no one had enough will and talent to beat our team," said Sophomore Tiffany Elwess. This team was introduced to a new coach Dan Fladung who brought new ideas such as team togetherness. When asked what it was like having a new coach, Vicki Kovach replied, "It was hard at first to get used to his ways of coaching. Dan is easy to communicate with, and he always stands by his players, whether they win or lose!" Everyone put in efforts to make the team a success, on and off the field. Junior Andrea Thomas-Cote said, "The team came together well. Even if we had differences outside of soccer, we still played together as a team."

This unstoppable team matched up against more experienced schools and defeated them with skill and heart. With the challenge of each game, there came laughter and memories. Don't forget to lock your doors ladies." Congratulations to all the girls who had a fabulous year.

BLUSHING BOYS IN THE BLUE

EVERYBODY INTO THE POOL! Senior Buddy Hutchins, Junior James Mobley, and Freshman Justin Yeager are ready to take the plunge. The team always warmed up with a few practice starts.

CLASSIC CONCENTRATION... Nathan Zalikowski takes a moment to concentrate before taking a sensational dive. He placed first at this meet.

They were red and they were wrinkled; wrinkled from hours of hard practicing, and red from embarrassment. Not only were there moments of triumph, but follies and embarrassment, too. When people think of boys' swimming, speedos may come to mind. But not all swimmers hate wearing speedos. Freshman Nathan Zalikowski said, "I like wearing speedos. They don't fill up with air when you jump in like shorts do (I hate that). Speedos also make for less drag." On the other hand, the majority of the boys disliked wearing speedos.

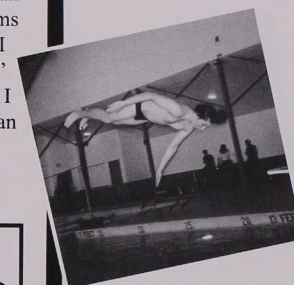

Speedos are not the cause of all awkward moments. Hairless legs are another. Freshman Justin Yeager said, "I would not shave my legs for just one more second off my time." But for Sophomore Stuart Mobley it wasn't a problem. "It wasn't embarrassing the first time I shaved my legs because everyone else did it," he said.

Sometimes uncomfortable moments can be painful. Freshman Kevin Stoddard proved this as he commented about an Adams City meet. "I was starting a race with a back stroke start, and I hit the bottom of the pool. The pool was only three feet deep." Accidents happen all of the time, especially to divers. "When I was going to dive, I fell off the diving board," stated Freshman William Redshaw.

"It was a 'little' embarrassing the first time I swam in my speedo/underwear!"

-James Mobley

"My most embarrassing moment in swimming was the time when I fell off the diving board in a meet."

The 1995 girls tennis team had a remarkable season. Finishing with a ten and one record, the girls definitely put their mark in Skyview's tennis history books. Coach Terry Cooter gave the girls the motivation they needed to strive for victory. The season was a success because the team put in a great deal of effort, dedication, and team work.

They were rolling along smoothly until a speed bump slowed them down. That speed bump happened to be long-time rival, Broomfield. That didn't stop the Lady Wolverines. They won their remaining matches with great pride and sent one of their doubles teams, the team of Linda Lo and Andrea Garcia, to the State tennis match.

This season also marked the retirement of Coach Cooter. Having coached tennis for ten years, his retirement is a great loss to everyone. However, his last year as a coach at Skyview was his greatest. The 1995 girls' tennis team really met the definition of the words teamwork and determination. Their team record proves that.

No one who attended the '95 Junior/Senior prom will ever forget it. Prom was held at the Tabor Center downtown, a nice setting for the magical theme "City Lights." With carriage rides throughout the night, one could escape the crowded dance floor for a ride under a soft moonlit sky. For many, prom '95 was more than they ever would have expected. Junior Patricia Johnson said, "It was lots of fun and a great atmosphere." Others like Senior John Perry "enjoyed the room to move around." On the other hand, some felt that having prom in a mall was like, in the words of Junior Lynn Marsh, "dancing and window shopping at the same time." Nevertheless, for most, prom 1995 was a night that will live on in memories-- whether they be good or bad-- for years to come.

When prom was finished, the place to be was the parking lot at Denny's where Senior Jim Lund "fell asleep in the arms of his date." Others who just weren't in the mood for a late night meal made their way back to Skyview for Afterprom. For the remainder of this magical night people were throwing themselves against a velcro wall, singing karaoke, playing poker, getting married, and just having fun. Sadly, the night came to an end in the wee hours of the morning. With pictures of fond memories and remembrance of joyful laughter, surely prom will not be forgotten.

"It would have been better if we had had an actual dance floor, but it was pretty cool anyway."

Leo, Romero, Bella, and Delisi came to Skyview.

We had our first Skyview Homecoming Parade in four years, but not a bonfire.

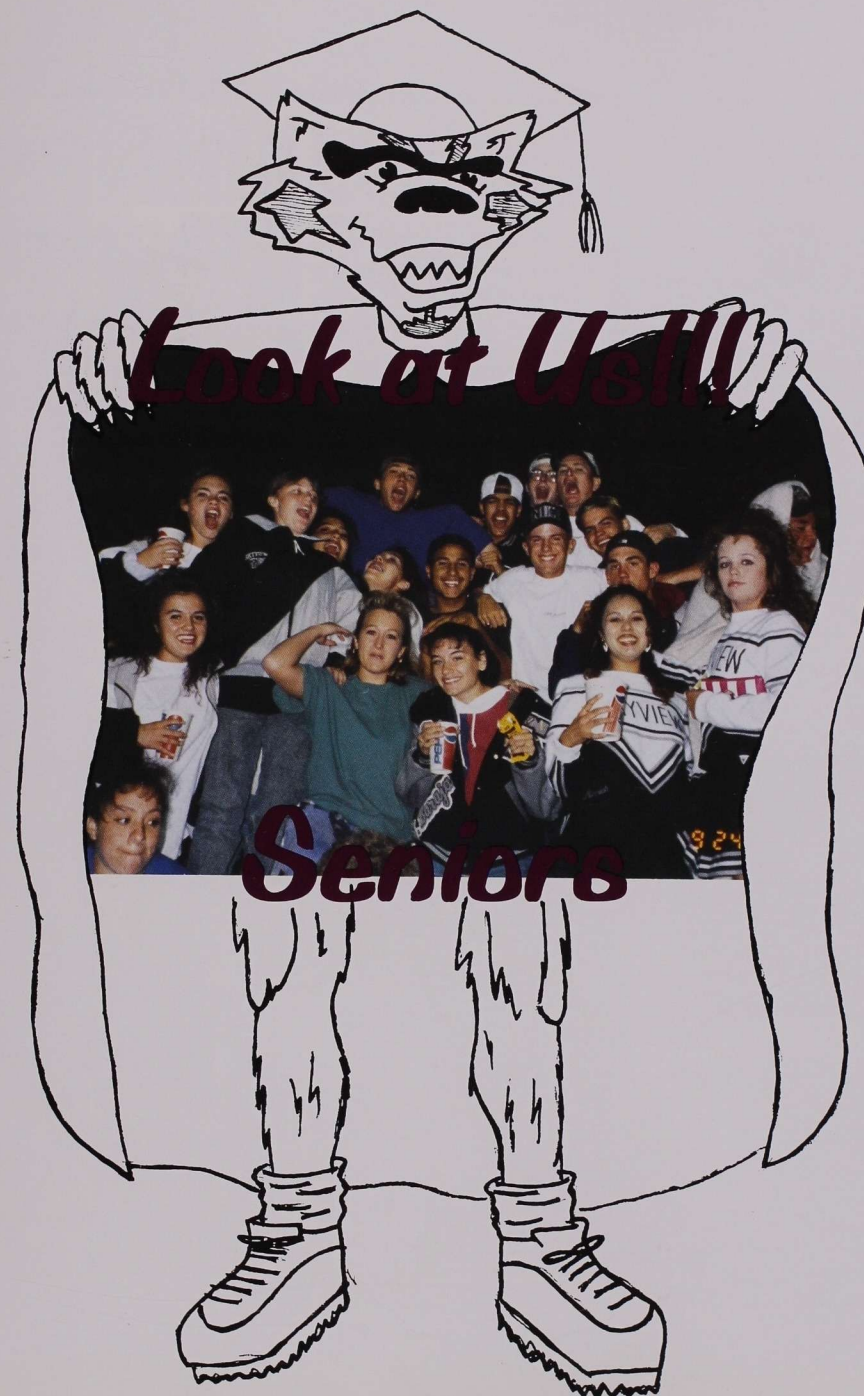

8 athletes from Skyview made it to state: Jamila McCoy, Shelly Barajas, and Tia Price (track); John Morgan, Andy Alvarado, and Tran Pacheco (wrestling); Linda Lo and Andrea Garcia (tennis).

Hall sweeps squelched our tardiness.

We had our legendary walk-out to protest a shorter lunch and schedule changes.

Drama and Newspaper sponsored Skyview's first "Pig Kiss" to raise money for the Oklahoma City bombing victims.

Skyview set a school record for the most practice fire drills in one year.

Stressing Out!!

Your senior year of high school is supposed to be the most fun of your high school career. For most seniors it is. But for almost all seniors it is also the most stressful. College application deadlines, scholarship applications, homework, jobs, and of course passing classes to be able to graduate all contribute to Skyview's seniors stressing out.

There are as many ways of dealing with this stress as there are causes. Some seniors take the peaceful alternative and sleep it off or listen to music. Many others deal with their stress violently by throwing or hitting things. Still others claim not to get stressed out at all.

Successful stress management is a skill learned through experience. It cannot be taught by Skyview's teachers. Learn this skill, and your senior year will be a year to remember.

Words of Wisdom

Senior Advice

-Tony Domenico

"If there's a party during school, GO!"
-Amy Rothbauer

-Garrett Rosa

Some people think that taking advice from seniors can be foolish. Others, however, seem to think that their words should be taken to heart. One thing you can't ignore is that the seniors have been around a while and most of them know what they are talking about. Remember, each year's senior class is patterned after the senior classes before them, so the advice is not just from one age group, but from many age groups. Most seniors will give you the basic advice, like "go to class" or "have fun while you are in high school". So, the next time a senior gives you advice, whether silly or serious, think about it a little bit because the advice you receive will at least be interesting.

A Word From The Wise

The seniors of '96 are facing a demanding and crucifying world. Their plans for life may or may not become a reality due to the cruel nature of the world they will be joining as soon as they graduate. For most of the graduates, college will be the next step, but not all of them will get that lucky. The rest of them have a hard decision to make: should they get a job, which more than likely will be a low-paying, unskilled labor job; join the military; or go to a vocational or community college?

At Skyview we are privileged to have the support of our teachers for four years, and if we are smart, we will listen to the words of wisdom about entering the real world after graduation.

Advice to Seniors

"There is a rich man and a poor man but the best man is a hard working man."

-Rex Geske

"It doesn't matter who you are or where you came from, you can be whatever you want to be. How bad do you want it."

-Fred Hardenbrook

"Only one phrase comes to mind. That would be K.I.S. Keep It Simple."

-Richard Essig

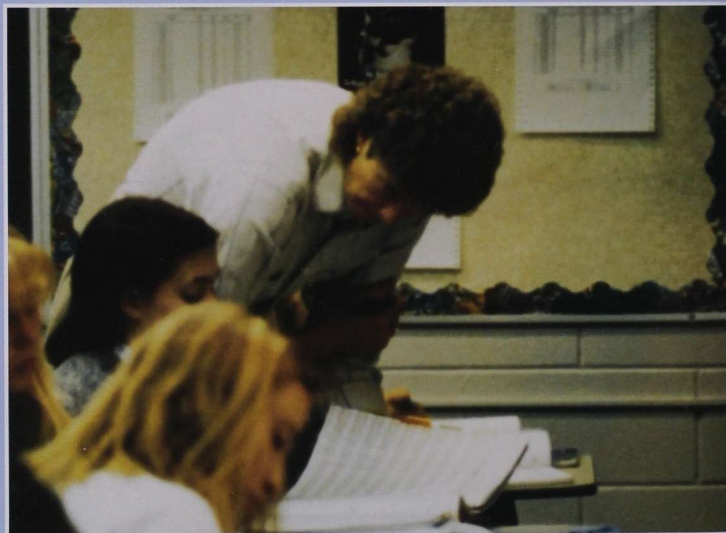

"Open your hearts and minds to new ideas. Don't let fear and common sense hold you from trying new things."

- Christopher Byrd

Seniors Remember

"Between my freshman year and senior year, I have noticed that some of the teachers have grown close to the students. They are now very aware of our needs."

-Lynn Marsh

"My freshman year was not exciting."

-Melissa Carpenter

"My freshman year, the varsity football team was awesome."

-Robert Skinner

"A lot of the teachers that were here my freshman year are gone and there are a lot of new teachers."

-Jason Furley

As our final year in high school gets closer to the final day each senior begins to remember things that happened earlier in their high school career. The class of '96 will never forget the triumphant football team of their freshman year. Many of this years seniors will always remember their first kiss, and many more will remember the teachers that have come and gone over the years. One thing that the class of '96 will never forget are the friends that they made.. "My freshman year I met a lot of new people, I had never imagined that those times would be important." said Senior Brandi Womble. It is certain that the class of '96 will go out with a bang, and no one will forget that.

A Decade Ago

Remember ten years ago? We were about seven or eight years old, running around with nothing to do except play.

Was this all we would ever do in life? Some of us, like Tina Hedglin, told our parents, "I either want to be a Brownie, a firetruck or a policeman when I grow up." Others, like Jennifer Bednar, said, "Actually I wanted to be a doctor at one point and a lawyer at another." There were those of us who didn't think about things like that, but a few of us still don't know what field we want to go into.

Another thing some of us wondered was whether we would ever get out of school. Most seniors this year said they thought they would make it, but it all seemed so far away. Kimberly Hoffman said, "I thought that it would take forever to get to twelfth grade, but it's gone too fast."

Now that we have made it this far, where will we end up ten years from now? I guess that all depends on where we want to be.

"LOOK AT DOG!" thinks Tracy Frazier as she holds her cat while posing for a picture when she was eight years old.

...spare time. Don't you sometimes wish that you had more time to spare, besides the time that you need to do your school work? We all wish that life were all fun and games, but it doesn't work like that. We find ourselves caught in school, and as soon as we leave high school, we get the choice of going to college or getting a job that we might be doing for the rest of our lives.

Our spare time is limited and most of our free time comes on our week-ends. Some use their spare time to catch up on the sleep they missed while doing their school work. Still, some use their spare time to relieve stress, spend quality time with their friends, getting a head start on the future by giving a helping hand to our community.

We should all savor our spare time, because as we get older our spare time diminishes, and we regret not having used the time more wisely.

Checkin' It Out

Music is very popular. Many artists remix oldies with new technologies and produce, at the touch of a button, a crisp new vibe. Everybody has an ear for music, and every song has a story to tell. In a world filled with a variety of artists to choose from, Rap/R&B seems to be the favorite of Seniors Veronica Garcia, Marcos Madrid, Michael Sosa, and Jamie Young.

East coast music is original with artistic lyrics whereas West coast music focuses its attention on instrumentation and phrasing. The texture and phrasing of the instrumental line reflects the lyrics.

Every generation, every senior class has its fads in music as well as dress and activities. The music we listened to in the 90's will mark that time of our lives in our memory forever.

Shouts Go Out!

"Rap star Ice Cube's music is pretty 'phat'. He tells it like it is. You'd better check yourself before you wreck yourself!"

-Jamie Young

"Above The Law has a strong message to it. It's against racism."

-Marcos Madrid

Future Plans

Have you ever thought of your future plans? When you think of the reality of your own and some of your friends' plans, you may ask yourself, "Does high school really have to end?" Some students plan to go off to a four year college, some plan to search for a good job, and some hope to just marry their high school sweetheart and live happily ever after. It's not easy to plan out a future. Alice Bartoloni said, "I'm unsure of my future career. I know I want to be a computer business administrative assistant, but it takes nine years of schooling and I have to think about my family." Desiree Baca, also unsure of her future, said, "I know I want to study animal science but I'm unsure of what field to go into. One thing I do know is that my friends will be there with me." Whatever their futures, the seniors will have the satisfaction of knowing they've overcome the first obstacle: high school.

WEEKEND PARTY? Seniors Amanda Turnbull and Valerie Gonzalez gossip about their weekend and the guys that they met up with. They're planning on doing something this weekend.

HUNGRY? Jennifer Serna, Barbara Hull, and Natalie Nielson come back from lunch, but have they finished eating?

Hopes and Dreams...

"I plan to attend college at Front Range and get a degree in interpretation and translation."

- Quica Rosalez

"I plan on joining the Military, and staying enrolled until I get an officer rank."

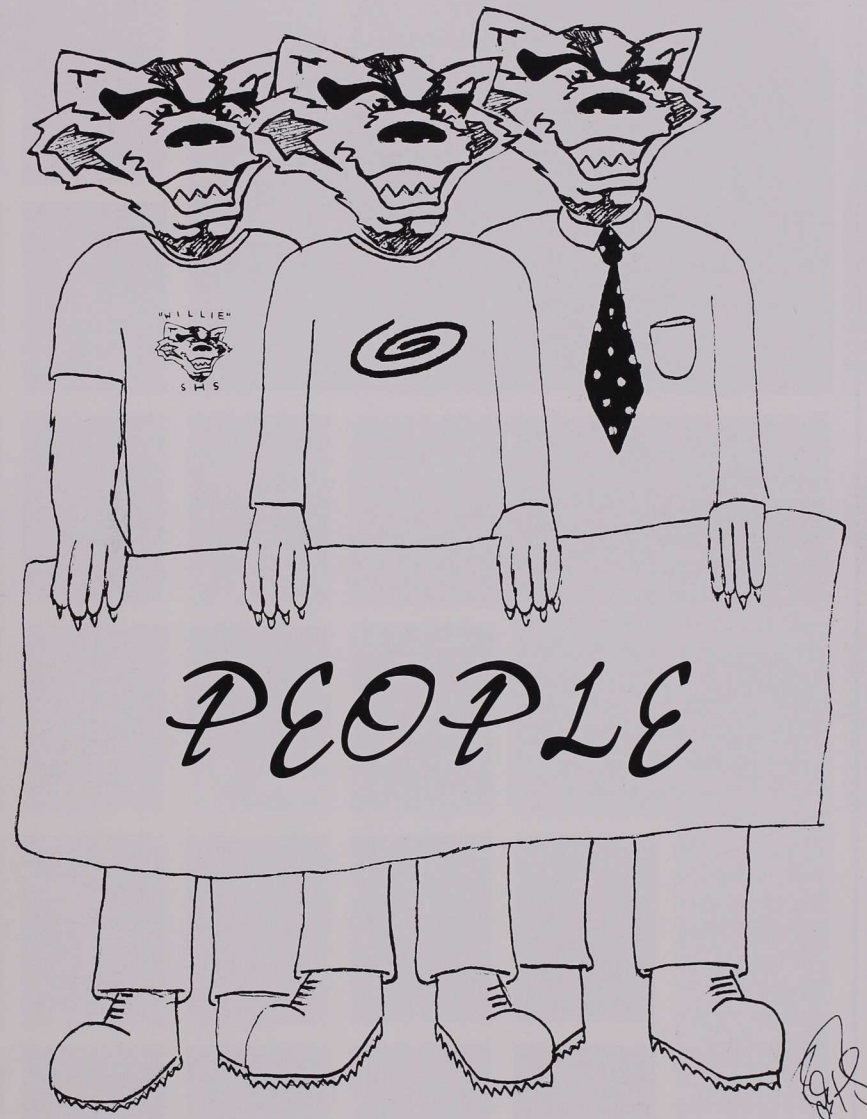

- Steve Means

"I plan on attending Metro State and get a degree in Criminal Law and Psychology and attend Red Rocks police academy."

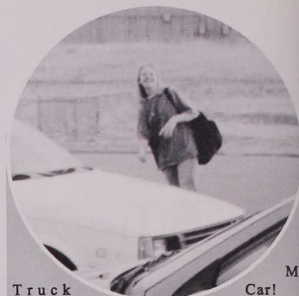

- Aisha Alvarado

"I plan on attending Mesa State to major in physical education, minor in history, and party a lot."

-Pat Johnson

Junior Tiffany

The question is simple: "which do you like better, older or newer cars?" The answer, however, is not so simple. A lot of people prefer the older type of cars because of the old-fashioned, American look. Other people think that the newer a car is the better. Junior Josh Crandall said, "I like the way older cars are built. It seems like all of the newer cars aren't built as well as the older cars. If you had to be in a wreck, which would you rather be in, an old, well built car or a new, plastic-like car?" Junior Robbie Kuoppala had a different point of view. "I like the latest cars because they look better." Most people said it doesn't really matter because they are just happy to be driving an automobile in the first place.

Practice Makes Perfect.

Foreign exchange students take a minute out of AP History to spend time together

This year, Skyview had the privilege of hosting four foreign exchange students at Skyview: Senior Dominik Appe and Junior Felix Herman from Germany, Senior Thibault De Haes from Belgium, as well as Sophomore Mayuko Shibata from Japan.

Senior Erin Woodend believes "foreign exchange students are a great idea because they give us exposure to other cultures." Mr. Robert Gelston commented, "The exchange students are an asset to the atmosphere and a benefit to the classrooms of Skyview High School. I say this because they have an inquisitive outlook on life and academics. Any time we can learn and understand what is different about other cultures, we have benefited individually and as a school."

What would you be...

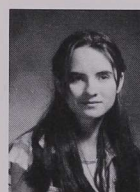

Look at that big rhinoceros at the Denver Zoo wishing he could be something else. (Photo by B. Hull)

What if you had the chance to choose your form of life on this planet? Would you be something different or would you stay the same? Most people that go to Skyview would become something different.

A popular thing to be was another person. Joe Johnson said, "I would be a sports broadcaster so I would be able to get into all the games for free."

Others, however, wanted to become an animal like Marci Weyrough who said, "I would be a lion because he's king of the jungle." People like Christina Allion think of being something different. She thought, "I would be invisible so I can see things that I can't see now." Everybody can dream of being something different, but only a few can make it come true.

There is no excuse...

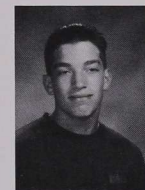

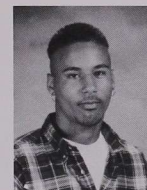

Think Quick!
Junior Christopher Upchurch stalls while he comes up with a better excuse than "because..."

Excuse Me!
There is no better way to leave class than with a good reason. Just ask Ely Lucas, he'll agree.

There were many different kinds of excuses and ways to use them. How many times were students on the spot for a quick excuse and said, "I have all these absences because I was tardy and the teacher forgot to fix it," as Junior Jennifer Disher did? No matter what the reason, there were millions of creative possibilities to get out of sticky situations. A forever faithful excuse that many students used involved pets and their appetites. Junior Julie West attested, "My homework is late because my pig ate it." Having had a lot of practice can't always help to make up the perfect excuse, but it certainly can help. Although excuses aren't always the best way to go, they were very helpful in times of desperate need. Eventually everyone finds the perfect all occasions.

Friends for life...
Juniors Paula Coleman and Dustin Fladung are obviously on their way to the top. These two good friends lean on each other for support and help each other through the hard times.

Smart decisions...
Juniors Desiree Dura and Mandy Pierce spend their free time in after school activities. Rather than get in trouble doing something they aren't supposed to do, they decided to take part in the homecoming parade.

Lunch isn't sacred ...
Pete and Mindy Valdez use their lunch to do some homework. It's not uncommon to see people with their noses in books at lunch. These people have decided to challenge themselves to get the most out of their education

We know that most of the students in Skyview High School will ditch at least one class this year, even though it's against school policy and one might get in trouble for doing it. Some take the time off to get something to eat, others just leave because they have nothing better to do.

But there are a few people who don't waste their time eating at McDonalds or going home to watch cartoons. It's people like this that end up not having to worry about things like the high cost of a college education because they have the opportunity to receive scholarships due to their hard work and efforts toward a better life for the future.

The future of the country depends on today's students. Skyview students should be mature enough to make good decisions. A lot of the students are capable of doing that, if they would quit worrying about what is and isn't popular. It's all within their reach, if they would just reach for it.

The only place to hide...
Chris Marquez finds a hiding place in the band rooms. People, beware!! Mr. Mallinson, Ms. Clark and Mr. Wire are on the lookout for people that think the only safe place is in the band room. Well it's not anymore.

Future plans? Who had future plans when they were sophomores? Actually, a lot of people had thoughts about where they'd like to be and what they'd like to be doing in a few years. Sophomore Heather Wooldridge knew exactly what she wanted. "I'm gonna own a Mitsubishi 3000 GT." Some future plans are a little more realistic than others. Sophomore Billy Russell was a great example: "I want to rule earth and my dog will be vice president." Realistic or unrealistic, future ideas or even just thoughts are important to each individual. Sophomore Carissa Masingale had plans that came from the heart. She said, "What is most important to me now and always will be in the future, is my friends, family, and Nathan Coxsey!!"

Work A way.
As these three ladies wash their hands, they think how much a reward going to class is.

Dazed and Confused.
Junior Sean Flagg sits in science wondering why he came to class anyway.

Some may deny it, but just about everyone ditched a class sometime during their time at high school. For some people, ditching was an everyday occurrence, but there was always at least one class that they always went to. It may have been because of the teacher, the topics covered in the class, or because of friends in the class. Whatever the reason, it was a favorite class and seldom missed.

A class that might have otherwise been ditched could easily be made into a favorite just by the teacher or the other people in the class. Senior Marv Alford said, "I like my gym class because I can beat up on the sophomores."

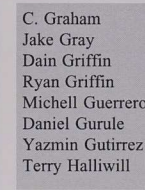

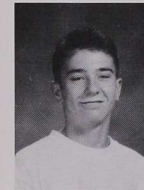

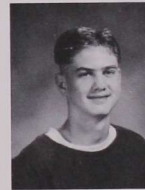

No matter who or what makes it better, we all had classes that were fun.

Sophomore Heather Wooldridge described a buddy as "someone that respects you for your good qualities and will stick by you through hard times." Sophomores look for these qualities in their buddies: a good listener, a good sense of humor, someone who listens to Gospel music, and someone who has similar interests. When asked where she and her buddies hang out, sophomore Amber Barton replied, "Mainly at the mall or anywhere we think we can have fun." Tony Braa said "To have fun we cause trouble and play basketball." Obviously the class of ninety-eight knows that no matter what they do, as long as they're with their friends they'll always have a good time. "There is nothing better than my buddies!" said Nathen Coxsey.

Sophomores and music are like Fric and Frack, constantly seen together! All the sophomores enjoy music; but what type of music is the real question. With all of the different choices of music to listen to, many sophomores go to great lengths to show others their favorite style. Some play their radios loud enough for everyone to hear, while others simply go to concerts and buy every T-shirt they can to display their interest in that group. Either way, most people know the most popular music favored by teens is either rap, heavy metal, hip hop, or a bit of country here and there. Sophomores wouldn't know what to do if there were no music; probably justing to themselves like David Trainer does from time to time.

Why do these things happen to me?

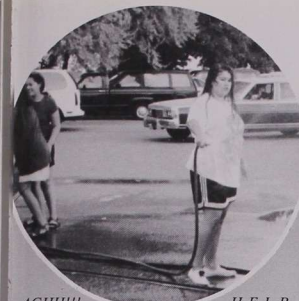

Si-Zu

Have you ever had one of those days where you did something stupid? Everyone has, but do you have the courage to admit it? Sophomore Ryan Griffin said, "I remember the sweet smell of the school toilets. When I was a freshman, seniors used to put me there a lot." Other Sophmores could relate to the problems of embarrassment. Holli Oglesby smiled shyly when she recalls her trip to the lake. "I was on the boat just getting something from my bag when we took a turn and the bag went overboard with all my brother's clothes." Jesse Snyder said, "I've done too many stupid things to mention. I might have to write a book." As he pondered, he became more serious. If he does write the book, some people could wait for the movie. Many people won't admit stupid things they do, even though, many things like walking into lockers and tripping while walking up the stairs, happens all the time.

Because this year was the first for our freshmen, it's quite important to know their opinion about our school. Some of them said: "I really like it. All the people are really nice and friendly. Everyone seems to want to help each other," said Jennifer Bahl. Eloisa Garcia replied, "It's a lot better than I ever thought it was going to be!"

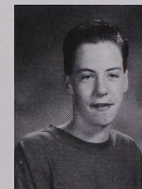

When asked if their opinion has changed any since the beginning of the year, most Freshmen replied that their opinion has remained the same. Leigh Ann Pacheco said, "Before I came I was nervous. Now I feel there is no reason to be." As the freshmen are left to lead the future, it is hoped that they will achieve their goals for change at Skyview.

weekend awaits
them.

Sometimes don't you wish that you had a car or had a friend with a car so you would be able to get around on the weekends? Well that's hard when you're a freshman and just entering high school. What can you do on the weekends if you're a freshmen? You could be lucky and have an upperclassmen friend who would take you out or even an older sibling that would. Freshman Christina Kurtz, likes to spend her weekend time going out with her boyfriend who she doesn't see very often because he goes to a differant school. There aren't many opportunities that you have as a fourteen yearold. You're best option is either to spend a lot of time with your friends or spend a lot of time with your family.

Basic White

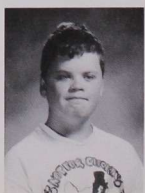

Wearing their spring whites, Freshmen Aaron Herrera and Lisa Espinosa study with style.

When the word 'freshman' was spoken, many frowned and changed the subject, but they don't know everything behind these youngsters. Everybody had their own sense of style and when it came down to freshmen, they were all unique. Like everybody else, they got up in the morning and had to decide what to wear to school.

"I like to dress comfortable," stated Jenny Shoemaker. Many other freshmen agreed that dressing comfortable kept them more at ease in class. Others said that dressing to impress was the way to go. Baggy clothes were always popular with all kinds of students.

"Style depends on the individual," said Mia Silva. This year, there were styles for every individual, even freshmen.

Everyone always remembers the validictorian, the jock, and that stupid little kid that sits in the corner of your first hour. But what about the class clown, the weird faces he makes, the jokes he cracks, and the way he can make you laugh? The Skyview students show their sense of humor everyday in the halls, during lunch, and even in the classroom. Here are a few...

"What did O.J. Simpson say after the trial?-- Can I have my gloves back." Told by Freshman Leigh Ann Pacheco.

"A guy walks into a bar--Ow!" Anonymous
"There are three moles in their holes. The first mole says, 'I smell pancakes!' The second mole says, 'I smell waffles!' The third mole says, 'All I smell is molasses!' "

As you drift from the shores of reality, you are swept to a place filled with unending possibilities; a place where there is unlimited knowledge, infinite emotions, and astonishing situations. Dreams can lure one's mind to believe the vision of the imagination where anything is conceivable. Yet there can also be an opposite, more frightening side to the wonderment.

As you wake from your nightmare in a cold sweat, you try to grasp hold of reality with the terrifying illusion lurking behind in your sleep-filled world. "When I was small, I had a clown that was identical to the clown in Poltergeist. Ever since I first saw that movie, my scariest dreams are about clowns," stated Junior Christopher Sierra.

As eleven new teachers arrived at Skyview this year, many of them were impressed by the old staff. "The Skyview staff has been helpful and the student body very cordial in my first year of teaching here," said Mr. Wichart. When asked how they liked the students at Skyview, most agreed that they were very friendly and easy to work with. "Things are going very well with the students. It has been great fun getting to know them," said Kathleen Kerrigan. Most of the teachers had mixed opinions about whether or not Skyview was better or worse than they had expected. "Both. It's been a rough transfer from my old school as far as getting used to the way things are done here, but I have enjoyed working with the students and staff," said John Reid, new head football coach and math teacher.

New Faces

Top Right: Listen up...Mr. Austin teaches in a serious tone. Do you think he has their attention?

What was the new teacher's opinion of Skyview?

"The first thing I noticed was that the students and faculty care about the issues at the school. That is very important."
-Edward Snyder

"I really enjoy Skyview! Skyview's students really help people feel comfortable to try new things. Every place will have a few problems. You can accept them and adapt, or work hard to change the school so the problems become smaller in scope."
-Dave Sauer

"I enjoy Skyview and working at Skyview. On a scale of one to ten, I'd rate it an eight and a half."

Teachers have social lives?

Do you ever wonder if teachers have social lives? What sort of things do they like to do for fun? What do they do when they get home from school? I'm sure these are all questions Skyview students have thought about at one point or another. When asked this question, teachers gave a variety of responses. "We have friends just like students do! We talk on the phone, go shopping or out to eat. We also have a social life with our families," stated Mrs. Linder, almost defensively. "I like to see a good movie and then go out to dinner. I also enjoy being outdoors," replied Mrs. Woods. What do teachers do when they get home from school? "Check out the sleeze on Oprah," stated Mrs. Maenpaa. Mr. Dorsey said, "I read the mail and take out the dog."

How many times have students heard teachers complain about how long they stayed up last night to grade papers? Teachers are forever dealing with kids asking, "When do I get my paper back?" "Did you grade the tests?" Students never really stop to think that teachers might, although we're not sure, have something better to do! Teachers had to make the next days plan, grade yesterday's papers, and deal with students that believed they knew the world. Teachers put up with many more hassles than students realize. Mrs. Chandler said "Some students are rude and demanding about tests. For example, they expect instant (same day) feedback." We all can learn a lesson from this. Give your teachers a little time and a lot of appreciation because they are always doing unseen work.

The unseen efforts they put in Middle: No one appreciates me!!! Mr. Geske uses his short planning period to grade his students papers.

Top Right: Hey, this is hard work!!! Mr. Gelston is enjoying a telephone call while he is at work.

What's so hard about their jobs?

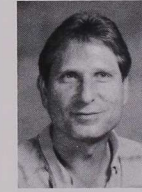

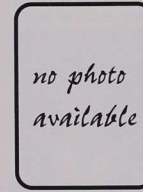

"The hardest part of my job is moody students and students who are chronically absent and demand make-up work."
- Mrs. Chandler

"The hardest part of my job is trying to be everywhere at once trying to help everyone"
-Mrs. Josseland

"The hardest part is putting up with disruptive students and motivating the lazy students."

Most Memorable Moments

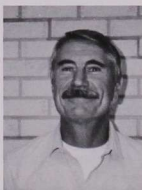

When thinking about the past, memories of good times and bad come to mind. Some memories are hard to believe. Did that really happen? When teachers were asked to share some of these memories, Mr. Mallinson recalled, "My marching band at Butler H.S. in Butler, New Jersey once received a standing ovation from 20,000 people." Mr. Diliberto said "...when we were told that Mapleton High School was closed and Skyview was created." Ms. Chandler recalled, "When a student who had taken a lot of pills came to me and 'confessed.' After a trip to the hospital, he was fine. In fact, he came to visit me last year. He now has a career he loves and children of his own." These were some of the treasured memories of some of our valued teachers.

WHAT'S COOKING? Junior Heather McCubbin, Senior Michelle Conley, Senior Amanda King, Senior Autumn White, and Senior Stacy Jonestry this activity of trust and communication.

What do you like about New Choices?

"I like the people and all the things I learn."
-- Junior Nick Bagley

"I don't like it... I love it! It gives me a chance to be myself and learn to be myself. That, and Tils is awesome."
-- Senior Traci Frazier

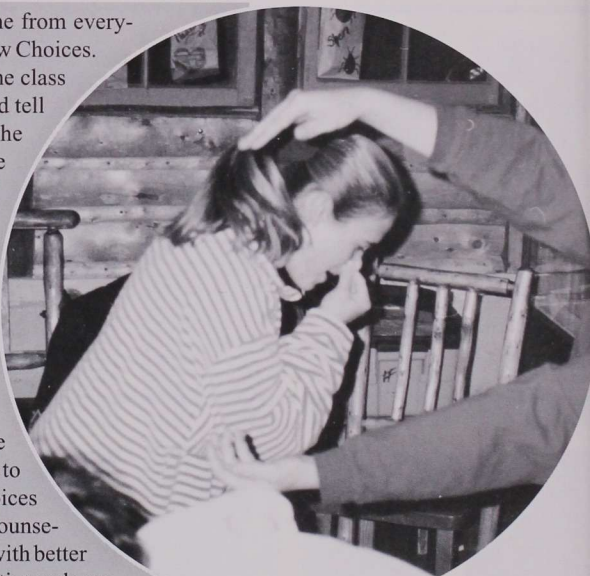

"I like it because it gives me the experience to help people and myself. Thanks to the Peer Counselors."
-- Junior LaLanya Harris

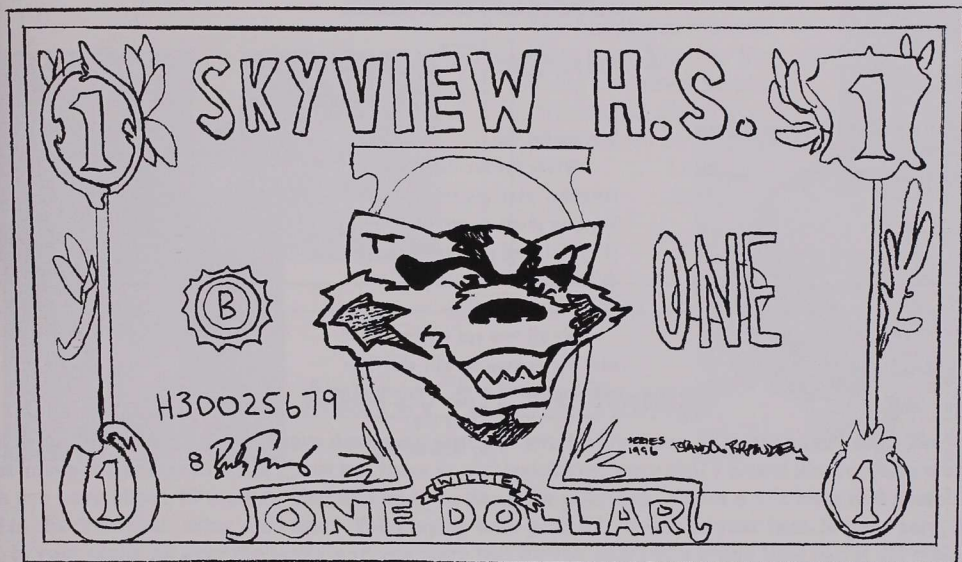

REAL VIBRATIONS!!! Senior Jennie Bean, alumni Tanya Cortez, and Senior Autumn Young sing and dance for their lodge presentation.

STACY THE SKUNK AND AUTUMN THE ALLIGATOR!!? Seniors Stacy Jones and Autumn White get silly to relax before presenting.

Great acclaims came from everyone involved with New Choices. Anyone that was in the class or went to lodge could tell you that. "I like the people and all the things I learn," replied Junior Nick Bagley. For those outsiders, Mr. Tilsley's unique class teaches a variety of skills which most would take for granted. Senior Traci Frazier said, "It gives me a chance to be myself and learn to be myself." New Choices students and Peer Counselors finish the course with better communications abilities and common knowledge of others around them.

Its hard to believe that 18 years have now gone past and what a joy those 18 years have been. There are just so many memories to write about but there is one special memory that I would like to share with you. When you were about 10 months old I had laid you down for your nap. About a 1/2 hour had passed and I went to check on you. What did I find? You playing with your #2. It was in your hair, in your ears, in your nose, in your teeth, all over the walls, and you were just having yourself a grand time and it did make the best mudpies. I picked you up and just hosed you off. You are such a little "Stinker".

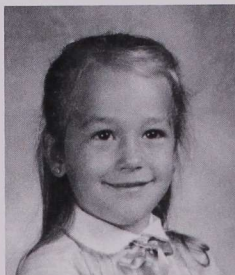

Aubrey, may your life be filled with the joy and happiness that you have given us.

We love you very much,
Mom and Dad (Tony)

*You were six months old, and full of fun,
With a blink of the eye, you were suddenly one.*

*There were so many things we were going to do.
But, I Turned my head and you were two.*

*At two you were still dependent on me,
But independence took over, when you were three.*

*Your third birthday, another year I wished to ignore,
But as I lit the candles, instead there were four.*

*Four was the year you would really strived,
Why look at you now; you're already five.*

*Now you're ready for books and rules.
This is the year that you go to school.*

*The big day came, you were anxious to go,
We walked to the bus, going, oh so slow.*

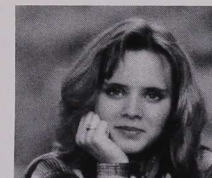

*As the bus drove away, and you waved goodbye,
I felt a lump in my throat, and a tear stung my eye.*

*For when the bus brings you home and you jump to the ground,
You'll be wearing your cap and graduation gown.*

*Time goes by so fast, it's hard to believe,
Why, just yesterday, you were home with me.*

*So I'm holding to these moments, as precious as they are, because the next time I look,
I'll be seeing a graduation star.*

We Love you & are proud of you! Dad, Mom, Kurt, and William

Audra,

You are the last of our three beautiful daughters to graduate and we could not be any prouder of you than we were of the first two. We have had some rough times and a great deal of fun times, but with your personality, the rough times have been easier to handle. These past four years you have shown us your scholastic and athletic achievements with awards you have received and we are very proud of your accomplishments. Your independence and strong willed personality will help you in whatever road you may decide to take and your mom and dad will always be there for you. You will always be daddy's little girl and mommy's angel.

Jamila,
I know it hasn't been easy. We have been through a lot as a family, as well as a father and daughter. Truly you have been my strength. I love you for your compassion and honesty and courageousness. You've been there for me, and at times I haven't been around. Hopefully your faith in me hasn't totally diminished. I know some days are better than others. Just because we are a lot alike smile. There's nothing wrong with being aggressive and out-spoken. If you don't say what's on your mind who will know? Bottom line: you're the tops and you've got SKILLS. They can't take any of that from ya. Haaaaah! Word-up!

Love Ya,

Tara,

As you can see it's our senior year, and people say that after we graduate we will part. That's not true, though. You and I will always be sisters and best friends. You probably know me better than anyone in the world. We have had so many great times to remember forever, also a few bad ones that will always stay in our minds until eternity. Like I always tell you, "good luck in everything you do, and I'm always here for you."

Love ya,

No matter what, though, I wish you the best of everything in life. Thanks for everything. I love ya!

Buck,

While all these achievements may seem to say it all, nothing can express how proud you have made us. You have become a model student and athlete for all Skyview students (and your little brother) to follow. Thank you for four wonderful years. We know Skyview is not the end, but only the beginning on your journey for success. You will accomplish what you set out to do. Wherever your road bends, we will be there to support you 100%.

Tear 'em up!

All our love, Mom, Dad and Benj

Well Girls, this just happens to be a special occasion, but to tell you the truth, it doesn't take much to be thankful for our freindship. (Pat) I'll miss you more than you'll ever know when you leave for Western, but with everything we went through last year, I know we can handle it. Just don't forget me! (Rita) Anytime you need a coat to keep you warm, you know who to turn to. I'll always be here to help warm those cold days. Last, but certainly not least, Tracy. You mean more to me than words could ever explain. Sometimes I forget just how lucky I am to have you, but, needless to say, your smile is an endless reminder. Everyone talks about their "best friends", But nothing compares to this. The days that we share together are precious, and though our future is still pretty hazy, our memories are everlasting. I love you guys!

Stacy

To: The Brat Pack,

This was our last year of high school and I'm so happy we had the chance to become such good friends. Ms. Stacy, you are one of the sweetest girls I know. I wish you the best of luck in the future. Remember that I'm here for you! Ms. Tracy, your such a unique person and that's what I love most about you. I want to thank you for always giving me the best advice possible, we really don't need those men. Just remember, I'll babysit anytime! Ms. Patricia, you're one of the best chie! Just remember all of our fun weekend nights driving around! I hope our college years are the same as our high school years. Always remember Alanis will live forever. Don't you guys ever forget the memories we will have. I love you all!

Rita

To: The Brat Pack~

Look how quick our last four years went by! I just want to start by thanking all three of you for all of the great laughs. (Stacy)~ Well, we go way back. You mean so much to me, you're like my guiding light. I am going to miss all of our long talks after a bad day at school. You always seem to know where I'm coming from. I will never forget all of our years together and how much they have meant to me. (Rita) ~ I can honestly say I understand and know where you are coming from when we have our talks about those stupid boys. It feels like we have been through the same situations and can relate. I want to wish you the best of luck in all you do. And remember I am always going to be here when you need to talk. (Pat)~ What a rough two years we have went through. I mean with my driving and all. I will never forget the good times we have had from dyeing my hair to trying to get your car up 84th with two gears. I will never forget you three. I wish you all the best in life. I love ya!!

Tracy

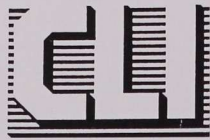

Fellow Brats,

The past four years have been full of both good and bad times. But you guys have been there through it all. I don't know what's going to happen in the future. When Stacy becomes a Designer, or Rita becomes a high-paid psychologist, and Tracy as an elementary teacher. I just hope you guys remember the friendship us four have shared, and always know that our friendship will be in our hearts. Promise me you guys will always think back to these past years and REMEMBER! I love you guys and thanks for the memories.

*Second Creek
Econo Track Champion
1994 & 1995*

We've watched you grow through all these years
Through all the laughter, and all the tears.
So now you're ready to spread your wings,
And try lots of new, exciting things!
It's no secret - the challenge you're facing...
To be the best at stock car racing!
It's clear to us, at nothing will you stop;
Passing all of your opponents on the fast track to the top!
You know, we want each victory to be so very sweet,
And hopefully you'll never know the agony of defeat!
Of course it will be lots of work, and it will take some time-
But in the end, we both know that you will do just fine!
The road may be rough, with no two races ever the same;
And probably not every race will end in Victory Lane.
But remember-don't be discouraged! Even if it seems
As if nothing's going right - just hold on to your dreams!!
Always try to remember, every time you fall
You must get up and forge ahead-don't look back at all!
Follow your heart, and use your head as you race along.
Keep your momentum going, and your motor running strong.
Your destiny is in your hands, it is plain to see-
And only you can get yourself to where you want to be!
We'll always be behind you, every step of the way,
As you're racing forwards, to that very special day.
When you can say, without a doubt, what we already know-
"Look you guys! I made it! I'm the star of this here show!"
So set out, young man, and speed ahead towards this special goal.
Put everything you've got in it - all of your heart and soul.

GOOD LUCK CHAMP!

WE LOVE YOU!

In Loving Memory Of Frankie Dean

We miss you Frankie!
We miss the way you laughed. We miss the way you smile. We miss things you did and things you said to brighten up our day, but one thing we miss the most is having you around! All your homies will never forget you, you will always be in our hearts and minds.
We will never forget the way you were so kind and gentle, you had the heart everyone wished they had,
and that memory will always be with us and no one will ever take your place in our hearts. We pray for you every night that you are resting in peace and we know God will always watch over you. We love and miss you Frankie.

We pray for his family
everyday and we know God
must have heard us by now.
We all felt an answer in our hearts. All though He hasn't spoke a word. We didn't ask for money or gold we knew they wouldn't mind, so we asked Him to send treasures of a far more lasting kind. We asked that he'd be near his family at the start of each new day.
So please grant them health, strength, and blessings. We also asked God for happiness and success in everything they do, and what we prayed for most of all was His loving care.

In loving memory of Frankie Dean and thoughts and prayers are dedicated to his parents!

We miss you,
Pia, Brenda &
Zulma

More Than Meets The Eye

As the last moments slowly slip away, the students of Skyview High School feel a way of life disappear into the realm of memories. Something strange tugs at our hearts and a lump forms in our throats as the seniors move their tassels across their caps. The last bell sounds through the hallway to say good-bye to yet another year.

The memories and the moments that we shared throughout the year are a special part of what we hold dear. Take a look at the days gone by, remember when we laughed and cried, celebrating a champion and mourning those who have died. Skyview was always more than what it appeared to be. It was a place where we came to compete, love, challenge, understand, and learn. It wasn't just a high school, it was a group of people who shared in the process of growing and maturing. It was a place of discoveries, tragedies, victories and defeats. So, let's remember Skyview as it is today. Don't let the memories just fade away. Keep them locked up inside, and you'll always have something to hide, something special about this year, something you'll always hold dear.

Skyview has watched us grow, and made us aware of important things, and soon the bells will no longer ring. The events that stay closely tucked away are those of the days when we hated going to school and wanted nothing to do with the golden rule. Skyview has given us the hope to carry on and a little bit of life to grow on. We can only repay its kindness and care through the memories and moments that we all did once share.

So as the clock winds down, we go without a sound. Put a smile on your face and remember the place where you made friends, and friends made you, and there was always something to look forward to. With these thoughts we come to an end. Just keep one thing in mind, you were the one that helped make Skyview more than meets the eye!

FRIENDS TILL THE END!!!

One thing all will remember after years have passed is their various friendships.

PARTING WORDS...

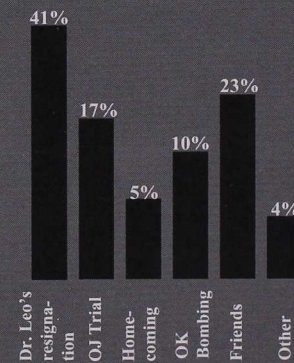

Dr. Leo's resignation surprised quite a few people. "It's hard for students to have to continually readjust, but I firmly believe that I am doing what's best for all of us. We have learned a lot this year, and must continue to learn."

GROUPING TOGETHER.

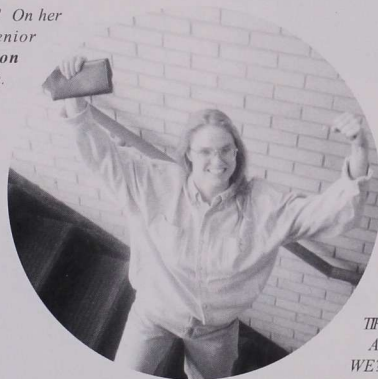

For this group of seniors, and many others, Homecoming 1996 was one of the best things to happen all year. It brought the school together as never before.

What will you remember the most about 1995-96?

The 1996 Yearbook Staff would like to give special thanks to:

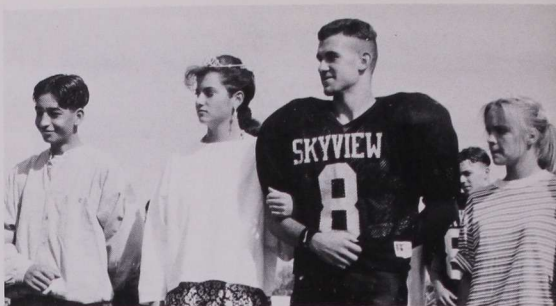

Mr. Byrd and Mr. Newton, for stepping in and becoming our advisors this year.

Jay Klinkerman, Carol Hill and Gary Cordray, for helping us get through this yearbook.

Our parents, for staying up late on the days we had deadlines.

Our custodians, for keeping the school open on those deadlines.

And to anyone we forgot to mention.
